U.S.-Soviet Disarmament Talks End As Kennedy Recalls Envoy

Army Plans New Camps For Training

Expansion Of 10 Existing Centers Also Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will expand 10 training centers and set up two new ones to carry out its rapid buildup to 1,008,000 men under President Kennedy's West Berlin preparedness plan, it was disclosed Saturday.

The Army declined to identify the sites of the two new centers but they were expected to be Fort Carons, Colo., and Camp Chaffee near Fort Smith, Ark. Chaffee has been closed for several years.

CENTERS LISTED

The training facilities to be expanded are Fort Dix, N. J., Fort Jackson, S. C., Fort Knox, Ky., Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Fort Sill, Okla., Fort Ord, Calif., Fort Sam Houston and Fort Bliss, Texas, Fort McClellan, Ala., and Fort Gordon, Ga.

The Army said it will take over the training load previously carried by three divisions of the Strategic Army Force (STRAF) in this country. Those divisions will be brought quickly to full combat strength and readiness.

At first glance, when Kennedy announced his military buildup plan, the Army did not seem to get an increased number of combat divisions. The fact is, however, that only 11 of the total 14 Army divisions have been kept combat ready over the last several years.

Now all 14 will be fully up to strength. In effect, the strategic reserve kept in this country will be doubled from three to six divisions. Eight divisions are overseas—five in Europe, one in Hawaii and two in Korea.

With the buildup at home, the Army will be in position to move additional divisions to Europe in a hurry if needed.

Two Youths Face Counts Of Murder

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—Authorities here Saturday filed first degree murder charges against 14-year-old James Stapler and his 11-year-old cousin William Earl Franks in the slaying of a postman at Grant.

Circuit Solicitor W. D. Wilkes Jr. filed the charges which could carry the death penalty for the Stapler boy if he is tried and convicted as an adult.

OTHER CHARGES

Robbery charges were also filed against both boys accused of stealing money from the slain rural mail carrier, shooting him and setting his car on fire.

Stapler, whose alarm Wednesday brought fire engines to the burning automobile of Joseph R. Thompson, 36, was jailed when his cousin implicated him in the death, according to Sheriff Warren Jones.

Wilkes said Franks will be tried as a juvenile while authorities may decide to try Stapler as a juvenile also.

The youths told officers they had planned for some time to commit a robbery, originally singling out a milkman as their intended victim. The postman was substituted after the milk delivery man changed routes, the youths said.

The planning, done mostly by the elder cousin according to the sheriff, came to a head Tuesday night and Wednesday was decided on as the day for carrying it out.

Franks told the officers he hid behind bushes near a mailbox where he had raised the flag to indicate a mail pickup, and when

U.S. Bolsters Europe Bases

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—The Air Force is bolstering the strength of its European bases with weekly flights of supersonic F105 Thunderchiefs.

Some details of Operation High Flight were disclosed Saturday by the Mobile air Material Area Command at Brookley Air Force Base. The command is charged with prime logistic responsibility for the Thunderchief.

The stubby-wing F105 fly nonstop to Bitburg, Germany. From there they are distributed as replacements for the F100 Super Sabres, long the backbone of the Tactical Air Command.

The flights take 9½ hours and the speedy F105s are refueled by aerial tankers over the Atlantic.

Spending Cut Bid Fails In U.S. Senate

Economy Effort Tuned Back In Saturday Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Saturday turned back efforts to slash $72 million from a multi-billion-dollar appropriation bill.

The efforts at economizing — and speeches by senators on other subjects—kept to a minimum Senate action at this rare Saturday session.

In calling the Senate to meet Saturday, leaders had hoped to get action on two giant appropriations bills. At the end of the day action on even one measure was far from completed.

EFFORTS FAIL

One bill includes $9,932,614,500 in appropriations for the civilian space agency and 19 other independent federal agencies. Included is $549 million asked by President Kennedy to speed along the moon project.

The other bill—the Senate never got around to it Saturday—would provide $5,161,380,000 for the Welfare and Labor departments.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., led the economy efforts. He offered an amendment to cut back to Kennedy's budget request every item in the $9-billion-plus bill which the Senate Appropriations Committee had increased.

With defense spending on the rise, Proxmire said, "We can afford only essential programs if we are to keep any semblance of order in the federal budget."

A motion by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., to table—kill—Proxmire's amendment carried by a 46-25 vote.

Proxmire's amendment would have effected savings of $59,761,000 in nine different items in the bill. He said he assumed his amendment would have pleased the White House because Kennedy has asked Congress not to exceed his budget requests.

Earlier, the Senate defeated by a 35-35 tie vote an effort to knock out $12 million for research work aimed at development of supersonic passenger planes.

Winds, Rains Pound Areas; Several Hurt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadic winds and heavy rains pounded the Lancaster-York area in eastern Pennsylvania Saturday, damaging homes and barns and flattening crops.

The Weather Bureau said the "evidence pointed to one or more possible tornadoes."

A spokesman for the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. described the storm as worse in that region than the destructive hurricane Hazel in 1954.

Several persons were injured. House trailers were overturned and trees were toppled.

Rain drenched most of Pennsylvania. Some of Philadelphia's streets were flooded and motorists were stranded.

Reading, Pa., was doused by three inches of rain.

Showers and thunderstorms broke out along a line that extended from the Upper Ohio Valley across Pennsylvania into New York.

Three inches of rain fell in Millville, N.J.

ON TUNISIAN CRISIS

Meet Of General Assembly Sought

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Asians and African countries moved Saturday night to bring the Tunisian crisis before an emergency meeting of the General Assembly after the Security Council failed to agree on any new action to foster last week's cease-fire.

Nathas Barnes, the Liberian delegate, notified the 11-nation council that steps would be taken immediately to seek an emergency meeting of the assembly. A majority of its 99 members must join in the request.

Barnes took the floor in a tense meeting after the council rejected in quick succession each of the three proposals before it. One by Turkey and was sponsored by backed by Western powers. were sponsored by The other The United Arab Republic, Ceylon and Liberia.

PROPOSALS KILLED

No vote was cast since all the proposals were killed when they failed to receive the seven affirmative votes required. The Turkish proposal fell one short of approval after Turkish delegate Turgut Menemencioglu withdrew a key paragraph which the Soviet Union had threatened to veto, if necessary. The other two resolutions received only four affirmative votes—those of the sponsors and the Soviet Union.

France did not participate in either the debate or the voting.

Just before the council adjourned, Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov declared: "Further nonfulfillment by France will have grave consequences for which the government of France will bear grave responsibility."

Morozov tried unsuccessfully to have the Turkish resolution amended to place the blame on France for the fact the cease-fire had not been fully carried out. The Soviet amendment was defeated by a vote of 4-0 with six countries abstaining.

Two Cubans Free Selves From Castro

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two Cubans who came here as members of a prisoner delegation to negotiate a swap of tractors for nearly 1,200 fellow captives gave up on their mission Saturday — but "freed" themselves.

They said they would return to Cuba only to fight Prime Minister Fidel Castro, but would not go back to Havana on Monday, the deadline after more than a month of freedom here.

Their eight fellow-prisoner emissaries denounced the "defeatism" of Mirto Collazo and Reinaldo Pico, both 27, and derided them for not keeping their pledge to Castro that they would return.

The eight discussed the situation for four hours, then announced they would proceed to Havana Monday as scheduled. They expressed confidence their fellow prisoners will be freed.

The Cuban Families Committee for Liberation, which took charge of tractor fund collections after a committee including Eleanor Roosevelt gave up on the deal, denounced the defection of Collazo and Pico as "defeatist, self-interested and malicious."

McCloy Ordered Back To Report Position Changes

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia and the United States broke off their disarmament talks Saturday so U. S. disarmament adviser John McCloy could fly to Washington and report on changes in position on both sides.

McCloy, who has spent two days talking with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on the Berlin situation, was recalled by President Kennedy. He said this did not imply any unpleasantness but that "events make it desirable for me to get home."

There was no indication what the events were. Both the United States and the Soviet Union in recent days have announced an arms buildup because of tension over Berlin. Khrushchev, in his talks with McCloy at a Black Sea resort, did not yield an inch on Berlin.

CONSULTATION

"There has been a certain change in the Soviet position that requires consultation at home and perhaps some future exchanges with our allies," McCloy said. "We are not able to act as an agent for them. There also has been a change in our position that we must review."

McCloy has been in Moscow since July 17 for a scheduled two weeks of disarmament talks with Soviet negotiator Valerian Zorin. Both negotiators said Saturday the disarmament talks would be resumed at a place and date to be announced later.

McCloy told reporters the next discussions probably will be held either in Washington or New York before the next session of the United Nations General Assembly in September.

He stressed that the Moscow negotiations have been "helpful" and said "although we have not reached an agreement I am hopeful that further exchanges might bring one about."

The McCloy - Zorin discussions were to make arrangements for the calling of a multi-nation disarmament conference and were a

U.S. Is Accused Of Massing For Aggression Act

HAVANA (AP)—The Fidel Castro government placed the hijacked Eastern Air Lines plane case in the lap of the U. N. security Council Saturday.

The decision announced by the Foreign Ministry appeared aimed at avoiding a showdown between the United States and Cuba over the fate of the $3.5 million Lockheed Electra plane.

ACCUSES U. S.

A Foreign Ministry note to the United Nations accused the United States of massing forces for an "imminent military aggression" against Cuba, using the plane incident as an excuse for its plans.

It contended that elaborate military preparations were being made in the Caribbean area under U.S. leadership and claimed these plans could set off "a conflagration of unforeseen consequences."

"Cuba is not alone," the note said in an obvious reference to expected Soviet Union support.

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a news conference Friday he expected a reply within 48 hours on a State Department demand for return of the plane to the United States.

He declined to spell out what course the United States would take if Prime Minister Castro failed to return it. But he rejected a Castro proposal to exchange the airliner for a U. S. promise not to impound Cuban planes flown to the United States.

TRIES TO SHOOT OFFICER

Suspected Double Murderer Nabbed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A Dayton couple were slain in their home Saturday, and about five hours after their bodies were discovered the suspected murderer was picked up at Miami, Fla.'s International Airport and subdued as he tried to shoot an officer.

The suspect, O. C. Jackson, 41, was standing in a crowd of about 150 Cuban refugees awaiting arrival of a flight from Havana. One of the refugees, Evaristo Rodriquez Savon, told authorities that Jackson allegedly was going to hijack an airplane and take it to Cuba. This led to Jackson's arrest.

The slain Dayton couple, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Larken, were shot in their fashionable ranch-type home. Jackson worked for a car rental service in Dayton, of which Mrs. Larken, 51, was general office manager. Larken, 47, worked for National Cash Register Co. here as an office equipment repairman.

In Miami, where Dayton authorities had sent a murder warrant for Jackson's arrest, the suspect admitted the slaying to Dade County officers.

Dayton police said Jackson was fired from his job by Mrs. Larken either Thursday or Friday.

Both the Larkens were killed with multiple gunshot wounds in the head. Mrs. Larken was found on the patio at the rear of her home; her husband's body was in the living room.

The bodies were discovered by a neighbor.

Police here said Jackson boarded a 9:10 a.m. Delta Airlines flight to Miami, arriving there at 2 p.m.

While at Miami's International Airport he mingled with the crowd of Cuban refugees and

$3,000 In Gems Here Disappear

Police Saturday were investigating disappearance of approximately $3,000 worth of jewelry and diamonds from an elderly West Monroe woman's home on Ludwig street while she was ill and staying at the home of a daughter.

Mrs. Mary J. Peters of 110 Ludwig St., West Monroe, told police the valuables, including three dinner rings, her wedding rings, an antique brooch and other items, were taken from her jewelry box.

Mrs. Peters, a Yugoslavian immigrant of 1907, has lived at that address for 37 years. The jewelry had been accumulated over the years. She said she has been away from her home for about two weeks and the valuables were taken during this period.

They were described as a platinum bar pin, white gold with a design of a bird with small diamonds in it, valued at $75; an $800 white gold ladies dinner ring; a yellow gold $25 ladies dinner ring; a yellow gold man's dinner ring with a black stone, valued at $75; a $25 platinum stick pin; a set of white gold wedding rings with a pear shape set encrusted with diamonds and valued at $1,595; and an antique contained declarations blaming France.

Morozov objected particularly to a provision in the original Turkish resolution calling for negotiations between France and Tunisia over their differences, including the dispute over the big French naval base at Bizerte.

The Russian called this a fraud and insisted that the council must call specifically for talks on liquidation of the base. Turkey dropped the paragraph under threat of a Soviet veto.

The six members voting for the revised Turkish resolution abstained on the others. They were the United States, Britain, Nationalist China, Chile, Ecuador and Turkey.

The voting lineup was the same as last Saturday on revival resolutions. At that time, however, the council was able to agree on the cease-fire order, approving it 10-0.

After Saturday afternoon's session, Barnes told newsmen he would call a meeting of the 46 Asian-African countries on Monday to seek signatures on a request for an emergency assembly. Some delegates, however, doubted whether the required 50 signatures could be obtained.

The Soviet bloc, Yugoslavia and Cuba were expected to join in the move, but a substantial number of the Africans and Asians were cool toward the idea. This was especially true of most of the Africans who are members of the French community.

In the council, Morozov welcomed Barnes' announcement. He said he hoped the assembly would condemn France as an aggressor against Tunisia.

The situation briefly was this:

The Asian, Africans and Soviet Union wanted to place the blame directly on France for the continued difficulties in Tunisia and to call on France to negotiate with Tunisia on plans for withdrawing from the big French naval base at Bizerte.

The Western powers were willing to acknowledge that the cease-fire had not been fully carried out and were ready to call for immediate compliance, but they would not go along with any declaration blaming France. The West also objected to any suggestion that France should withdraw from the Bizerte base.

Britain's Sir Patrick Dean told the council the Asian-African resolutions would not have the desired effect of reducing tensions in Tunisia and bringing the two sides together in peaceful negotiations.

"For this reason my delegation will be unable to support them," Dean said. "On the other hand, the resolution submitted by the distinguished representative of Turkey in our view appears at first sight to represent a more realistic approach to the situation."

handed the note to the Security Council president at the United Nations, Ambassador Leopoldo Benites of Ecuador, did not ask for a council meeting. It did ask, however, that the note be circulated to members.

(State Department officials in Washington said there would be no comment on the Cuban note until they see the text.)

A Cuban gunman last Monday trained a pistol on the pilot of the Electra, bound from Miami to Tampa, and forced him to fly to Havana. The 32 passengers and five crewmen were released Tuesday.

The note, prepared on Castro's instructions, said Cuba wished to point out a "grave risk to international peace."

It claimed that the United States has "extraordinarily increased" the size of its regular forces at the U. S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

But "the biggest concentrations of invasion forces are in Helvetia Ranch (Guatemala), Vieques Island (Puerto Rico) and the Panama Canal Zone," it added.

Anti-Castro Cuban forces which scrambled on Cuban shores in an abortive invasion attempt last April are generally believed to have grouped in Guatemala and jumped off from Vieques.

The note also contended that both American and anti-Castro Cuban troops were involved in the alleged Guantanamo Bay buildup.

The Cuban government, the note continued, seeks to deprive the United States of any pretext of an invasion. Accordingly, it said, Cuba has decided to "put under Security Council jurisdiction the North American Electra plane so that body would decide, whatever it confirms, what should be done."

The wording failed to spell out clearly whether Castro would abide by any council decision if it should consider the case.

The Electra was the second American airliner to be hijacked and flown into Cuba. The other, a National Air Lines Convair, was taken over May 1 by a gun-wielding Cuban over the Florida Keys. The Convair and the 10 persons aboard were held only a matter of hours.

The U. S. demand that the Electra be returned was forwarded by the Swiss Embassy, which has handled American affairs in Havana since the United States broke relations with Cuba last January.

Washington authorities estimated that more than 10 Cuban planes, some hijacked and some on planned flights, have been seized in the United States and auctioned during Castro's regime.

These seizures, they contended, were by due legal process and stemmed from private citizens' financial claims against the Castro government. They also estimated that the value of the seized Cuban planes was far less than that of the Electra.

asked one of the exiles, Savon, how one went about buying a ticket for Cuba. Savon became suspicious and told airport officers he thought Jackson was going to hijack a plane.

When Deputy Sheriff James Leeds approached Jackson, the latter pulled a German lugar from a briefcase and thrust it into the officer's abdomen.

Another officer, William James, saw the two talking, spotted the gun and worked his way behind Jackson. James lunged forward and jammed his thumb behind the firing pin just as Jackson pulled the trigger.

The Luger, which police here believe was used to kill the Larkens, held nine rounds of ammunition, and 26 more rounds were found in Jackson's briefcase.

Jackson, who lived in Atlanta, Ga., before coming here in 1958, was charged in Miami with assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer with intent to commit first-degree murder; and also with carrying concealed weapons, and vagrancy.

the mailman stopped his car, ran out and at gunpoint directed him to drive to a deserted area.

He said when the car stopped he took Thompson's watch, several books of stamps and about $25 in cash. Then he shot Thompson, and sounded the horn on the car to summon his cousin.

The sheriff quoted Stapler as admitting he went to the car and handed Franks a pack of matches [illegible] to set fire to the car to "destroy the evidence."

An autopsy showed the mail man, shot three times in the head with .22 caliber bullets, was still alive when the fire was started.

Franks' father described his son as a fan of stories of violence on television and said the shows were the only influence he could name which might have caused the slaying.

Mrs. Peters said yesterday that not only was her jewelry stolen from her house while she was ill but a fire ravaged part of the house last Monday morning.

The house had just been remodeled, she said, and a blaze that started at her refrigerator burned the kitchen wall and part of the ceiling, with the rest of the house being damaged by smoke and water.

The woman who came to this country at the age of 14 said yesterday she was confident West Monroe police would be able to recover her jewelry, some of which has sentimental value.

She said she discovered the jewelry was missing after the fire when her daughter brought back the jewelry box which was kept locked in a cedar closet at her home. The jewelry was not insured, police said. The door to the closet had been pried open.

The West Monroe detective bureau was notified of the theft Friday and since that time has been using all possible means to find the stolen goods.

Numbers of Navy ships and Air Force transport planes are to be expanded for troop movement.

The three Army divisions to be brought up to full strength are the First Infantry, Fort Riley, Kan.; Second Infantry, Fort Benning, Ga., and Second Armored, Fort Hood, Texas. Together they are believed to have no more than 15,000 hard core regular Army men at present. They probably will get 27,000 of the total 133,000 additional men included in the Army's buildup.

The other three divisions in the strategic reserve kept at home for deployment in trouble spots anywhere are the 82nd Airborne, Fort Bragg, N. C.; 101st Airborne, Fort Campbell, Ky., and 4th Infantry, Fort Lewis, Wash.

The Army also plans to bring up to full strength within the continental United States six infantry battalions, three tank battalions, two tank regiments, two air defense missile battalions and five artillery battalions—all reduced in recent years to about one-third strength.

Cuban Invasion Survivors Will Continue Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Survivors of the April Cuban invasion effort who escaped to the United States announced Saturday the formation of a group to carry on the struggle against Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Calling itself the Beachhead Brigade for Cuban Freedom, the group set forth its aims in full-page advertisements in Sunday editions of the Washington Post and New York Times.

The brigade's headquarters will be in Washington and its principal announced aims are:

1. Establishment of a Radio Free Cuba to preach freedom to Cubans under Castro's Communist-aligned rule.

2. Establishment of a program to provide food, clothing and drugs to the approximately 1,200 rebel soldiers who were captured when Castro smashed the mid-April landings.

3. Provision of care for the needy families of these prisoners and those killed in the invasion attempt.

4. Support of continuing underground resistence to Castro inside Cuba.

Jose Manuel Reboso, 27, described as a former Havana architect and a graduate of Georgia Tech, is the brigade chairman.

follow up to similar talks held in Washington in June.

Informed sources said both the Moscow and the Washington talks failed to produce any significant agreement. McCloy, on his return Thursday from the Black Sea vacation resort at Pitsunde, told reporters he still hoped something constructive would come out of the talks with Zorin.

It was understood that Khrushchev called McCloy to Pitsunde this week as a parallel to a call Zorin made at the White House at Kennedy's request.

The Pitsunde meeting was the first between Khrushchev and a high-ranking U. S. official since Khrushchev's summit meeting with Kennedy in Vienna.

Kennedy apparently recalled Mccloy because he wants to get from him some idea of Khrushchev's reaction to the U. S. president's get-tough speech on Berlin.

The televised, nation - wide address so far has brought no official Soviet reaction though Kremlin authorities have privately expressed anger and defiance. The Soviet press called the speech "sabre rattling" and "bellicose" and said it was an attempt to whip up war hysteria as an excuse for intensifying the arms race.

4 Escapees Nabbed, 5th Still Sought

BEACON, N. Y. (AP)—Police with bloodhounds seized four of five madmen who escaped from an insane asylum Saturday and hunted the fifth—a slayer of three women.

The search for the man, Pedro Arroyo, 31, a dapper dandy from New York City's Spanish Harlem, centered in woods about a mile from the Matteawan State Hospital for the criminal insane.

The other four were captured in the same Hudson Valley woodlands scarcely a mile from the hospital.

Arroyo was one of two slayers among the five inmates who escaped from the hospital shortly before midnight Friday night by sawing an iron bar off a washroom window.

The other was Harold Weinberg, who was committed in 1954 in the slaying of Maxwell Bodenheim, 63, known as the Greenwich Village poet laureate, and Bodenheim's 35-year-old wife.

Arroyo was sent to the hospital after admitting to New York police last February that he had killed three women friends in a jealous rage.

"I thought they were cheating on me," the married Arroyo said at the time.

The first two escapees they picked up, less than a mile from the hospital at 3 a.m., were Steve Wuchich, 41, and Walter Pierce, 19. Wuchich had been charged with extortion, and Pierce with burglary and grand larceny.

Forty-five minutes later they found Raphael Batista, 35, who had been committed for violation of the weapons law. Weinberg was picked up at 9:20 a.m.

Winds, Rains Pound Areas; Several Hurt

Lane Tech High School's open air stadium in Chicago during a long band and drum and bugle corps contest sponsored by the Illinois Department of the American Legion. At least seven of the victims were taken to a hospital for treatment.

The temperature was in the upper 80s, and high humidity made the weather all the more oppressive.

The outbreak in Pennsylvania followed storms that pummeled western Ohio and areas in Indiana Friday night.

The winds, ranging in description from tornadoes to squalls, left hundreds of thousands of dollars in damage in Sidney, Troy, Ansonia, Union City and Hilliard, Ohio. At least 17 persons were hurt, none seriously.

Two Women Are Injured On Louisville

Two women were injured neither seriously, when a truck caved in the side of their car at the Louisville Avenue - North 18th Street intersection shortly before 10 p.m. Saturday.

The injured were identified as Mrs. Dorothy B. Barringer, 34 of 209 College Ave. and her teenage daughter Neil "Candy" Barringer of the same address.

Both were taken to the St. Francis Hospital for treatment and unofficial sources said last night that Mrs. Barringer who was driving the car, may have suffered a broken shoulder. Her daughter escaped with only minor cuts and bruises.

The truck, loaded with antiques, was driven by Edward Earl Davis, 28 of Canan Daigua, New York. He told officers that Mrs. Barringer had said she thought the service station located on the north side of Louisville Avenue was open and turned left as if to go onto the station driveway.

No charges had been made in the accident pending completion of the investigation, police said.

Davis said he has an antique store in Dallas, Tex. and was on his way with a load of articles for the store.

Eichmann Trial Near End

JERUSALEM (AP) — Except for the final arguments of the attorneys — and the verdict, the trial of Adolf Eichmann is over.

After 70 trial days, during 25 of which Eichmann was the witness, the world knows this man as it has known few others among the cold leadership and bureaucracy developed by the Nazis in their bloodthirsty pursuit of the Jews. And in the final days of the trial last week, under calm questions from the three judges who must decide his fate, Eichmann probably came to know himself better than he wants to.

The question of whether he lives in prison or dies on the gallows has receded in Israel as those who study the record of the trial consider the deeper meanings of his life.

Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion did not attend the trial although he originally intimated he might.

Justice Minister Pinhas Rosen was in the audience two or three times, Foreign Minister Golda Meir and a few other members of the Israeli government dropped in—but Ben-Gurion refused steadfastly to have a look at the man he considers an arch enemy of his people.

But there is no doubt the prime minister has achieved what he aimed at when he announced in the Israeli Parliament on May 23, 1960, that Eichmann had been captured and brought from Argentina to Israel to be put on trial.

The aim was to tell the world the story of the wholesale destruction of six million Jews by Nazi extermination machinery and to make the younger generation of Israelis more deeply aware of this most tragic chapter in the 3,000-year-old history of their people.

Until the trial opened April 11, Eichmann was jailed in the British-built police fortress at Jalameh near Haifa. For eight months he had seen almost no one but his Hebrew-speaking guards and an Israeli police officer of "Bureau 06" who interrogated him in German about every phase of his past.

What he said was tape recorded, typed out and rechecked by him for errors. It was at this stage Eichmann declared: "Perhaps I should hang myself in public."

WINS BEAUTY PAGEANT

Dutch Model New Miss International

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A graceful Dutch fashion model began her reign Saturday as the new Miss International Beauty with a mild complaint: "My feet hurt."

After hours of standing, parading and only two hours of sleep, she was up early to be fitted with her flowing white gown for the coronation ball Saturday night.

Miss Holland, the first to bring the Long Beach beauty honor to Europe since Miss Sweden won here in 1955, is Stanny van Baer, 19, of Amsterdam, who has liquid brown eyes fringed with dark eyelashes that hypnotize the males.

Miss van Baer, only child of Lilly van Baer, a divorcee and office worker in Amsterdam, still doesn't understand how she won.

"I want to know how they decided," she said as she ate a breakfast of orange juice, poached egg and peaches. "I will go to one of the judges today and ask him."

She won against stiff competition in the finale. The runners-up, in order, were Miss Brazil (Vera Marie Brauner); Miss Spain (Carmen Cervera); Miss Canada (Edna MacVicar); and Miss Iceland (Sigrun Ragnarsdottir).

Miss van Baer, born in Jakarta, Indonesia, promised in her speech Friday night: "I hope to reflect in my actions the dignity of the women of Holland."

While she was being fitted at a local department store Saturday for her ball gown and gift wardrobe, the fitters and salesgirls who crowded around were impressed by her quiet beauty and poise.

She was asked about her ambitions and said: "If Hollywood should think I have talent and could use it, I would be delighted. But I will not go there just to study acting."

Actually, she said she would be quite content to continue modeling clothes and swim suits as a profession.

She said of her $10,000 first prize: "I think I will put it in the bank until I need it. I would like to buy a car—can you get one for that here?"

At breakfast she told her surprised chaperone that she has some gray hairs, and pulled at one to prove it. She said premature graying hair runs in her family.

Former College Grid Star Weds

WEST POINT, N. Y. (AP)—Lt. Pete Dawkins, who went from All-America to a Rhodes scholarship, and Judi Wright of Oxon Hills, Md., made the traditional wedding march under the arched sabers of West Point's cadets Saturday.

Dawkins, 23, and Miss Wright, 22, were married in the cadet chapel by the Rev. Richard A. Busch, rector of Chattanooga's Grace Episcopal church and a former classmate of Dawkins at the U. S. Military Academy.

The bridegroom was voted the outstanding college football player in the nation in 1958, the year he was graduated from West Point. He is now studying at Oxford University under a Rhodes scholarship, and will return there after a European honeymoon.

Dawkins is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Dawkins of Royal Oak, Mich. His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wright of Oxon Hill, Md., and a 1960 graduate of the University of Maryland.

Railroad Shops Fire Loss Set At $250,000

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) —Fire roared through a portion of the Cotton Belt railroad shops here early Saturday and caused damage estimated by railroad officials at $250,000. There were no injuries.

H. J. McKenzie, Cotton Belt president, said the destroyed and damaged facilities would be replaced as soon as possible.

The flames erupted after an unexplained explosion and spread over a frame shed where oil and grease was stored. Also destroyed were a vacant shed, the general car foreman's office and an attached bolt shed. Several pieces of automotive equipment also were destroyed as were two boxcars under repair.

There was extensive damage to a frame and metal car repair shed and to another boxcar.

At least two other explosions followed the initial blast and rocked more than a mile of surrounding area.

Flames roared high into the air and were visible for miles.

Jasper Medaries Dies; Services Set For Today

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Medaries, Grayson; three sons, Jack Medaries, Yazoo City, Miss.; Charles A. Medaries, Vidalia; John A. Medaries, Urania; three brothers, Lonnie Medaries, and Ed Medaries, both of Monroe; Wilbur Medaries, Chattannooga, Tenn.; one sister, Mrs. Ora Collins, West Monroe; three grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the funeral home until time for services.

JFK Enjoys Water Outling With Family

They were accompanied by several others, including the President's brother-in-law Stephen Smith and his wife, Jean Kennedy Smith, both of whom joined Mrs. Kennedy in water-skiing, and K. LeMoyne Billings, a New York advertising executive and long-time friend of the President.

Leaving shortly after noon, the Marlin took only a brief run about a mile from the Kennedy home, anchoring off Great Island in Lewis Bay at the entrance to Nantucket Sound.

Coast Guard boats, police and Secret Service agents in speed boats kept guard.

Mrs. Kennedy tried a bit of water-skiing with the speedy white outboard "Caroline K" serving as towboat. She circled first on two skis and then tried a stunt run on one ski, occasionally lifting her left leg in a knee bend and using only one hand on the tow rope. The feat brought an admiring cry of "look one hand" from some one in a passing boat.

Photographers who followed the Kennedy flotilla on a press boat were asked by a Secret Service agent not to take any pictures. The press watched from several hundred yards away.

Kennedy climbed down the stern ladder of the Marlin and took a swim too before the party had lunch aboard the cruiser.

When they returned to shore, the President, his wife and several of the party rode from the dock in a white golf cart and sat for a few minutes watching a softball game under way on the side lawn of Kennedy's father's house. A number of youngsters and some adults were playing.

Berliners Not Excited By War Talk

BERLIN (AP) — Some people see West Berlin as a grimly armed camp, with a harried population nervously scanning the clouds for missiles. Those are people who have never been here.

Actually, it's a relaxed-looking place. The streets are wide, buildings low, and there are lots of trees and parks.

You might be in any big West German city, handsomely rebuilt from the ruins of World War II. The pace is a bit more leisurely than in Munich or Hamburg and the bars more crowded. But not with Berliners trying to forget the storm over their divided city.

"After all, you can't expect them to sit gibbering in a corner just because something is going to happen," an American official said. "They've got to go on with the business of living."

"And what's the use of worrying about it anyway," a Berliner added, "there's nothing we can do to change it."

There was a placard at Berlin's recent big Protestant rally which quoted Martin Luther:

"And if I knew the world would dissolve tomorrow, I'd still go ahead and plant my little apple tree."

Not many Berliners are planting trees, but gardening is a favorite hobby. The typical Berliner rents a few square yards from the city in a "garden colony," and cultivates flowers and vegetables.

Some Berliners attribute their casual frame, of mind to the knowledge that decisions affecting their lives are not made here but in Washington and Moscow. They consider their island, 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain, militarily indefensible.

They point out that in a showdown, the 11,000 Allied troops here could do little against surrounding forces — 20 Soviet and seven to eight East German divisions.

This doesn't mean they expect the West to sit by if the Soviets move into the city.

"We're grateful to President Kennedy and we count on the Americans to help us out if something pops" a Berliner said.

Others take the view that if there is any fighting, it won't be here.

They reason that neither the Soviets nor the Western Allies will drop atomic bombs on Berlin for fear of hurting their respective friends.

Still others hold to the view a bricklayer gave:

"If a war starts here, we're sunk and that's that. If it starts some other place, it dosen't matter because we've got just as good a chance to survive here as elsewhere."

'Navarone' Film Coming August 6

35th Guard Unit Ready To Fight

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (UPI)—The men of the 35th National Guard Division admit they don't completely understand what the Berlin crisis is all about. But they're ready to fight for Berlin if they have to.

The famed 35th, composed of guard units from Kansas and Missouri, is undergoing two weeks of regular summer training here. An old comrade, former Capt. Harry S. Truman of the division's Battery D, was also in camp talking with the troops about Berlin.

The unit was in the field when President Kennedy last Tuesday told the nation that United States military might must be stiffened and its fighting men must be ready to meet any threat of Russian aggression in Berlin.

There are those in the 35th who feel some units of the division will be activated because of Berlin. No one believes the entire units will be called to active duty.

No Word Yet

Maj. Gen. Joe Nickell, Kansas Adjutant General, put it this way:

"We haven't heard a thing from Washington — except the president's address and what we have read in the newspapers and heard over the radio. it would take too much to get this division ready for combat and we are at only 60 per cent of fighting strength."

Nickell said the division has trained "with unusual zeal and determination this summer, but there wasn't any step up by the troops after the president spoke.

"These boys are deadly serious about training—after all they're all volunteers and they wouldn't be here unless they wanted to be here in the first place."

But one soldier, S.5 Mark Dull of Kansas City, Kan., frankly admits he wishes he were in the Navy. Dull is a 22-year-old graduate student studying advertising at the University of Kansas.

"If I had it to do all over again, I'd have joined the Navy," he said. "And if this Berlin situation gets any worse, I'm going to sign up for OCS (Officers' Candidate School). That's a better deal than being an enlisted man." Dull has been in the Guard for five years.

Specialist Robert Kelley, 25, Topeka, wanted the U.S. to move now.

"We've been fooling around too long," he said. "We ought to go in now with troops and clean up this mess." Kelley is a salesman for a lumberyard and has been a guardsman for three years. He is married.

The 35th Guardsmen fall into three categories—those like Kelley who had six months with a regular Army unit, those who have always been in the Guard undergoing weekly drills with two weeks of summer training, and fulltime guardsmen who man the armories in Kansas and Missouri.

There is also a sprinkling of Regular Army officers and enlisted men who act as advisors.

The civilian jobs of the guardsmen range all the way from deputy sheriff to newspapermen.

Pvt. Louis Bertani, 22, St. Louis, Mo., works for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch as a copy boy on the financial desk.

"I hope we don't go to war, but if we do I'm ready to fight," he said.

First Sgt. Manuel Favignano, 47, also of St. Louis, is a deputy sheriff. He is a World War II combat veteran of North Africa, Italy, France and Germany.

"This business about Berlin is just another round of fencing in the cold war period," he said. "But my troops are very serious about this training business and they are ready to go if called."

Some guardsmen with wives and children had sober second thoughts.

A Kansas City, Mo., policeman who asked that his name not be used said "we've already got two children and my wife is expecting a third. It would kill my wife if I were called away now."

From Staff Sgt. Donald Sumpter, 48, Columbia, Mo., who has been in the army for 14 years and fought in the Pacific Theater during World War II:

"It would be hard but if we have to go, we have to go."

None of the soldiers discussed political aspects of the Berlin situation and none mentioned the words "Republican" or "Democrat."

Men of both political faiths listened attentively to former President Truman address the division just before lunch Saturday.

The sun was hot and the humid air was oppressive as Truman faced 9,000 men standing at attention on the parade ground.

"I hope all of you go home," the ex-captain said, "and continue your military education, and continue to be part of what in my opinion is the greatest division in the history of the world.

"The President, and the president alone, decides what should be done in a military way. And when he makes that decision, that is the way it will be done."

Immediately after the meeting there was a meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Farm Loan Association with Fred Miller of Waterproof presiding and Paul Juster of the Federal Land Bank as the featured speaker.

Soviets Will Display Sea Power Today

MOSCOW (AP)—Western naval attaches flew to Leningrad Saturday for a display Sunday of Soviet sea power. The show was heralded by a warning in Pravda, the Communist party paper that the United States is no longer safe from naval attack.

Experts believe the Soviet Union will show an atomic submarine for the first time.

They also expect to see a guided missile surface ship.

There is a possibility that the Soviets may show a new 10,000-ton vessel which floats on an air cushion.

The sea show, diplomats here said, is another power play in the war of nerves over Berlin.

They expect the naval parade in Leningrad's Neva River to be the maritime equivalent of the Moscow air show earlier this month which introduced a bewildering array of bombers, fighters and transports.

Adm. Sergei G. Gorskhov, navy commander in chief, boasted in Pravda of the air cushion vessel, which he said would be used on the sea and over ice in hte arctic. But it was impossible to tell from the article whether the craft is already in commission.

Gorshkov declared that the United States is no longer safe from naval attack.

"It is worth the while of the most zealous lovers of military adventures in the West to take thought of the fate of their coasts and extremely extended communications and to remember that the traditional invulnerability of America has been abolished," the admiral said.

"The fighting possibilities of the (Soviet) navy have been considerable enhanced by an increase in the striking power of submarines.

"The Soviet Union has atomic submarines equipped with the most powerful rockets of various types. These submarines are faster than the American ones and there are more of them."

In Washington, the U. S. Navy declined comment. The United States pioneered the use of nuclear power in submarines. It has a fleet of such long-range craft, capable of firing Polaris missiles from hidden positions beneath the surface of the sea.

A 1961 Swedish Navy Yearbook, Marinkalendern, lists two Soviet atomic submarines as presumably ready for service and three believed to be under construction.

A Swedish navy expert said the first Soviet atomic-powered submarines were expected to run about 2,800 tons, compared with 3,200 tons for the first U. S. atomic sub, the Nautilus.

Informed Stockholm sources said the Soviet Union is known to have tested a number of guided missiles fired from submarines.

The best known types are the Comet I and the Comet II. The Comet I is reported to have been fired from a submarine in submerged position. The sources estimated its range at 100 miles.

By their account the Comet II—the Soviet answer to the Polaris—has a speed of about 2,800 yards a second and a range of 600 miles.

Grain Market Changes Small

CHICAGO (AP)—Lively flurries of buying and selling pushed the grain futures market over a fairly broad range this week, but it finished generally with relatively small changes on the Board of Trade.

The only outstanding exception was September soybeans, which attracted a brisk revival of speculative interest in the government report of stocks in all positions as of July 1.

The report was all in favor of the bulls and brought out their almost unanimous support in Tuesday's transactions, when prices advanced 2½-5¾ cents a bushel. It was the most active day of the week.

Brokers said the report of 94.1 million bushels in all positions was less than the disappearance of soybeans during the July-October final quarter of the last crop year and probably was a warning of a tight supply during the final few weeks if none of the new crop becomes available during September.

Progress At Tech Traced

RUSTON (Special) — Numerous signs of progress figured in the news of Louisiana Tech during the 12-month period now nearing an end with the closing of the summer session.

Three high enrollment records for corresponding terms were established, continued expansion of the physical plant was noted and preliminary plans for other buildings were made, the graduate program was enlarged and the college acreage was increased.

The federal government deeded to Tech 157 acres of surplus forest land in Webster Parish, making the grounds of the college total 689½ acres.

Work was started on the $684,000 air-conditioned library building, which almost was completed during the school year.

Annual meetings of the Louisiana Music Teachers Assn., the Louisiana College Conference and the State Music Festival were held at the college.

With an enrollment of 3,720 students, an all-time high record was set in the fall semester.

The civil engineering department was the first in the nation to cooperate in enrolling student affiliates of the American Railway Engineering Association.

In cooperation with several leading manufacturing firms, the School of Engineering conducted the ninth annual Instrumentation Conference.

Twenty-nine seniors, including 18 men and 11 women, were selected for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

The Louisiana Tech Air Force R.O.T.C. band and the drill team placed first and third, respectively, at Christmas ceremonies in Natchitoches.

Approximately 1,200 pupils from 42 high schools attended the annual Careers' Day program.

The college was placed on the approved list of the American Association of University Women.

Newer media of teaching was the subject of a regional leadership conference sponsored by the college and the State Department of Education.

A farm structures workshop was held, with the agricultural engineering department cooperating with the American Zinc Institute.

The Kappa Alpha fraternity announced plans to build a chapter house.

The college and the State Department of Education sponsored a guidance conference.

Civil defense plans were presented to students and employes in a series of talks by faculty members.

A banquet was held to honor 152 freshmen who made high scholastic averages.

Permission was given by the State Board of Education for the college to apply for a federal loan to provide additional dormitories for 400 men and 200 women.

Preliminary plans were announced for a $500,000 education building and $400,000 expansion of the power plant, to be financed through the State Bond and Building Commission.

The college was host to the fourth annual meeting of the Louisiana division of the American Dairy Science Association.

Forty-eight high schools, represented by approximately 1,200 pupils, participated in the annual North Louisiana High School Literary Rally.

The college conducted science courses for high ability secondary school pupils and in-service engineering professors, the two institutes being supported by the National Science Foundation.

The State Board of Education authorized the college to use $40,000 from the previous year's revolving fund to erect brick duplexes for married students.

The Air Force R.O.T.C. rifle team won the state championship, finishing the season undefeated.

The graduate program was expanded in education to include health and physical education, art, music, speech and home economics, effective in the summer term of 1961.

With 1,837 students registered, a new high record for a summer term at the college was reached.

To assist students entering the fall semester as freshmen, a record number of 367 upperclass men and women students were announced as advisers.

Summer conferences in reading and elementary science for teachers were conducted.

Satellite Launch Is Delayed By Power Failure

CAPE CANAERAL, Fla. (AP) —An electrical power failure in a transformer substation Saturday forced postponement of an attempt to launch a satellite from which a second payload was to be fired into orbit.

The effort was to have been the first by the United States using an orbiting satellite as a launch platform in space. Primary purpose was to fling the payload, Ranger I, into a highly elliptical earth orbit to check techniques for launching future lunar and interplanetary vehicles.

The transformer malfunctioned and sent a shower of sparks shooting into the air when the countdown for the Atlas-Agena booster rocket had advanced to within 25 minutes of launch.

The failure knocked out all power in the blockhouse and other facilities in the launch area.

Scientists had only a 44-minute period in which to fire the rocket to put the satellites on the desired course. When the transformer could not be replaced in this time, the shot was called off. No new launch time was set.

When the rocket is launched, the plans call for the Agena second stage to go into orbit. At the proper time, the Agena engine is to re-ignite and kick Ranger I into an orbit which will take it more than half a million miles into space.

Director Tells His Technique With Drama Tots

"The only way to direct them is not to direct them."

"When the child becomes professional, you soon have the horribly artificial type of juvenile performer that other actors—and the public alike—find annoying.

"Make a child play make-believe and you have natural acting. Make believe is part of childhood, a natural part."

Stranger Pokes Youths In Nose

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Two St. Petersburg youths pondered Saturday over whether a cast-footed stranger simply didn't like their looks or had some other pet peeve.

Forrest E. Evey, 15, and Damon F. Rather, 16, astride a motor scooter, stopped for a red light Friday night. A man in a car opened his door, hobbled out with one foot in a plaster cast, asked them how much they weighed. Before they could reply, he punched both on the nose.

U.S. Plans New Blast At Soviet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has prepared a new "white paper" blast charging Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev with wantonly manufacturing an artificial crisis in West Berlin.

Officials disclosed Saturday that the State Department completed the document this week and sent it to President Kennedy for clearance.

It strongly indicts Khrushchev for refusing to let the inhabitants of Communist East Germany vote on their own future. It also rejects anew as immoral and illegal Khrushchev's demand that the United States, Britain and France pull out of West Berlin and permit it to become a demilitarized "free city" behind the Iron Curtain.

The President himself ordered preparation of the paper as another weapon in his effort to rally world opinion against Russia's effort to impose its own "solution" to the problem of Berlin and divided Germany.

Officials said the exact publication date had not been set but it might come next week.

The document's emphasis on German "self - determination" is designed particularly, officials said, to enlist support of the new Asian and African nations for the Western position in Berlin. These nations base almost their entire policy on the right of "self-determination" of peoples.

The white paper, which probably will be issued in pamphlet form, points out that the West Berliners have voted overwhelmingly to let the Allies remain there until there is a final settlement of the whole German problem. But the Russian have never permitted the inhabitants of Communist East Germany and East Berlin a free vote on their status.

The paper, following up the recent lengthy U. S. aide memoire to Khrushchev on Berlin, fits in with Kennedy's plan to try to seize the diplomatic initiative from the Russians while at the same time bolstering Western military might to provide a stronger bargaining position.

The Western Allies have yet to formulate specific new diplomatic proposals on the Berlin and German issues. But Secretary of State Dean Rusk will begin work on this when he meets next weekend in Paris with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and West Germany.

The ministers also will seek to coordinate Allied military measures to mesh with the steps Kennedy announced last Tuesday and Wednesday to strengthen America's conventional military forces and place them in a higher state of combat readiness.

Rusk and the other foreign ministers also will discuss the possibility of increasing U.S. military strength in Europe, which now amounts to five divisions. In addition the conferees must wrestle with economic problems involved in beefing up the Western defense alliance.

Kennedy is determined to get the military preparedness well underway before making any formal diplomatic overtures to Khrushchev. He feels that the Russians must be thoroughly convinced of the West's willingness and ability to fight to keep its Berlin position before Moscow will realize the full danger of the position into which he has thrust the world. Only then, Kennedy believes, will it be possible to get Khrushchev to discuss the crisis on a easonable basis.

Rusk said Thursday he was somewhat "encouraged" by initial NATO reaction to Kennedy's call for all members of the alliance to contribute to its increased strength. But officials acknowledged privately that it will be some months before the West is prepared to negotiate from its increased strength.

They believe the West has time, since it is considered highly unlikely that Khrushchev will want to force the issue to the point of conflict until after the October Communist Party congress in Moscow — if then.

Dallas Plans For Schools Integration

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas Civic leaders—Negro and white—are looking forward to, and planing carefully for, peaceful integration of some schools this fall.

One pre-arranged step was taken this week when integration came to a number of downtown Dallas eating places.

Carefully chosen Negro couples received service in selected eating places. The event took place several weeks after facilities at Fair Park, a huge amusement area, and the state fair theatrical productions were opened to Negroes.

The integration was accomplished without demonstrations.

Further integration steps are planned.

The manager of the Sheraton-Dallas hotel, Randall Davis, said that if school integration is completed without "unpleasant incidents" major downtown hotels would "accept and solicit integrated convention groups" about the middle of October.

Integration plans were prepared by a group known as the Committee of Seven—all white members of the influential Dallas Citizens Council, composed of 250 chief executives of the city's largest corporations.

The seven white men worked closely with seven Negro civic leaders. Negroes among the group refer to the joint organization as the Committee of 14.

The 14 men are now concentrating their efforts on the peaceful integration of schools.

W. T. White, superintendent of Dallas schools, says "we just don't know" how many schools will be integrated.

"A lot will depend on the number of applications. We have no plans to desegregate a particular building.

"There won't be any announcement of which schools are affected until the day schools opens," White said.

Sprinkler Break Causes Chicago Store Big Loss

CHICAGO (UPI)—An automatic sprinkler broke Saturday and flooded parts of six floors in Marshall Field & Company's Loop store, causing "hundreds of thousands of dollars" damage.

The sprinkler broke about 9:15 a. m., shortly after the store opened, on the fourth floor of the building in a section which houses a pet shop, toy department and arts and crafts.

Thousands of gallons of water poured through to the third floor lingerie shop and into sections of the second, first, budget and stock floors of the store.

The greatest damage was on the first and second floors. On the second floor the water cascaded into the store's art gallery and antique shop. Employes scurried to remove the most valuable paintings from the walls.

On the first floor the water gushed into the department where fine jewelry and watches are sold.

FORMER MIDWAY QUEEN

Woman Blinded In Leap Still Active

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—It was warm and bright that July day 30 years ago when pretty Sonora Carver plunged 45 feet on the back of a horse into a waiting tank—and darkness for the rest of her life

Fair-haired, blue-eyed Sonora, who was then 27, drew top billing at the Atlantic City Steel Pier as queen of the midway and performer of one of the outdoor entertainment world's greatest acts.

She lost her sight that day when her favorite horse—she called him "Red Lips"—hit the water at a severely straight angle. True, she could see for a few days after the accident, but total blindness, despite several surgical attempts, came quickly.

However, the loss of sight did not send Georgia-born Sonora to the sidelines, merely to join in the cheers of the crowd.

For 11 years after she went blind, she rode the horses down the 45 feet of nothingness into the 10 feet of water below. And before thousands who never knew she couldn't see.

This was the girl who started on the road to show business stardom by answering an ad in a Savannah, Ga., newspaper in 1923, an ad that read simply:

"Wanted: Attractive young woman who can swim and dive. Likes horses, desires to travel."

The ad placed by Dr. W. F. Carver, impresario a la Buffalo Bill Cody and ultimately to become Sonora's father-in-law, "said nothing about the horses and the diving going together," Mrs. Carver recalled.

Until 1942, she toured North America with the act as the girl on the diving horses.

But back to the accident and those 11 years when she rode the horses off the chute into the 40-foot long and 20-foot wide tank in all corners of the continent.

"Oh! you're wrong," she corrected, the Southern drawl still strong in her firm voice.

"I never looked down without seeking the tank after I lost my eyesight. I could see its every detail in my mind. Yes, it was there, allright. I think I could even see the crowds, all necks craned waiting for the horse to make the dive.

"But you see, I had dived for eight years with the horses and maybe all my motions were instinctive. Perhaps you learn to compensate when you have been deprived of one of the senses.

"I think I always knew when we were about to hit the water. I could always feel the muscles in the horse's neck tighten."

Mrs. Carver called it quits in 1942, not because of her blindness but rather because of the war. She and her husband, who died last year, then operated a tourist court in suburban New Orleans.

But she wearied of "doing nothing" and went to the Lighthouse for the Blind where she took courses in sewing and typing. Today, she is a dictaphone typist for the Lighthouse and was a factor in raising a half-million dollars for a new building.

And at 57, she yearns to go to college on the premise "there is much to learn."

Two Choudrant Persons Injured In Car Mishap

FARMERVILLE (Special) — The condition of two persons injured in a one-car accident near here Friday, was reported as satisfactory late Saturday.

Injured when the car in which they were riding went out of control on a curve and crashed into a ditch around 9 p.m. Friday were Kenneth Williams, 19, Route 2, Choudrant, driver, and Miss Judy Dugdale, 17, also of Choudrant.

According to police, Miss Dugdale was knocked unconscious by the impact of the crash. She sustained a head injury and arm laceration. Williams received bruises over his body and cuts behind an ear.

An unidentified passerby summoned a Kilpatrick ambulance from Farmerville, and the victims were taken to Norris Clinic in Farmerville. Williams was treated and later released.

Miss Dugdale remained at the clinic for treatment, and late Saturday attendants said she was scheduled to be moved to her home.

Officers said that both persons were thrown from the car before it settled bottom-side up in a ditch. Scene of the crash was the Downsville-D'Arbonne Road about two miles off the Farmerville-Ruston Highway.

TV Set Theft Being Probed

The theft of a portable television set from a Negro's house on Ouachita Avenue is being investigated by Monroe police.

Investigating officers said the theft was reported by Clara Poe, of 910 Ouachita Ave.

She said the beige, 19-inch set was taken from her front room sometime between 9:30 and 11:30 p.m. Friday. The set was valued at $153 when it was purchased this past March.

Airliner Lands Safely After Brakes Failure

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —A Pan American World Airways jet airliner with 174 persons aboard made a safe landing Saturday after reporting that its hydraulic brakes were not working.

The plane came in for what appeared to be a normal landing after emergency equipment had been called out. The Boeing 707 jet, Flight 2291, carried 167 passengers and a crew of seven.

A Pan American spokesman said in New York that the plane took off from Idlewild Airport for the nonstop flight and lost its hydraulic pressure shortly after take off. The airline identified the pilot as Capt. Jess Trantor.

Larry Harmon Hits Jackpot By Clowning

The 36-year-old Harmon, producer of TV's "Bozo the Clown;" a new animated cartoon, "Laurel and Hardy," and "Wacko Wolf," started out as a jester 11 years ago.

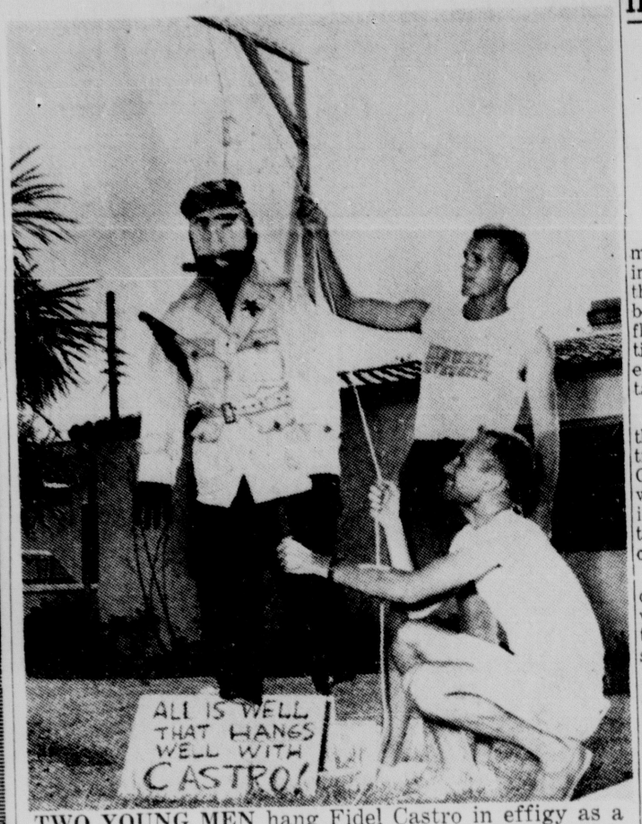

Harmon was not the original Bozo, having been preceded by another funnyman who held the job for years before retiring. But Larry has taken the character of Bozo and placed him all over the world.

"Right now I have 47 Bozos in this country and some in other parts of the world," he said, explaining that TV stations which air the syndicated clown series also hire a Bozo as master of ceremonies.

Harmon insists that every Bozo in the world wear similar clown makeup, and walk and talk—even those of different races.

The reason for Larry's insistence that clowns sound and look alike is that the cartoons are produced in Hollywood and shipped to each station individually.

"Then the real clown isn't on camera entertaining at those stations, the cartoons are running," Larry said. "So, the clowns have to sound just like the cartoon voice, which is mine."

IN EAST GERMANY

Refugee Exodus Worrying Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German government said Saturday in an unprecedented statement that Western rights in Berlin must be ended this year to halt the flight of refugees. The desperation of the Communists was so evident it was feared they might take steps now.

A second statement issued by the East Germans Saturday night tried to dissipate fears of East Germans that the Berlin dispute will lead to war. Many are fleeing for this reason and because they fear the Communists will cut off their escape route forever.

"The cabinet expresses its firm certainty that there will be no war," a communique issued by the East German press office said.

The first statement appealed to all East Germans to help stop the greatest mass exodus from the Soviet zone since the workers' revolt of June 17, 1953.

It admitted the mass migration was disrupting the economy, damaging the nation's standing aboard and threatening the nation's future.

"For these reasons the conclusion of a peace treaty and the solution of the Berlin problem is absolutely necessary this year," it said.

The Communists have said a peace treaty will close the West Berlin escape route used by about 1,000 East Germans a day.

Saturday's statement was the first time the Communists admitted so completely the damage being done by the flight day after day, month after month, of youths, teachers, doctors, technicians, scientists, farmers and laborers.

The desperate tone of the statement raised fears the Communists might take strong measures to halt the exodus before a treaty is signed. More than 1,000 East Germans escaped Saturday to raise the week's total to 7,974 and the months's to about 28,500.

By noon alone, 925 East Germans had applied for asylum in West Berlin.

The refugees continued to get through to West Berlin despite controls thrown around the city ranging from machinegun equipped army road blocks to Communist police checks on trains running to the city.

Attack Is Fatal For Publisher Of Tennesseean

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Silliman Evans Jr., 36, publisher of the Nashville Tennesseean, died of a heart attack Saturday.

He became publisher of the Tennesseean, Nashville's morning newspaper, following the death of his father in 1955. Previously he had been publisher of the Lake Worth (Fla.) Leader.

Friends said Evans was told by his doctor last week to take several days off and rest. He was told he could return to his office next week.

Evans was a member of President Kennedy's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity.

A prominent Tennessee Democrat, he was a delegate to the party's 1960 National Convention where he supported Lyndon B. Johnson's bid for the presidential nomination. Evans later strongly supported the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Evans also was president of the Newspaper Printing Corp., the agency which prints both the Tennessean and the afternoon Banner.

Mrs. Roosevelt Forms Group To Re-Elect Mayor

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt announced Saturday she had formed a group of 71 women Democrats to campaign for the re-election of Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

Mrs. Roosevelt made the announcement at the mayor's residence, Gracie Mansion, where she held a joint news conference with Wagner. The mayor is battling State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, choice of city organization leaders, for the Democratic nomination in the Sept. 7 primary.

Mrs. Roosevelt said her corps of 71 women would be the nucleus of a citywide campaign among women, and she, herself, would do some campaigning.

Pilot, Passenger Escape In Crash

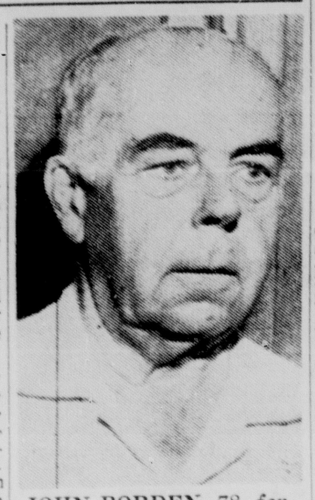

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A pilot and passenger escaped injury Saturday when their light plane crashed in the backyard of a home in the heavily populated Santee residential area.

"My hair stood on end," said Ruby Hughes, who witnessed the crash from her window. "I looked out to see a cloud of dust and then the airplane."

The plane, a single engine Tri-Pacer, skimmed under a 30-foot power line and rammed through a barbed wire fence. It nosed to a stop 18 feet from the porch of a house.

The pilot, Laurence Hance of Chula Vista, and his passenger, George Leist, were unhurt.

An observer, Lanny Bond, 26, said he noted the plane was having engine trouble and tried to set down on two vacant lots next to the house. It was heading for nearby Gillispie Field to land, he said.

JOHN BORDEN, 78, former father-in-law of Adlai Stevenson, died at his home near Grand Haven, Michigan Saturday after a long illness. Borden was the father of Mrs. Ellen Stevenson of Chicago, divorced wife of the current United States Ambassador to the United Nations. (AP Wirephoto)

British May Join Common Market Bloc

LONDON (UPI) — Political sources expect Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to announce shortly that Britain will seek membership in the European common market.

Their predictions were reinforced Friday by dispatches in two London newspapers, the Daily Mirror and Daily Herald. Both said Macmillan would tell Parliament in the coming week that Britain has decided to apply for admission to the common market.

Few issues have so split the British Commonwealth as the argument whether Britain should take this step.

Many Commonwealth leaders see the move as a sign Britain no longer has belief or hope in the future of the Commonwealth.

The common market, or — to give it its formal name, the European Economic Community (EEC) —was born out of a devastated post-war Europe's need to climb back on to its feet.

The six members—France, Gerbourg and Holland—met in Rome in 1957 and hammered out the Treaty of Rome.

Under the treaty, the six proclaimed their aim to establish the foundations of closer union among European peoples, to improve living conditions, and to mitigate the backwardness of the less favored among them.

Within a mere four years, the European Economic Community has more than fulfilled the hopes of its founders.

Already, the six are far ahead of schedule. For example, they have slashed internal tariffs by 40 per cent when their time-table provided only for a cut of 30 per cent by 1962. By 1962, however, they expect to have cut tariffs by 50 per cent.

And as the internal tariffs of the six go down, the tariffs against British products remain unchanged. So now, for example, Germany's Volkswagen and France's Renault carry a tariff of $168 compared with $240 on Britain's competing small automobile, the Morris Minor.

And while all this has been happening within the huge common market area, tariffs have also been rising in Commonwealth countries against British goods.

The British commonwealth is the largest preferential trading organization in the world. Its total exports are around $25.2 billion a year, or more than 25 per cent of total world exports; its imports exceed $28 billion or 30 per cent of world imports.

But Commonwealth preferences are no longer what they used to be.

The reason is simple. The rapidly expanding and developing countries of the Commonwealth, in order to protect their own growing manufacturing industries, have been raising tariff walls against British manufactured goods as against foreign.

It is widely accepted that if Britain joined EEC she would have to grant European agricultural products preferential treatment.

This, it is believed, would mean that she could no longer admit Commonwealth agricultural products and raw materials duty free but would have to levy prevailing EEC tariffs against them.

In the opinion of many, such a change would, for example, spell bankruptcy for little New Zealand which depends upon Britain to buy 57 per cent of her exports consisting of dairy products and meat.

It is a similar story in greater or lesser degree for other Commonwealth countries.

But the British government does not agree with its critics that it is prepared to let the Commonwealth go hang.

Officers Arrest 8 Freedom Riders

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Officers Saturday arrested eight of 10 "Freedom Riders" who attempted to desegregate the Negro waiting room of the Greyhound bus station, but refused to charge an Indonesian exchange student and a blind woman.

The new arrivals brought to 279 the number arrested in Jackson. They were charged with the usual breach of the peace.

UNVEIL NEW PROGRAM

Reds To Adopt Leninist Theme

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party Saturday night ordered all Communists to support what it called the "Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence" with the West. The Red leadership also told the Soviet people that improvement in their living standards is not far off.

The party promised Soviet citizens free housing and public transportation in the 1970s but added an important hedge: "Complications in the international situation and a necessary increase in the strength of the armed forces can delay realization of the plans for improving the people's material welfare."

The party published a new and historic program for adoption by the 22nd congress of the Communist party that meets in October. It was the first new program since Lenin wrote his in 1919.

Peaceful coexistence, the program said is "a mighty obstacle in the path of the imperialist aggression."

It added this prediction: "Socialism (communism) inevitably will take over from capitalism everywhere. Such is the objective law of the development of society."

The program officially made it an article of state that, "The transition of capitalism to communism is the road to development of humanity."

Divided into seven chapters, the program said, "The experience of the Soviet Union proved that socialism and peace are indivisible."

It claimed, "The forces of socialism are serving the cause of peace. The Soviet Union saved humanity from Fascist enslavement."

Premier Khrushchev, who ordered the program prepared, is en route back to Moscow from his holiday home at Sochi, on the Black Sea. He will lead public discussion of the new program.

In its attack on the capitalist system, the program said inequality of the rate of development is sharpening contradictions between capitalist states.

"The military center has moved from England to the United States," it declared. "America, the mightiest capitalist state, has become the strongest world exploiter. American imperialism, covering itself with the false flag of freedom and democracy, is in fact fulfilling the role of the world gendarme, supporting reactionary dictatorial regimes, rotten monarchies, taking action against democratic revolutionary transformation, unleashing aggression against people struggling for their independence."

The program laid out an economic plan for the next 20 years, and said that at the end of this period, heating, water and gas will be free of charge in the Soviet Union.

It said the Soviet economy will achieve an abundance of wealth and material for the whole population during the second half of the 20-year plan and this will enable distribution in accordance with requirements.

The program, likely to be the key to Soviet propaganda in months ahead, took indirect note of fantastically overcrowded aprtment houses and log cabin shacks in the Soviet Union by promising that during the second half of the 20-year period, "each family, including young married families, will have well-equipped apartments which embody the hygienic and cultured way of life. The homes of peasant families of all types will mostly be replaced with new modern homes or, in cases where possible, will be reconstructed."

Also the program made these promises:

1. Present charges for health services will be eliminated some time during the 20-year plan.

2. The working week will be reduced to 34 or 36 hours. Miners will work a 30-hour, five-day week.

3. Luncheons will be free in factories, collective farms and various other state enterprises.

4. Nurseries for children will become free, as will uniforms for school children.

5. Collective farmers will become eligible for a pension.

6. The present overcrowded homes for the aged will be improved by construction of a network of old folks homes for all who want to enter.

The program came out in full force for strengthening Soviet armed forces.

It urged all uniformed men, plus those in the security forces, to display vigilance and constant readiness to fight for their country.

Aid Passage Is Predicted By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., predicted Sunday the Senate would approve President Kennedy's request for borrowing authority for long-term foreign development loans by five to ten votes.

Gore disagreed with Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., that Kennedy should be required to come back to Congress each year for appropriations to provide the money for his 5-year, $9.8-billion program for easy-term economic development loans to struggling countries.

Both senators, however, voiced support for the program, despite their disagreement over the method of financing.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., on whose radio-TV program they appeared, voiced his support of the foreign aid as "a cheap kind of anti-war insurance," that bolsters Western defenses "at a low cost."

The first-year authority for development loans—$1,187 billion — is the most controversial item in the $4.236 billion foreign aid bill for this year on which the Senate starts debate Monday.

Keating said that foreign aid has cost the United States over the last 15 years "only about 1½ per cent of our Gross National Product."

He said military assistance is a "bargain," since the cost of equipping an allied soldier overseas is much less than providing cost for a Turkish soldier was an American soldier. He said the about $400 a year, an American about 4,000.

He said most foreign aid spending for equipment was made in the United States, saying that over the past six years spending for supplies and equipment in New York State was over $2 billion.

Aiken said he "might favor a five-year extension program, but certainly would expect the executive branch to come back to Congress each year for an appropiation to meet their expenses."

Both Gore and Aiken voiced opposition to a suggestion by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate minority leader, to set up a joint Senate-House watchdog committee with its own auditors as a means of giving Congress control over foreign aid spending.

High Ranking Vatican Official Dies At Age 73

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Domenico Cardinal Tardini, secretary of state of the Roman Catholic Church, died Sunday.

Pope John XXIII, who named the veteran Vatican statesman to the important post immediately after his own election as pontiff, was informed of the cardinal's death at his summer residence at Castel Gandolfo.

The Pope immediately broke his stay there and set out for Vatican City.

Cardinal Tardini, 73, had been suffering from a heart condition for a long time.

He was stricken ill a few days ago while at a resort north of Rome.

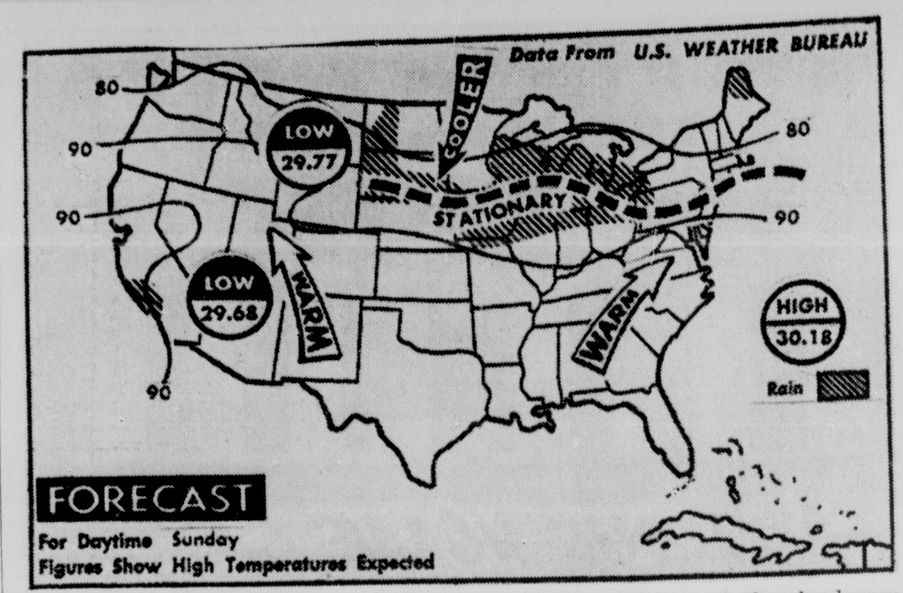

He was brought back to Vatican City Saturday in an ambulance for treatment.

Early in 1960 Cardinal Tardini said he had asked Pope John to be relieved of his heavy duties as secretary of state but he stayed on, apparently at the request of the pontiff.

Flow Of Milk Is Resumed In Chicago Stores

CHICAGO (UPI)—Milk flowed into Chicago grocery stores Saturday for the first time since Wednesday and a supermarket manager reported "almost everybody" was buying it.

Tank trucks hauled a thousand tons of milk into the city hours after Chicago milk wagon drivers local 753 of the Teamsters Union agreed on a two-year contract with the Associated Milk Dealers, anding a 48-hour strike.

Thirteen hours before the 5,000 drivers agreed to end theri walkout, a strike of 2,500 inside employes at the dairies, represented by Teamsters' local 754, was settled.

Bronson Still On Critical List

BATON ROUGE (AP) A physician said Saturday William H. Bronson "has done as well as we could hope for last night and today" after suffering a heart attack.

Bronson, 49-year-old publisher of the Shreveport Times and president of newspaper and radio broadcasting firms at Shreveport and Monroe, La., and Little Rock, Ark., was stricken here Friday while attending a business meeting.

His physician said he will be on the critical list at Our Lady of the Lake Hospital for at least several days because he had extensive heart damage.

IN MOST AREAS

Drilling Operations Now On Decline

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Oil drilling operations are on the decline in most free world areas.

Declines had been predicted for the United States and Canada, but downward trends in other areas have prompted mid-year revisions of 1961 forecasts.

World Oil Magazine said this week 1961 drilling activity in the free world outside the United States and Canada now is expected to drop 3.1 per cent below 1960. The January forecast had indicated an increase of about 6 per cent.

However, the magazine's copyrighted "Midyear Oil Outlook" carried a note of optimism.

"The lull is expected to be temporary, since the long-term outlook for drilling in the free world outside the United States and Canada is for sustained future growth," the report said.

The United States and Canadian forecasts also drew downward revisions.

The domestic industry now is expected to drill only 44,102 wells this year, 5.8 per cent below the 1960 total. January estimates had indicated 46,079 wells or a decline of only 1.5 per cent.

Canadian operators had been expected to drill 2,425 wells this year, a decline of less than one per cent. The mid-year revisions cut the estimate to 2,250 wells, 14.2 per cent below 1960.

Slightly improved conditions indicated for the second half of the year for both the United States and Canada were offset by disappointing first year reports.

"U. S. oil producers generally are marking time, awaiting a general business improvement which may occur in 1962," the midyear report said. ". . .a gain in oil demand of slightly less than 3 per cent is forecast for the second half of 1961. Demand the first half of the year decreased almost 2.5 per cent compared with the first half of 1960."

Other 1961 drilling forecasts: Venezuela, down 9 per cent; Brazil, down 16.5; West Germany, down 14.6; Japan, down 28.9; Mexico, down 1.6; Western Europe, down 8.0; Far East- Oceania, down 22.5 per cent.

Africa, Argentina, and the Middle East were exceptions to the downward trend.

A 14.2 per cent gain was forecast for Africa, with Libya registering a 7 per cent gain by drilling 180 wells compared to 131 in 1960. Algeria, where spectacular gains have been made since 1959, was expected to record a gain of only 2.7 per cent.

"Algeria's heavy drilling activity may stagnate because of political difficulties," the report said.

The magazine referred to Argentina as the pivotal drilling country in South America.

"Its completions increased sharply from 577 in 1959 to 1,175 in 1960, and are expected to rise further to 1,250 this year, a gain of 6.4 per cent," the forecast said. "There were 95 active rigs in Argentina at the end of May, with 61 in the moderate and shallow depth areas of Patagonia."

An estimated 265 wells this year would give the Middle East a 2.7 per cent increase.

Almost 100 new wells are likely to be drilled in the Saudi Arabian-Kuwait neutral zone, where only about 10 days are required to drill a well in the shallow zones of the Wafra field," the magazine said.

Police On Guard In N.Y. Riot Area

NEW YORK (AP)—Police assigned "a couple of hundred" extra men to Harlem Saturday night to prevent a renewal of brawling and near-rioting that broke out Friday night.

More than 1,000 residents of the Negro area and 150 policemen were involved Friday night in scattered disorders. Detectives said they found no organized pattern in the outbreaks and no specific cause.

Two policemen were slightly injured.

Indian Lore Specialists Racing Time

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI)—Specialists of Indian lore are racing barely ahead of bulldozers these days to salvage the remains of the Red Man's early culture, preserved for centuries in the dry Southwest.

"Salvage archaeology" is a phrase commonly used at the Museum of New Mexico, which has undertaken most of the digging chores before a new highway, pipeline or dam is built.

At the Navajo Dam site in northwest New Mexico, museum teams are trying to beat the water, which this winter will start backing up for miles over a land fertile in Indian artifacts.

Excavators used mechanical equipment last summer to dig 28 Indian ruins along one stem of the future lake, an amount of work that ordinarily would require several seasons by the usual pick and shovel methods.

But the archaeologists are pressed for time.

In this area, a type of ancient Indian dwelling—the pit house—was found to exist 300 years later than specialists had previously supposed. The results, while usually not dramatic, are gradually filling the gaps of information for scholars.

The Southwest is not in danger of running out of old Indian dwellings. Steward Peckham, curator of collections at the museum's Laboratory of Anthropology, assured "There are thousands we haven't touched."

But he and other staff members want to have a look before they are plowed under or paved over forever.

The aid of the New Mexico Highway Department and U.S. Bureau of Public Roads was enlisted. Under provision of federal and state law they agreed to provide "necessary labor and heavy equipment needed to salvage the archaeological sites threatened by destruction by highway construction." The museum provides trained men to supervise the surveys and diggings.

In seven years, 80 ruins have been searched in the paths of new highways. El Paso Natural Gas Co., whose pipelines are crossing the West, showed an early interest in the program. It has helped find 300 ancient sites, of which 70 were dug.

And for the last word in site hunting, Arizona Public Service Co. provided museum workers a helicopter to trace the route of an intended power line between Farmington, N.M., and the Arizona border.

Police Expand On Peace Bond Case

The Monroe Police Department Saturday expanded on a peace bond incident which occurred Friday.

Police said they learned that instead of Mrs. Joyce Price, 26, of 320 Bell St., visiting her mother, the woman visited her father-in-law at 302 Collier.

A controversy with a next-door neighbor occured, police said, and a peace bond was filed against Mrs. Price by Louise Outlaw, of Monroe.

Crickets Drown Dialogue During Picture Filming

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Crickets, thousands of them, made life miserable for director Gordon Douglas on the location of "What A Wonderful Life," starring Elvis Presley.

"Maybe they're Pat Boone fans," grinned Elvis.

Dainty Rose Plants Grow Well Outside

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

One fancy was captured by miniature roses at the big New York flower show last March and when we saw some of the dainty plants competing for honors and attention against the comparatively giant teas and floribundas this summer, we decided to do some investigating.

Out of doors, the six-inch tall miniatures are no more trouble to raise than their big cousins. Indoors, it's a more complicated but rewarding experience.

Roses, as have many other things, have felt the impact of modern living. But the fairy rose has made more progress than other rose varieties in recent years.

When it comes to miniatures we turn for enlightenment to Dennison Morey, who is the chief of plant research for the Jackson & Perkins Co., of California.

RUGGED PLANTS

These rugged little plants have evolved from a modest assortment of pink and light red varieties to a collection of rich colors. They are far more hardy and winter-resistant than their delicate grace indicates.

When planted outside, Morey says, these rose jewels are as simple and easy to raise as any other rose and just as hardy. They make any border or rockery a delight, producing many near-perfect roses from spring to frost. Any spot with good garden soil and reasonable drainage will see them flourish for years.

BITTER MALES SAY

Irish Beauty Needs Spanking Or Mate

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—What Irish beauty contestant Ruth Kane needs, bitter Irish males growled Friday is perhaps a spanking. Better yet, a husband.

Mind you, they admitted with wounded pride, the fuss wasn't anything that couldn't be settled over a dollop of whisky.

Still, this green-eyed lass who represents Ireland in the International Beauty Congress now under way at Long Beach, Calif., raised their back hair a bit.

"Irishmen," purred blonde Miss Kane, 18, in an interview in California Thursday, "think their wives are just servants—slaves. They don't even think they're women."

As for that famed Irish gift for gab, she said, forget it. "The only time they have a gift of gab is when they're drunk," Miss Kane charged.

"The girl has not done herself any good," football star Kevin Coffey of the Kerry Gaelic team observed quickly.

"My first thought was if the girl goes on like that now, what will she be like when she has hooked a husband?"

Miss Kane said she prefers American men but doesn't have any marriage plans.

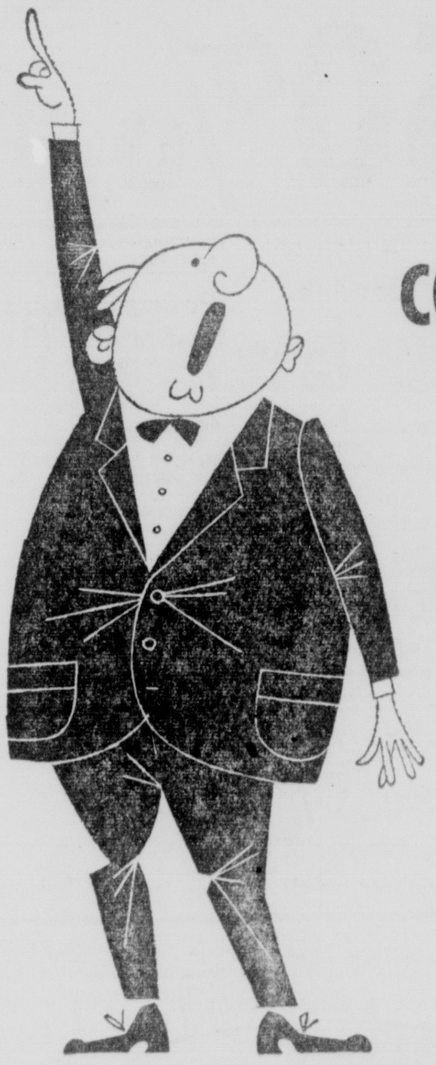

Business executive Count Cyril McCormack, son of tenor John McCormack, said he thought it was clear she needed such plans.

"This little girl must be in a bad way for a husband, a headline or a spanking," McCormack said. "When she opens her mouth, she should just smile. That way she will still look beautiful and sensible."

Cracked Irish stage comedian Jack Cruise: "Miss Kane is so beautiful that her girl friends must have been telling her terrible stories about Irishmen to keep her out of the marriage market. She is so silly that she believed them."

New Area Unit Is Link In Defenses

By BILL HARDIN
Staff Writer

A group of men from throughout northeast Louisiana and southern Arkansas within the near future will be playing an important part in the nation's drive for military preparedness in the event of an outbreak of a shooting war either in Europe or Asia.

In fact, the group, the 9425th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron is a unit in reality, and not just plans on paper in Washington or the Continental Air Command.

Organization of the squadron, which is headquartered in Monroe, occurred the first of the month, in accordance with plans for the utilization of "civilian" personnel to back up the Strategic Air Command. The squadron's personnel are "civilians" and active reservists today, but within minutes of the event of a national emergency, they would become members of the "back-up" team — a very essential part of the retaliatory force which the Strategic Air Command keeps in readiness.

FROM AREA

Personnel of the squadron come from the area generally ranging to the north to Crossett, Ark., eastward to the Mississippi River, then south to Ferriday and Vidalia and west to the Jonesboro-Ruston vicinity.

The commanding officer of the squadron is Lt. Col. W. T. Gattis of Monroe. Major Pascal Norris, Monroe, is executive officer, with Major Robert W. Gandy, Tallulah, in charge of communications and Major A. C. Williams, Monroe, head of the engineering.

Staff officers are: Major C. S. Hessick, supply; Capt. R. L. Sollinger, communications; Capt. J. L. Luther, maintenance; Capt. Charles Saltzman, procurement; Capt. Frank Serio and Capt. J. S. Rutledge, both in education and training; Capt. R. W. Sherman, personnel; Capt. E. J. Brown, flight surgeon; First Lt. B. D. Hendricks, information; First Lt. George Roberts, administration; M.Sgt. C. A. Lovell, first sergeant; and S-Sgt. C. V. Colderone, recruiting.

CURRENT QUOTA

Nationally, the Air Force Reserve program currently calls for 282 units, 82 recovery groups, and 200 recovery squadrons. Reserve recovery units will be located at selected civil airports and inactive facilities capable of accomodating military aircraft.

The primary purpose of these units, in case of attack, is to provide safe landing sites for the U. S. Air Force and allied aircraft returning from missions as well as "turn - around" points for continued missions.

Military planners anticipate that many U. S. Air Force bases may be destroyed or heavily damaged in the event of an attack. This damage may be to the extent that some of the aircraft returning from combat missions may be unable to land at their home stations or pre - planned alternate fields.

This is where such units as the 9425ht Reserve Squadron would step into the picture.

IN ACTION

Actually, the unit would be in action the moment the alert is sounded for the long - range bombers to take off.

Lt. Bobby D. Hendricks, information officer for the local unit, explained the activities this way:

The unit has been organized on a regional basis. Personnel live throughout northeast Louisiana and in the extreme southeast part of Arkansas.

Once an alert is sounded, the personnel will rush to pre - arranged stations, each section of the squadron ready for action.

Selman Field would immediately be put on an alert basis, ready to receive the returning planes. Normally, the aircraft would return to Barksdale Field, but an attack would almost certainly include attempted destruction of this base. With the field out of order or at least heavily damaged, all nearby fields (within several hundred miles) would be prepared to receive the returning craft.

COMMUNICATIONS

The communications division of the squadron would be in readiness to fake further orders directly from headquarters. Personnel of this division are being trained in radio, since officials assume most of the regular communication lines would be destroyed.

Another division of the squadron would have heavy equipment standing by ready in the event Selman was bombed. Should this occur, the field would be made ready as soon as possible for landing of the large planes.

Another group which will know exactly where to obtain fuel for the jet planes would be en route to bring this to Selman Field.

Still another will be readying eating and resting facilities for the crews of the planes.

Hospital facilities will be ready-not in town, but right on the field for emergency treatment.

"The one purpose of our unit," Lt. Hendricks said, "is to be ready to receive and put back into the air as soon as possible those returning planes, getting them ready for another flight over the enemy territory, or to continue to another field, where they can be repaired fully." Emergency repairs will also be available at Selman, should the need arise.

SHORT RUNWAYS

Although the runways are extremely short, Hendricks said, some of the planes will have to be brought in. The major difficulty, he pointed out, will be offset by putting only enough fuel in them to get the craft airborne. After they are in the air, they can be refueled by the large air tankers.

Similar squadrons are being set up in Baton Rouge, New Orleans and Lake Charles, and elsewhere in the state, as well as in neighboring states. The New Orleans squadron was set up early last year as one of the few pilot organizations.

The authorized strength of the local unit is 156 airmen and 22 officers. A number of openings are still available for airmen in all of the sections.

The group meets the third week end of each month, training both Saturday and Sunday. In addition, a two - week encampment period is set for next June. In all, the squadron will have 48 drill periods and the 15 - day session each year. A national emergency of proportions which would not require full utilization of the military and civilian strength could, it is anticipated, necessitate longer training periods.

Presently the squadron is set up in temporary headquarters in the Army Reserve Building at Selman Field. However, a permanent headquarters building is anticipated which will be located near or on the Selman Field flight line.

Summing up the activities of the squadron when it has been fully put into effect, the commanding officer, Lt. Col. Gattis said it will be a "completely effective auxiliary to the Air Force with relatively no expense to the government. It will operate with volunteers, men who are able and fully trained for the situation with which we will be faced in the case of an attack."

COMMUNICATIONS, the nerve of any unit, is another vital phase. With any attack, most of the normal communications will be destroyed, so "ham" operators will be a necessity. From left are A.2c F. H. Coody, A.2c D. W. Griffith, Capt. Richard Sollinger, A.3c Williams H. Shrock, S/Sgt. H. C. Powell, all of Monroe, S/Sgt. Bobby Chambess West Monroe and Major R. W. Gandy, Tallulah.

COMMANDING OFFICER, Lt. Col. William T. Gattis, left, and Lt. Bobby D. Hendricks, both of Monroe, will handle all information concerning the squadron activities.

Bridge To New Trades Formed

Technology Gaining Edge

NOTE — the human hand is losing its touch on the production line. All over the country machines that don't strike, don't get sick and can work 24 hours a day are nudging workers out of the factories. Here's what one state—Connecticut—is doing to help man fight back against machines.

By ROGER LANE

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Richard Dolyak, who lost his job as a buffer and polisher through automation, drew his first paycheck in months the other day—as a machine shop apprentice.

The way he recovered his wage-earning stride raised hope for tens of thousands of men across the nation whose jobs have been gobbled up by the steady march of technology in industry.

The bridge to Dolyak's new trade was supplied by the Connecticut community program for unemployed workers, believed by its originators to be the first of its kind in the country.

GRADUATES

He was one of 15 graduates of the initial six-week class designed to equip students lacking a market for outmoded or non-specialized job talents with the rudimentary skills of a machine operator.

Essentially, it differed from job retraining projects tried—or contemplated—elsewhere in that it sought to fit class members for known existing job opportunities in the immediate area requiring specific skills.

Retraining programs have been mentioned as one possible method of reducing the "hard core" of unemployment left by increasing automation and technological advances.

In many areas, however, local authorities contemplating retraining programs have been faced with this question: "What job do we train the men for?"

Many communities have hesitated about starting these programs because they did not know what new industries—if any—they could attract to their areas.

DIPLOMA

Dolyak was awarded his diploma Friday, June 23. The following Monday he began work at the Bullard Co., long a leading manufacturer of automatic machine tools.

Married but still childless, Dolyak, a curly-thatched, clean-cut man of 23 recalled the "rough time" after his job at the Remington Rand shaver division petered out.

"For most of my three years at Remington, I worked at buffing and polishing. There were about 15 of us on the operation. Then automatic machines came in and the force was cut to five," he said.

"I worked on a hit and miss basis for a while in the stock department. I was laid off two weeks before I was to be married. I went ahead anyway.

"My refrigerator and a few other things were repossessed. Every week I was getting deeper into the hole."

When he hooked on at Bullard, Dolyak had been jobless since December. He was started on a surface grinder, and will be rotated to other machine operations.

"The outlook has brightened now quite a bit," he said with a grin.

SAME TYPE

Terrence McClenning, 21, a product of the same class as Dolyak, has launched onto the same type of apprenticeship, also in the Bullard shop, but on a horizontal boring machine.

McClenning, fresh from three years in the Army, served Uncle Sam as a truck driver. He ran into a stone wall in seeking private employment before signing up with the retraining group.

"I wouldn't have got a job otherwise," he said.

Renato E. Ricciuti, Connecticut state labor commissioner, is cautiously hopeful for the future of the retraining program.

But Ricciuti, a former labor mediator, admits it attacks only one, comparatively small segment of the unemployment problem—yet one particularly sensitive in highly industrialized Connecticut.

As of mid-June, 77,100 persons in the state—6.9 per cent of its labor force—were out of work.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION are preliminaries for the squadron and must be put into immediate practice, once an emergency arrives. Capt. Frank A. Serio, Monroe; C/Sgt. Leland C. Scroggins, St. Joseph La.; Capt. James S. Rutledge, West Monroe; and Airman 2/c Bobby Ainsworth, Oak Grove, keep this phase in constant order.

Justice Waking Up

At last justice has begun to show some signs of waking up. Almost for the first time since the infamous "black Monday" decision of 1954, in which the supreme court defied nature and ordered the mixing of whites and Negroes, a member of that court has recognized the fact that state courts exist and that those courts have rights and authority.

Justice Hugo L. Black of the supreme court turned down a bid to win release of a "freedom rider" from a Mississippi prison. The habeas corpus action was brought on behalf of Elizabeth Porter Wyckoff, 45, of New York City, who contended her conviction was unconstitutional and invalid.

In a brief opinion, Justice Black said there was not enough evidence to show that all legal processes in the state had been exhausted.

Justice Tom C. Clark, only other member of the supreme court available at the time, concurred in Black's action. The court is in summer recess.

Miss Wyckoff, now confined in the Mississippi state penitentiary at Parchman, was arrested last month in Jackson, Miss., when she joined other "freedom riders" in an attempt to enter areas of a bus terminal designated for white persons. Convicted of a breach of the peace, she was sentenced to two months in jail. She is scheduled for release August 11. Habeas corpus action was filed in her behalf by an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, an organization devoted primarily to promoting socialism and integration.

When we say that Justice appears to be waking up we do not mean the two supreme court justices who gave their opinions in the Wyckoff case, although it does seem to apply to them, but mean more specifically the kind of justice guaranteed in this country under the constitution and bill of rights. These two bulwarks of law and justice have been perverted in recent years to give certain persons rights or privileges that intrude too violently upon the rights of other people. Now there appears to be some chance to use them again to prevent such intrusion.

In one day, the integrationists received a double setback. A less surprising decision was rendered when Federal District Judge Oren R. Lewis of Richmond, Va., U.S. court said that he would not enter an order requiring the reopening of Prince Edward County's public schools, closed two years ago in a racial dispute. This decision was less surprising because it was returned by a judge in a state which has been opposed to integration and which has had its fill of the integration movement. Nevertheless, Judge Lewis knows his decisions are subject to review by the higher federal courts and that could have been expected to have some bearing on his ruling.

"That's going to be determined by the supreme court of Virginia, if it's going to be done at all," said Judge Lewis, referring to the question of forcing the Prince Edward County schools to reopen.

Judge Lewis also said he was "not going to determine if they (the county and state) have a legal right to close the schools. That's going to be done by the supreme court of Virginia."

In 1959, the Prince Edward County board of school supervisors, faced with a federal court order calling for desegregation, declined to appropriate funds for the schools and the facilities have been closed since. White children have attended private schools financed partly by county and state tuition grants.

This decision will have a strong bearing on the school situation in Louisiana, where school-closing has been authorized by a state law enacted by the legislature and signed by the governor. Unless the United States supreme court again joins the integration crusade as a group of partisans in its behalf and gratuitously calls up the Prince Edward County case out of turn, as it has done so flagrantly in a number of other cases, there is not likely to be much federal interference with school closing during the coming term of school, although a similar case might come before a Louisiana federal judge. In all probability, a similar decision would be returned, unless the supreme court should decide to send in an alien judge from the north, as it did in the Arkansas integration fight.

Decision in these two cases indicate that feelings of people throughout the country may be beginning to filter up to the federal courts and possibly on up to members of congress and the present national administration.

The tide may be turning and justice for the people as a whole may be on its way back.

JFK One-Termer

Many candidates for public office are saved from political annihilation by the fact that they are not forced to run when their popularity is at low ebb. The fact that he does not have to run again now conceivably is saving President Kennedy, although the war scare and the speech he finally made asserting this country's willingness to defend its honor and its existence probably would recoup some votes for him.

Nevertheless, it is probably fortunate for the president that he does not have to place his fate before the voters at this time. Some people have come to think that it does not make much difference who is president when war threatens and that "changing horses in the middle of the stream" may be as good an idea as not, like changing a pitcher in a ball game. Others think that, with a war threatening, we might have been better off under other circumstances.

The victory of Republican John Tower in Texas in the race for the senate seat formerly held by Vice-President Lyndon B. Johnson, stresses the fact that we may well have a one-term president in the White House.

Texas happens to be the first state in 1961 to deliver some political commentary, in the form of solid votes, on the 1960 presidential race. Today a Kennedy-Johnson ticket in Texas would sink like a ton of lead. Texas, in sum, looks like the bellweather of a return to the Republican fold.

It is easy to believe from public indices in other states that few who tottered between Kennedy and Nixon in November would now go Democratic.

It is unimaginable that the American people as a whole could have the heart to give Kennedy a vote of confidence on his record today, aside from his commendable statement on America's willingness to fight if necessary, and any president would have made such a statement—many of them much sooner.

Top men in both parties are inevitably influenced by the political climate in Texas.

It is good for Nixon, and for us, to be shown that the way to beat Democrats and liberals, is to be Republican conservative.

It is good for Senator Barry Goldwater, and for us, to enjoy this popular ratification of his conservative philosophy.

It is good for Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York to read the Texas results.

It is good for the rest of us to find hope of a two-party south still visible on the horizon.

You Can Get Education

To The Editor:

To those of you who are ambitious and don't have the opportunity to attend a formal institution, it is possible to get a good education outside the realms of formality, an education industrial and commercial people will honor once you have proven your worth.

I'm known as a self-educated man. I have less than two years' formal education. Three months in business college is all the formal college work I have. I was left to care for a sick mother when I was 13 years old. Whatever education I have acquired since was gotten the hard way.

After I was 30 years old I took college work by correspondence. I took short story writing and journalism with Walter B. Pitkin, professor of journalism at Columbia University and short story writing and novelism with J. Berg Essenwein, Home Correspondence School, Springfield, Mass., a culture course in literature with Columbia University, extension department. A correspondence course in English with Sherwin Cody and high school work with the American Correspondence School, Chicago, and worked two years as the protege of an editor in New Orleans.

Although, I've not set the woods afire and have nothing to boast of I've contributed to 35 publications, either verse or prose, but that was mostly before the depression and most of the publications I contributed to are either out of print or merged. My career as a writer was interrupted in the early morning of the depression by things over which I had no control. The last thing of mine that came out was in "Grit," 1933.

I earned my living largely as an independent salesman during the depression and for a great many years afterward and now that I'm growing old and have a little business all my own and more time at my disposal I'm returning to my lost love, hopeful that I might be able to inspire some youngster to higher positions in life. In addition to my journalistic efforts, I've kept books on both mercantile and pay roll jobs.

To you that are handicapped as I was and want a good education I recommend the following text books and courses. The high school course offered by the American Correspondence school, Chicago, if satisfactorily completed, is adequate to the enrollment requirements of colleges. International Correspondence Schools, Scranton, Pa., offers high school and Busines courses second to none, also courses in most any profession one may desire. Too, you can obtain, "High School Subjects Self Taught," in two volumes by Lewis Copeland from the publishers, Garden City Books, Garden City, New York. You that complete those books according to questions and answers included in them can meet the matriculation requirements of most colleges.

Standard text books for home study may be obtained from the following publishers: Allyn and Bacon Inc., 150 Tremont St., Boston, Mass., American Book Company, 55 Fifth Ave., New York 3, New York, with retail stores in Dallas, Tex., and Atlanta, Ga., and D. C. Heath and Company, 205 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass. If, after you have acquired sufficient education and are not in a position to attend college, most college have extension courses, either majors or minors which ever you wish. Inquire for particulars from the college of your choice.

Three of our great Americans were self-educated men, Benjamin Franklin, Abraham Lincoln, and Andrew Johnson.

"Circumstances," may be "masters of men," but he is a poor man whom can not cheat his own master. Any man can do what he wants to, if he wants to.

A Return To Reality

To the Editor:

It is not known what the favorite topics in your letters are at the present as I am, on a seven-month cruise to the Mediterranean and Middle East. You see, I am a Naval Officer (career) and we are even now steaming off a troubled spot in the world.

I don't know just why we military people choose this type life but nevertheless we do. These long cruises away from my beloved wife and daughter and from the wonderful United States give me partial insight into what makes this world tick.

For instance, as we passed through the Suez Canal we saw quite a few Arab workers laborously working in the sweltering sun with not a tree in sight moving tons of earth in bags and baskets on their backs as was done thousands of years ago. Now I'm from laboring type people (in fact on my birth certificate my Father, deceased, is listed as a common laborer) but these people were working and living in lean-twos as animals. However, as we drew abreast all the workers stopped what they were doing, came out of their little tents and shouted something in Arabic while throwing up their hands toward us. The Egyptian pilot later told us they were shouting Hail Nasser! Hail Nasser!

It's little things like this that make you stop and think. Another wonder to see in the Middle East is the chopping off of hands. Until recently a man's hands were chopped off one by one when he was caught stealing even a loaf of bread. Now the offender must be caught three times in many of the places but still with the economic situation as it is handless people will be seen for quite some time to come.

These Arabic people "endureth all things". Not long ago I was caught in a tremendous dust storm in which visibility was reduced to only a few feet and breathing was made difficult. The locals simple sat down and waited it out! I was told that it is a common occurance this time of year. Yet if it happened in our country the people would be screeming for the Government to do something about it.

On our wanderings about Europe and the Middle East while always being at the ready and relaxing only for a short time we learn much about these people who live "on the other side." To all peoples in all lands "America" is a beautiful word. People I have had the occasion to talk with would only to gladly give up all their wordly possessions to be able to come to America. I am convinced throughly that we Americans know little how lucky we are. The first and last prayers to God each day should start and end with "Thank you Lord for letting me be born an American."

In my nine years of service to my country I have put a year and a half during the past three years in the Mediterranean on destroyers. Now a destroyer is 396 feet 10 inches or so long and 48 to 50 feet wide. Living on a ship this size is not the most comfortable living in the world especially in 110-130 degree heat in the shade in parts of the Middle East.

Most Americans have no knowledge of what their sons, fathers and husbands give up when picking the Navy or any military service as a career. There are many and many a long and lonely moment spent either on watch or just "waiting" but when the loved ones are embraced on our return home we know that we have not been gone in vain.

I seriously believe that the people, all the people, of the United States must wake up and face the facts. We should have what could best be described as 'A Return to Reality" in our beloved country. They should look at the ruins in Rome, Athens, the Holy Land, and all the other places that we have been and see that nothing in the world is free, especially freedom. It appears from the lands I have visited and the ruins I have seen that when people started depending on the Goverpment to regiment their whims, both the Governments and the people have fallen and all that is left is decay and a few loose stones.

I daily pray in the deepest earnestness that my soul possess that Americans everywhere will wake up, face the issues, and have a general Return to Reality.

In parting may I say that it is truely significant in these times that:

Only one life, twill soon be past
Only what's done for God, will last.

Still Upholding Dad

To The Editor:

Just a note to tell you of Dad. Dad was a great guy. . .he a professional man, a Rotarian, quiet, conservative, but always supporting the poor, most of his friends were among the poor. A fine Christian man altho Dad wasn't an ardent church goer. But of late I'm bothered. One of my Government servents in Washington says Dad is a crook! Or inferrs it. You see Dad used to occassionally, maybe a couple of times a year bring home from the office some of the samples the salesmen would leave with him to be passed out to his customers. . .he would bring them home and give them to his family. Now, I read where doubts are cast on Dad. Like a man cheating on his expense account, Dad was fudging. Oh not a whole lot but enough that I have doubts floating around.

But I'm hard to change. And blood is thicker than water. I also read that my Government servents are not going to appoint the judges the country needs right now. . .as a matter of fact, the judicial has been needing help for a number of years but the Congress wouldn't let Ike get his bill thru even splitting the appointments 50-50 with the Demos. Anyway, we don't get any judges unless the Senators and other Representatives knuckle down and pass a bill the New Frontier wants. These kind of tactics smack of something lower than those I'm used too.

And while Dad if he was still around might be caught by Uncle Sam and forced to correct this so called swindling. . . .I'm going along with Dad—but I'll have to drop any sponsoring or backing of New Frontier projects. It seems to me the New Frontier had better first get the mote out of their own eye. Their tactics are pretty low, but maybe thats why the country is in the shape it is right now.

Commy Red Herring

To The Editor:

Your editorial of July 21 entitled "Kennedy Monstrosities" states "Three of the four legislative monstrosities sought on congress by President Kennedy have been aimed at total socialization of the United States, with a resultant dictatorship." So President Kennedy wants to be dictator now! This is as absurd as the politicians in this state who speak of the "Communist Supreme Court."

I find that many of your editorials are as reasoned as those written back in the days when your paper was a big supporter of Joe McCarthy. However, I doubt if you care to be reminded of that.

Self-Destroying

Imbedded Demolition Heavy In Kennedy Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Kennedy's Foreign Aid bill (S. 1983 by Senator Fulbright) carries the internal explosives of self - destruction. The powder-and - shot of imbedded demolition explains why the bill was reduced by almost a half - billion dollars from the Administration's estimated $4.7 billion before leaving the Foreign Relations Committee. The same reason tells why we may expect more fragmentation of the measure before it becomes law.

First among the self - killing contents of the bill are its "critical" and "crucial" arguments. I am relying heavily here upon facts and figures received from Senator Byrd of Virginia, who's very likely to expand them in debate. Mr. Kennedy and his entire ministry have tried to justify this astonishing bill on grounds of needful conditions in foreign lands. Well, by far the strongest arguments against the bill are the needful conditions in our own land.

Who will shed a tear for the USA? In this bill, as the President asked our Congress to accept it, are 46 grants of discretionary executive power, and 18 authorizations to flaunt our own laws. To list only some examples:

Title One of the Bill permits the President to apply Federal income other than taxes (such as sums acquired by selling surplus property) to economic development loans abroad. Existing law requires that such sums be deposited in the U. S. Treasuryy and withdrawn only on explicit orders of Congress.

Title Two permits the President to bypass existing laws about embargo of shipments to Iron Curtain countries.

Title Three disregards the law that requires giveaway goods to travel on at least a 50-50 basis in American flag ships.

The Fulbright bill takes its law - cracking course for 85 pages. While few members of Congress will spot all the violations, some body's ox gets gored in nearly every section — and some of these sections will be forcibly expelled.

Next among the self - contained detonations is the uncouth, unprecedented size of the financial commitment. The Administration likes to list the estimated cost at around $4 billion a year with a Five - Year Plan to ensure continuity by "back door borrowing" from the Treasury. But Senator Byrd, a Finance Committee member for 28 years and currently its chairman, has dug deeper in search of truth. If Byrd is right (and few have the temerity to dispute him in this field), the President is authorized to spend at least $12.3 billion in the first year. And over the five - year period, the President could spend $39.8 billion on foreign aid.

This virtual hemorrhage of American wealth would flow unstaunched by the annual appraisal which is the Constitutional duty of Congress. The Five - Year Plan deprives Congress of its full responsibility as guardian of the public purse.

If emergencies exist in the nearly six dozen countries on the alms list, do they not also exist in the USA? Our National Debt is close to reaching and passing the $300 billion mark. Our Defense Department spendings are now at $43 billion, and doubtless will go higher because of the Berlin crisis. The same upward trend is true of Atomic Energy and Stockpile costs.

But has the Kennedy Administration asked for cuts in domestic-civilian outlays for Labor, for Welfare, for Housing, for Agriculture? Alas, no. Federal spending in domestic - civilian affairs was $19.1 billion a year when the Korean War ended and was estimated at $37.9 billion as the Berlin crisis begins this current fiscal year. In fine, our Federal handouts at home have almost doubled between 1954-62.

Third, I think, the self - destructive contents of S. 1983 is its philosophic presentation. The preamble reads:

"A Bill to promote foreign policy, security and general welfare of the United States by assisting peoples of the world. . ."

This is such arrant humbug that, despite Congressional capacity for absorbing the same, the bill is bound to follow Newton's Law and to provoke reaction in the opposite direction. It is a piece of insolence to ask us to believe the "general welfare of the United States" is promoted by expending our resources, indebting our posterity, and breaking our own laws and safeguards.

Many years of entangling obligations, and an unchecked flow of rhetorical hokum, have accustomed us to Foreign Aid. Some such legislation certainly will pass. A total cut - off would not be desirable — but American interest would be served if much of this particular bill should oxidixe to nothingness before passage.

Improving Home

'Buyers Guide' Says Used Residence Best Bargain On Market

If you are among the millions of us who built and bought new houses in the 1950s and if you are a typical American family, by now you have sunk thousands of dollars into improving your home.

You have, say, finished the recreation room which was unfinished when you moved in. You have added useful storage places and shelves all over the house and garage. You have spent painfully large sums on landscaping. You have equipped your home with storm windows, screens, similar necessities—and on, on, on. . . .

As of today, you have a used house — and as of today, your house is the best bargain on the market for a buyer.

This is the conclusion of a new, detailed study of today's housing market, "Home Buyers Guide," just released by R. R. Smith and E. A. Michalski—and, as a homeowner who fits snugly into the category to which Smith and Michalski are referring, I can strongly affirm that their conclusion is right.

Your improvements and additions make your house more attractive and livable, but these are part of the package your are offering to sell and you can't charge a buyer specifically for them.

What's more, it's futile to try to impress your purchaser with stories of what you went through to finish your rooms, create your lawn, etc. He's bargaining for a complete house and that's that.

The lot on which your house stands probably is larger than lots on which new houses are being put up now, because land prices were much lower when your house was built. Smith and Michalski estimate that used homes may be on lots 25 to 50 per cent larger than new houses in the identical price range, but your lot too is part of the package you're offering and your purchaser will take this for granted.

The neighborhood into which you moved several years ago has by this time taken on a distinct character and the values of the houses in it are established. This eliminates many risks in home ownership, but your purchaser will accept this advantage as due him.

The mortgage you have on your house well may be at a substantially lower interest rate than that being asked on new mortgages. When your buyer assumes your mortgage, he'll get the benefit of this lower interest rate, and he won't hate to pay the closing costs involved in financing a new house either. These factors should impress him, but how much extra money they'll put in your pocket is questionable.

The errors you made in planning your house and the flaws your builder made in constructing your house have been corrected — and these errors and flaws show up only after a house has been lived in and settled down. Your buyer still will say he's buying a package, not its parts, and he'll not reimburse you for these expenses.

The argument over which is a better buy—a new or used house—is a never-ending one and the financial aspects frequently are dwarfed by personal desires in this biggest money move in the lifetimes of most American families.

That millions want only new houses is obvious. Homebuilding this year is now running at a rate of 1,374,000 units and is heading upward. The new housing bill is designed to spur housing construction to new peaks, and there is no doubt that as the 1960s wear on, today's youngsters reach marrying age and establish homes of their own, the housing market will take off. Each year also, about 250,000 houses are torn down because they have become unlivable.

The market in our land for new houses is huge and climbing — and that's healthy for our entire economy.

Nevertheless, with 2,800,000 families or 61.9 per cent of the total living in homes of their own, it is clear that the great source of housing is the used house, and particularly the post-World War II house.

Thus, Smith and Michalski perform a service in emphasizing the down-to-earth, often underestimated or ignored financial advantages of buying a house that was built in the late 1940s-1950s. To sellers trying to push up a price and to buyers trying to bargain down a price, these points are valuable guides.

Be Different

Once upon a time there was a man who set out to be popular and well - liked.

His name was Mortimer Witherspoon Thrope.

He went to the public library and read a book on how to become popular and successful.

"The way to be popular is to be normal," the book said. "Just act as a normal, blanced civilized individual should act and you're bound to be well - liked."

So Thrope faithfully followed the book's advice. He decided to become the most normal individual in his community.

They had three children, all of whom got medium grades in school.

He drove a medium - sized car- neither too dull nor too flashy— and traded it in on a new one every three years.

He joined the Elks, the PTA, and the American Legion. He was good to serve on committees but always declined to run for office in any of these organizations. "Oh, there must be someone else better qualified," he said, modestly.

He subscribed to a book club, but carefully avoided reading any of the selections — unless they hit the best seller list.

Mortimer always — or almost always — got up to give his seat to an old lady on the bus, particularly if anyone from his neighborhood was on the bus, too.

He always arrived on the job punctually at 9 a.m., and left promptly at 5:30. "I get paid for doing a full day's work — and I like to give it to them," he said.

When the boss told a joke in a conference, Mortimer was the second employe to start chuckling and the next to the last to quit laughing.

At cocktail parties Mortimer got high but never loaded, and never bragged about himself. "Tell me about yourself - you must have had an interesting life," he urged those he met.

After 15 years of exemplary living, Mortimer suddenly awoke to the fact that instead being widely popular, he was being avoided, even by old acquaintances. They seemed uneasy in his presence.

So Mortimer hired a public relations man to find out why. This individual made a secret survey of Mortimer's neighborhood and office and came back with his report.

"They think you're too good to be true, Mr. Thrope. They don't trust you. They think you must be hiding something."

Moral: If you want to be popular, be different. Everyone suspects anyone who acts too normal.

Another Latin Beachhead

The best experts on Latin America see another Kremlin beachhead in Latin America within a month — this one potentially worse than Cuba if that can be possible.

The new one will be on the northeast tip of South America and will be British Guiana, a former Crown Colony which will assume full international autonomy August 21, and total inpendence probably within two years.

Next month's elections in that country are expected to find the People's Progressive Party of Chedi Jagan victorious. The American - educated Jagan was imprisoned in 1954 by the British for subversive activities and was described at the time as a "convinced Communist."

Jagan has allied himself closely with Fidel Castro, whom he calls "the Great Liberator." A trip to Havana last year led to promises by Castro of political and economic aid. Senator Thomas J. Dodd recently warned of the worsening Latin American situation and said that British Guiana was more dangerous than Cuba for "it provides a beachhead through which Kremlin could feed arms and give support to Communist Guerrillas in Venezula, Brazil, Colombia and surrounding countries.

Plaudits For Mayor Howard

Mayor Jack Howard of Monroe certainly is to be commended for his efforts to form the South - Wide Municipal Association. Such an association might go a long way toward heading off a lot of the crushing legislation that has been passed and aimed at the South the past few years. At least, such an organization is worth a try.

Reports from Mayor Howard's tour the past week indicates that generally the idea of such an asso-association was greeted with enthusiasm. Only North Carolina of all southern states showed no interest.

The main purpose of such an association is to give the South a voice on the national level — which it doesn't have at present. Then, too, it would serve as a coalition against legislation that the South is not in favor of — particularly federal aid to education which is one of the most damnable pieces of legislature we have seen in a long time.

A southwide meeting is scheduled for Memphis August 11-12 of which Howard will be temporary chairman. At the conference, officers will be elected, dues and membership qualifications will be set. Headquarters for the organization, if formed, would be in a southern city, with an office in Washington.

Again, we personally think the people should be behind such an association.

Capital Camera

Salvatore Bontempo, a New Jersey Democratic state official nominated by President Kennedy, was sworn in last week as the top security officer in the State Department. Although Representative Francis E. Walter, chairman of the House Committee on Un - American Activities, has been highly critical because of Bontempo's complete lack on investigative experience, some in Washington, according to Human Events, speculate that JFK has been in hot water with the Italian - Americans since January for not appointing someone of their nationality to an important post— and decided he would be politically dead with the group if he were to dump Bontempo. It seems like to us that it is too late to worry about people with experience joining the federal government. We don't have many qualified ones around Washington anyway. . .

The Battle Act Amendment, passsed by the Senate and now before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, envisions increased aid to Communist countries, such as Poland and Yugoslavia. On July 13, Poland's Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomulka told a crowd of 15,000 in Outer Mongolia that Poland has offered $10 million in aid to that country. On the same, day Yugoslavia announced new "cooperation" with Soviet Russia. Why not check and see how our two Senators voted on this measure. . . .

Quote of the week — Following his first six months in Washington, Congressman Richard Roudebush of Indiana, who came to Washington as a conservative, calls himself as "ultra - conservative." The freshman Republican continues, " I went to Congress fearful and apprehensive of our nation's future — and now I am downright frightened." . . .

The United States, which is assessed 33.5 per cent for UN operating costs, is actually paying 43 per cent of the world body's budget since France and the Communist nations refuse to pay their bills. . .

H. R. Gross, Rep. - Iowa, feels U. S. distillers should get a fair cut of the take. During debate on the U. S. Information Agency appropriations bill, Gross noted that $100,000 was earmarker for intertainment abroad in comparison with a paltry $500 in the U. S. The Iowan argued this not only benefitted foreign distillers at the expense of American grape squeezers, but he expressed doubt that the new USIA director Edward R. Murrow "is experienced enough to spend $100,000 on cocktail parties." Gross offered an amendment to knock out the $100,000, leaving only the $500 item on the theory that USIA and other agencies "should be taken off the bottle gradually." The Gross amendment was defeated. . .

— An amusing story about a Pentagon general and a data processing "electric brain" machine is told by Elwyn Darden of General Dynamics Corp. The general, seeking the same answer as everyone else, thought he might try the big machine with the mechancial mind. He wrote on a card, "What about World War III," and submitted it to the machine. Lights flashed, wheels turned and out popped the answer. One word, "Yes." The general scratched his head and submitted a second Question, "Yes, what?" Again, flashing lights and turning wheels. Out came the answer, "Yes, SIR!"

Myer Feldman, special Presidential assistant, reports his young son, Jim, took advantage of a legend during a recent tour of the executive offices of the White House. Feldman lead his 11 - year - old into the cabinet room and pointed to the President's chair at the center of the huge conference table. "I told him there was a legend that any young man who sat in that chair and made a wish would have the wish come true. After he'd sat in it a minute I asked him what he had wished. He told me, 'I wished that my father would pay me the two bucks he owes me.' What could I do but pay?"

The young elevator operator in the Capitol is used to answering all kinds of questions. A stranger approached with a routine question, "Can you tell me where the Senate Dining Room is?" He answered the stranger and asked a question of his own. "Did anybody ever tell you that you look a lot like Ezra Taft Benson?" "Why, yes," confessed the visitor. "You see, I am Ezra Taft Benson."

SOUTH OF THE BORDER

Communism In Nearby Mexico

EDITOR'S NOTE — Communism is already just 90 miles down the road in Cuba. Could it move in right next door? Here's a report on the noisy Mexican left and Lazaro Cardenas, its ex-president spokesman who tweaked Uncle Sam's nose once before and would love to do it again.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Old presidents, said Lazaro Cardenas, should pipe down and fade away. Cardenas has done neither.

The former president, who once challenged the world's powerful oil companies by expropriating their Mexican properties in the 1930s, is a fond admirer of Fidel Castro and his Cuban revolution.

Would he like to see Cuba and Mexico lock arms in a Red-tinged embrace? Does he still have a following? Is the present government "soft" on him?

Cardenas himself a quarter of a century ago helped set a rule that ex-presidents should bow out of the political picture. He proved as good as his word by deporting his predecessor, Plutarco Elias Calles, in 1936 for violating the rule.

But earlier this year Cardenas openly opposed the government of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos. There were widespread and persistent reports—which Cardenas took his time denying—that he planned to set up an opposition party.

As Cardenas spoke warmly for communism and against the United States, tourism and investment dollars from the north began to drop off.

Right after the abortive invasion of Cuba, Cardenas tried to fly to Havana. When his flight was blocked, he appeared at an anti-American demonstration to protest.

One reason for alarm among Mexico's neighbors, was the government's silence. Was Cardenas acting with government support? Was Lopez Mateos wary of him?

Then presidential secretary Humberto Romero declared the government "is not afraid of Cardenas. As an ex-president and a citizen of Mexico, he has freedom of speech which we are not trying to control. He has the right to say what he thinks."

Romero also said that Mexico was not Communist but was following a leftist course in accord with its revolutionary constitution.

In away, he said, Mexico is merely trying to catch up with many U.S. welfare privileges such as social security, minimum wages and other social benefits.

No one questions Cardenas' loyalty. Even his foes admit he is a Mexican first of all. But next he is a Marxist and would like to see Mexico take a Marxist line.

When asked bluntly, "Are you a Communist?" he replied: "Can anybody be against a theory which tries to solve the problems of the masses?"

Answers vary as to Cardenas' strength. Informed sources claim he is not as powerful as publicity indicates. Most think he is not strong enough to push over the government without outside help.

His major support comes from labor unions, peasants and leftist students.

When he advocated land reform, one government source estimated his following may be as high as 20 per cent of the voters. When he speaks up for Communist causes, it may sag to less than 5 per cent.

But the Communists and leftists are well-organized and noisy. They spend money freely—many recent demonstrations were paid for as a result, headlines have at times made Cardenas look like Mr. Mexico.

Not long ago he sponsored a leftist "peace conference" drawing Communists from all Latin America. He pushed through a resolution offering help to Cuba if attacked.

What the government will do is an open question. Lopez Mateos has the reputation of letting opponents get far out on a limb, then chopping.

He jailed the famous painter David Siqueiros, who had boasted he was too important to be imprisoned. Communist Siqueiros had gone to Cuba, lauded Castro, claimed Mexico had betrayed its revolution and attacked Lopez Mateos for not moving far enough to the left.

Another case was the powerful railroad union and its Communist leaders. Nothing was done while they talked and agitated, but when they called a paralyzing nationwide strike, they were jailed. Two years later, they're still behind bars. Two Soviet diplomats were deported in the strike's wake.

Cardenas is barred by the constitution from another presidential term. But he could stage a "legal" revolution if one of his followers should be elected.

Cardenas was born May 21, 1895 of Indian parents in the small village of Jiguilpan de Juarez in the state of Michoacan where he is still a sort of legendary Lincoln.

He was manager of a small printing office in 1913 when he joined the revolutionary forces. He took up arms, fought in the ranks, and in 1924, became a brigadier general.

He was elected president in 1934, handpicked by Gen. Calles who thought he would be a rubber-stamp executive. But he wasn't.

Cardenas aroused Catholic ire by closing church schools, legal under the constitution. He also enforced coeducation and tried vainly to set up what at the time was known as "socialist education."

As a check on the Mexican army, he distributed weapons and organized a peasant militia, much as Castro is now doing.

Still vigorous, still an army general, and still a hero to the masses, Cardenas returned to the pubic scene in the early 1950's, taking a cautiously leftist slant.

As his comeback gathered force, so did his leftwing orientation. He backed Communist-leaning Jacobo Arbenz in Guatemala, accepted a Stalin Peace Prize, visited the Soviet Union where he bought millions of pesos worth of tractors and farm equipment for Mexico'e collective farms.

Danger, Intrigue, Mystery

SATURN OVER THE WATER. By J. B. Priestly. Doubleday $4.50.

The veteran novelist and playwright Priestley has written a good old fashioned cloak and dagger melodrama, with all the startling switches, dangerous situations and international intrigue that go with this type of writing.

The story is told by Tim Bedford, a London painter. His friend Joe Farne, a scientist, has gone out to a mysterious institute in Peru, and something has happened to him. Bedford promises Farne's dying wife to find out what has been Farne's fate. He has nothing to go on except a hastily scribbled list of names and phrases that Farne managed to send from Chile.

Bedford's adventurous journey takes him to New York, the wilds of South America and finally to Australia. He becomes involved in a romance with Rosalia, daughter of the institute's founder, not to mention a flirtation with a mysterious Nadia.

He manages to catch a glimpse of Farne — drugged, of course—in South America, but doesn't catch up with him until the trail ends in remote Australia. He is always running into international agents, and finally discovers the motive behind all the shadowy intrigue. This part is fairly plausible, but the final scene with an old astrologer on a mountain is a bit of a stretch.

Priestley says he wrote this book as a "piece of self-indulgence," because it is "the kind of story I love to read." Being an old hand at narrative, and sophisticated enough to give his story the verisimilitude of truth, he has concocted a pleasant book. It isn't distinguished, but there's nothing dull about it.

Senior Citizen Housing Has New Concept

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new concept in "senior citizen" housing — providing living, social, medical, recreational and religious facilities in a unique communtiy — is being launched by a California builder next month.

Much attention will be focused on Rossmoor "Leisure World," as the newest, and most unusual senior citizen project, which will include complete medical care and drugs, short of hospitalization, as part of the monthly payments on own-your-own apartments.

Ross W. Cortese, builder and developer of the community at Seal Beach, Calif., near Los Angeles, said the project — a $150 million, 541-acre community—"is free enterprise's solution to the nation's problem of housing for the elderly."

The one and two bedroom garden apartments will sell for $9,750 to $10,500, with maximum monthly payments of $93 to $97, based on a minimum down payment of about $500. After a unit is paid for, all benefits continue for a maintenance cost of approximately $40 or $45 monthly. FHA and conventional financing will be available, Cortese said, and the apartments may be purchased for cash.

Minimum age for owner eligibility is 52 and no physical examination is necessary to qualfy. Apartment ownership will pass on to the deceased's heirs or estate. If the heir's age does not qualify him to live in the community, the apartment will be leased or sold with proceeds going to the heir.

Ordeal Of A Lady: Makes Top Reading

A CREW OF TWO. By Beth Eberhart. Doubleday. $4.50.

The author's husband Vady had been a wanderer and improviser all his life. So after their children were grown. it was no surprise to Mrs. Eberhart when he dragged her into Alaskan fishing waters to help him try his hand at operating a trolling boat.

Few wives would have put up with the ordeal she had to go through — in fact Mrs. Eberhart retreated just before the season was over. She feared the water. The long hours of drudgery, the close quarters in the small boat, the risks, dangers and disappointments all combined to make a summer of hardships.

But Mrs. Eberhart is an artist in watercolors — she illustrated the book — and there was some compensation in seeing the beauties of the Alaskan sea and mountains. And if her husband caused her ordeal, at least he let her know that without her companionship his expedition would have meant little to him.

Her book is an odd combination of offbeat adventure and commentaries on the ups and downs of marital life. There is excitement in the struggle of greenhorn fishermen to beat nature's odds, and a pioneering flavor in the descriptions of the wild territory.

Fortunately the author has a sense of humor and a sharp pair of eyes, which help make this an interesting diversion.

Europe Visited Anew By A Good U.S. Explainer

INSIDE EUROPE TODAY. By John Gunther. Harper. $49.95.

Having written so many "Inside" books ove the years (except one whose title should be "Inside John Gunther"), the author has returned after a quarter of a century to a survery of Europe.

The publishers underline the fact this is an entirely new book, and no mere revision of the "Inside Europe" of 25 years ago. It is a commentary on our times that a revision would have had to change everything but the commas and periods.

And of course Gunther has summarized the radical changes that have taken place since 1936, when the dictators were on the rise and the map was a lot different from its present appearance.

But this fact gives rise to a speculation that his present surver may be valid for only a few years, for fate seems to have reached a higher rate of acceleration these days. As he points out, many European statesmen, even though presently vigorous, are aged men who have made little preparation for bequeathing their powers to other men.

Gunther has made a patient catalog of the political personalities and splinter parties of the small countries as well as the more powerful ones. These sections seem rather plodding and as you read, it is almost impossible to avoid the cynical conclusion that Europe is plagued by a heritage of fatal political splinters.

But Gunther is in better form when he discusses Germany and Adenauer, Great Britain and Macmillan, and France cum de Gaulle. In these chapters he rises into a higher level of reporting and the reader is better able to grasp the essential meaning of the forces at work in these countries.

Gunther always has been one of the better journalists, with a facility for explaining complex situations, such as the Common Market of the Inner Six and the cross currents of the Outer Seven. He has made a timely evaluation of what Khrushchev is up to. In all these analyses he may not have the depth of the professional pundits in the field of foreign affairs; for being a good explainer.

Perhaps it would be best to classify this volume as a good, working handbook of where things stand in all the countries of Europe as of now. It may not be as profound as some works by the various writers who specialize on certain countries. But it is understandable and up to date, comprehensive and straightforward.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS

A new novel by John Steinbeck is always worthy of litrary notice. His latest book is called "The Winter of Our Discontent" and it differs very much from many of his earlier novels. For one thing he has changed his locale from southern California to New England. Mature, disturbing, fascinating "The Winter of Our Discontent" attacks some of the shoddy attitudes of our society toward honesty and success. This theme of the loss of integrity in our world—the decline in standards of personal, business, and political morality—has been waiting for a novelist worthy of it and Steinbeck has handled it beautifully.

An exciting novel of adventure and intrigue in far away places and times is "Angelique in Barbary" by Sergeanne Golon. The time is during the period of Louis IV and the place is the islands of the Mediterranean where the Barbary pirates held sway. Those who read the earlier "Angelique" by the same authors will want to read this one. An unusual and disturbing novel is "Lilth" by J. R. Salamanca. This is the story of a young man who worked in a mental institution and who fell under the spell of one of the most beautiful and evil patients. A mystery story by Frances and Richard Lockridge is always eagerly awaited. Their latest title is "The Drill is Death". This story has it's setting in New York and involves a body found in a taxi and other upleasant happenings. For an evening of suspense and excitement, don't miss "The Drill is Death."

Vina Delmar is one of our most popular modern novelists. Her latest book is "The Big Family" and is based on the life of John Slidell of Louisiana. The story begins in New York during the Colonial period and traces the fortunes of the family in their rise to wealth, prominence and political influence. Many interesting historical characters such as Andrew Jackson, James Buchanan, General Beauregard, Edward Livingston, Judah P. Benjamin and Emperor Louis Napoleon move through its pages. "Walls of Glass" is the title of a new volume of short stories by Phyllis Bottome. Her books always make interesting reading.

A book for which we have had many requests is "The Black Muslims in America" by C. Eric Lincoln: It is a frightening, but informative book and one which the well informed person should read. A very valuable book of information for farmers and entomologists is "Chemical and Natural Control of Pests" written by E. R. de Ong an entomologist of the University of California.

One of the most beautiful books which we have added in many months is "Life Pictorial Atlas" published by the Life Magazine. The introductory section is a beautifully illustrated section dealing with the Universe, which includes the solar system, the moon and the sun. Then comes the earth with a discussion of its many features and man's adjustment to his environment. Then each of the political subdivision of the world is taken up. This is truly a fine book and is a worthy addition to any library. It would also be a fine book for a home library.

Veteran Stage Scripter Solid For Hard Work

Two Scoundrels At Large Good

THE MAN WHO SOLD THE EIFFEL TOWER. By James Johnson, with Floyd Miller. Doubday. $3.95. THE GENTLEMAN WAS A THIEF. By Neil Hickey. Holt - Rinehart - Winston. $3.95.

In the free - spending days of the 1920's there was a lush crop of marks (victims) for debonair and daring confidence men, and a happy hunting ground for jewel thieves in the estates around New York City. These books are about two of the best known rogues of that period.

"Count" Victor Lustig, the subject of Johnson's story, was a very cool and engaging con man who operated mostly in America but also tried the trans - Atlantic steamers. On one excursion abroad he actually "solid" the Eiffel Tower (while posing as a French bureaucrat) to a scrap iron dealer. Then when the coast was clear he peddled it again.

He used a "money machine" gag for such gullible characters as a social climber and a crooked sheriff. He also tricked one victim into "helping" him swindle a poor dying man (a Lustig accomplice out of some gold stock; of course the money put up by the sucker went into Lustig's pocket.

Lustig's downfall came when some of his con games began to catch up with him and he turned to the distribution of counterfiet money. He ended his days in a federal prison.

Hickey's book is about Arthur Barry, the most talented of the second story men. He slipped in and out of great houses, usually when the victims were at dinner, and hauled off tens of thousands of dollars worth of jewels at a time. In his heyday he lived the high life and at times could rub elbows with his victims, apparently on equal terms.

Barry's first mistake was to pick up an accomplice. The latter had a mouthy girl friend. His second was to stage a jail break which turned into a general riot. There is a lot of suspence in his three subsequent years of dodging the law, but when he was caught the second time he had to spend many years in jail.

As light reading, these are entertaining books about scoundrels. They had enough imagination to commit crimes on a large scale, and to keep out of jail longer than the average. Their stories make interesting diversions.

For CHRISTMAS!

In Coquimbo, Chile, every boy in the worst slum sectors of town received a pair of blue jeans for Christmas! These were the first, clean, whole clothes many had ever had in their lives! This clothing was collected from American churchgoers and sent to Coquimbo. Lists of needy children were gathered from public, Protestant and Catholic schools and a Jewish refugee organized the outfitting job. By Christmas, 5,000 children were dressed in clean clothing!

This is one example of Americans supporting the Overseas Aid Programs of their faiths. While this case is Protestant—all three faiths—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—maintain programs that provide not only clothing but jobs, tools, housing, schooling and food for those in need overseas! Military Beefing Up To Benefit Business

Wide Range Spurt Likely In Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—The United States' economy was confronted during the week with many vital questions raised by President Kennedy's program for beefing up the country's military strength to meet the Berlin crisis.

If the situation doesn't degenerate into a shooting war, business stands to reap vast benefits through greater production of a wide range of goods.

The additional $3.2 billion sought by the President for the armed forces in the current fiscal year will span a great range of the economy.

While the President didn't ask for tax increases at this time, he said he would next January if necessary. This left businessmen wondering if additional profits might not be wiped out by higher taxes and other controls.

What the expanded defense effort will mean in the way of manpower is another question.

Business and industry stand to lose many skilled workers, technicians and executives when National Guard and reserve units are called to active duty.

On the other hand, refilling these workers' ranks and the additional demands of increased production and higher draft quotas should put a sizable dent into the total of unemployed.

The first immediate effect of the President's statement was to spur the stock market into its biggest gain in more than two months.

Financial experts felt the extra defense spending would stimulate the current steady rise in business conditions to an out-and-out boom.

Indications of business improvement were apparent in second-quarter earnings reports issued by many corporations during the week. While only a few exceeded a year ago and the 1961 first-half figures were unimpressive against the 1960 period, there was ample evidence of a gain over this year's first quarter.

"The improvement in general business activity which began in the first quarter gained momentum in the second quarter," said Chairman Frederic G. Donner of General Motors Corp. "The automobile industry responded strongly to this improvement."

Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., said he expected the steel industry to show improvement during the balance of the year. He predicted production in the second half would run around 53 to 55 million tons, compared with 44.8 million in the first half.

New passenger car sales in the middle 10 days of June were the highest for any midmonth sales period this year and for the mid-June period since 1955. Dealers sold 177,400 American-made cars, about 13 per cent more than a year ago.

Production this week fell to an estimated 79,000 cars from 102,875 last week as more plants closed for model changeover.

Uncertainties arising from the automobile industry's labor negotiations continued to cloud the steel industry's immediate outlook. Steel sources said automakers were holding down their August orders.

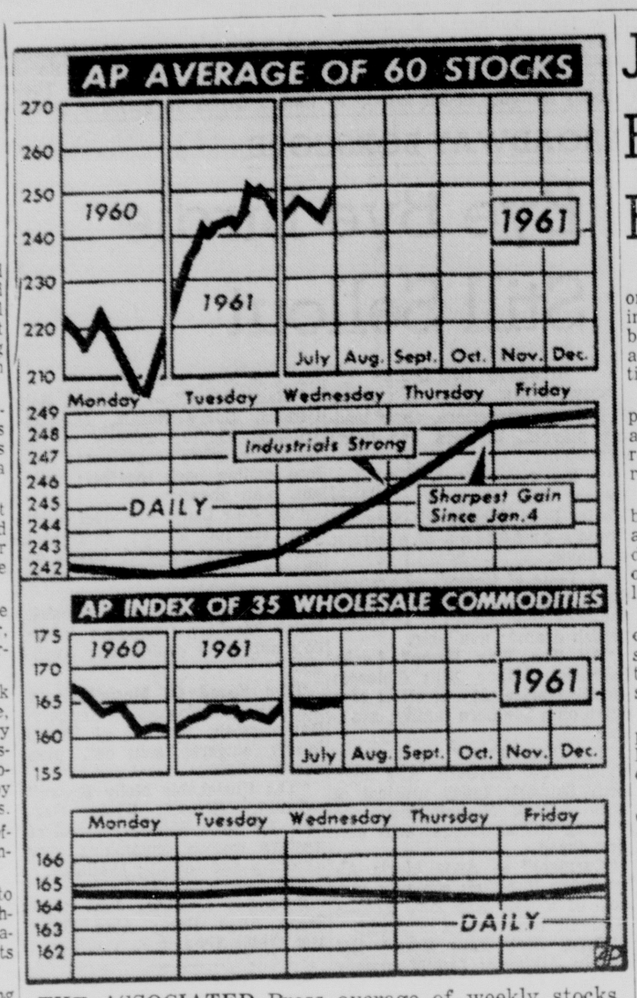

Steel output during the week totaled 1,858,000 tons, about 65 per cent of estimated capacity, and almost the same as the previous week's 1,860,000 tons.

The cost of living nudged up to a new high in June, the Labor Department reported. The consumer price index—the average costs of a typical city-dwelling family—advanced two-tenths of one per cent to 127.6 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

The increase resulted from higher transportation and housing costs and a seasonal rise in food prices.

Machine tool orders, an important business barometer, rose in June to $60.6 million from $49.6 million in May and $55.1 million in June 1960.

Briefly around the business scene Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plans to spend $180 million on new plants and equipment by the end of 1962... Magnavox Co. will enter the $185-million-a-year home organ industry with an all-transistor electric organ.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of weekly stocks registered its sharpest weekly gain since early June last year when it closed Friday at 248.7 from 242.3 a week ago. The commodity index fell back this week to 164.4 from 164.7 in the preceding period. Food showed the widest loss. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Jobless Still Big Problem For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nearly one million jobless, bypassed during the nation's economic comeback, add up to a major headache for the Kennedy administration.

The workers have been unemployed for six months or more and indications are that their ranks will increase despite the recovery trend.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg was reported to be fighting an uphill battle within the President's cabinet for all-out backing of two measures designed to relieve long-term joblessness.

One proposal would provide federal grants for retraining. The second would establish a program to open up more jobs for youngsters.

Negroes, the unskilled, workers past 45 and newcomers to the labor force are the chief victims of lengthy unemployment.

Goldberg disclosed recently that one-fourth of the 928,000 persons who could not find work for 27 weeks or more were Negroes. Yet Negroes form less than 12 per cent of the labor force.

Jobless rates were steepest for unskilled and semi-skilled workers in the metalworking industries. The department says that steel production picked up 13 per cent with only a 2 per cent increase in the work force.

Many youngsters who are seeking first jobs also spend a long time out of work, the figures show. The unemployment rate for teen-agers shot up as high as 25 to 30 per cent in June.

Even more serious, Goldberg believes, is the idleness of workers in the 40's and 50's because of new labor-saving machinery and automatic control of production lines.

"Some of these men have to admit they're washed up in their line of work and find something else to do," he said in somber tones.

"The only humane and sensible course is to provide training and retraining facilities."

Despite administration sponsorship of the two training bills, a Labor Department study said this approach could not solve all of the problems.

"The inability to find employment may reflect discriminatory hiring practices that can be altered only by fundamental changes in attitudes and laws," the study said.

"For still others the difficulties are personal—ill health, lack of education and similar conditions."

The author, Jane L. Meredith, said the 1960-61 recession apparently increased long-term joblessness (15 weeks or more) by about 800,000. It reached a postwar peak of 2.1 million last April.

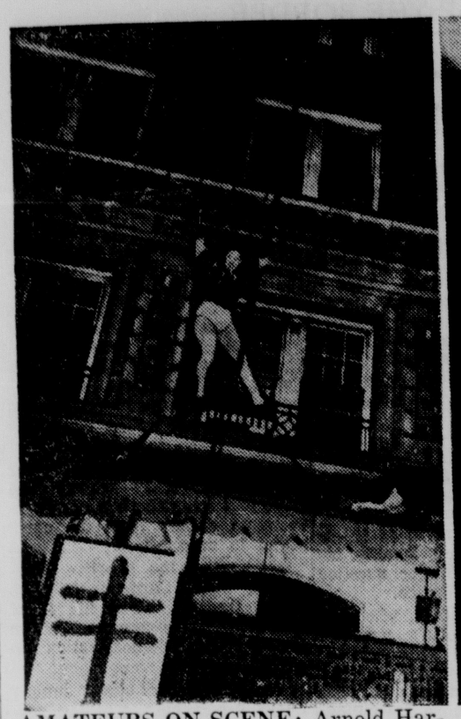

"If past recessions are a reliable guide, long-term unemployment is likely to rise for several months (seasonally adjusted) even after recovery begins," she wrote.

Despite the grim aspects of the problem, she said, it is a long way from the conditions of the great depression during the 1930's.

Overall unemployment has never idled more than 75 workers out of every 1,000 during the postwar slumps but it rarely affected less than 150 out of 1,000 from 1931 to 1940, she said.

But she said the growth of automation and the decline of the railroad, mining and textile indistries were signs of greater long-term unemployment in the future.

The number of "war babies" coming into the labor force in the 60's also will put workers on the sidelines for longer periods, she predicted.

Camera Notes

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The best news picture is taken by the man who is on the scene at the right time with a camera — and knows how to use it.

This unbreakable maxim of photography often places the amateur on a par with the professional, at least for the split second it takes to make a picture.

Hardy, then a 24 - year old student at Georgia Tech, was in downtown Atlanta one day in 1946 when the fire sirens screamed. The Winecoff Hotel was ablaze.

Hardy hurried to the scene and began clicking away with the camera he had bought only a month before to start a hobby. He took a series of pictures and brought them to the Associated Press which bought them on the spot.

One of Hardy's pictures, a dramatic shot of a woman leaping to her death from a hotel window, won for him one of photography's top awards, a Pulitzer Prize.

Hardy had no time to plan his great newsphoto shot but Joseph Spallino of New York planned his with care.

Spallino, armed with a small folding camera, was visiting Boston's North End during a hurricane in 1954 when he heard neighboring folks speculating whether the wind would take away the steeple of the famed Old North Church.

Spallino bet that it would. He bought a roll of film and hied himself to a rooftop a block away. He estimated his light, set the camera at 1-50 of a second at f5.6 and waited.

Sure enough, the wind did sheer off the historic steeple and Spallino's single exposure, sold to the AP and distributed nationally, won him wide acclaim.

Take your undeveloped film to the nearest newspaper, wire service or syndicate office. Tell them what you think you have and the conditions under which it was taken. They'll develop it for you.

Who knows, the amateur ranks may be full of unknown Hardys and Spallinos.

Stock Mart Scores Big Weekly Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—The "Kennedy bull market" returned to Wall Street last week as the stock market made its biggest weekly advance in more than a year on the heaviest trading in seven weeks.

The President's proposals for nearly $3.5 billion in additional military civil defense spending without an immediate tax boost was greeted enthusiastically by the financial community.

This, combined with the President's estimate that the deficit would be increased to more than $5 billion, was regarded as inflationary by stock analysts; and common stocks are the traditonal hedge against inflation.

Steels began to rally even as the week began and were joined by aircraft-missiles, motors, electronics, rails, oils and utilities, among others.

The public began coming back to the stock market. The immediate response to the Kennedy program was a four-million-share day, the first in seven weeks.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 22.32 to 705.13, coming very close to its historic closing peak of 705.96 reached May 19.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 6.40 to 248.70, not much below its historic high of 252.60, established May 17.

The week's volume of 17,360,360 shares compared with 13,352,340 in the previous week and was the largest since 19,721,550 shares were traded in the week ended June 10.

The Wall Street mood changed radically. On Monday only 2.49 million shares were traded as the list declined irregularly. By Thursday, the daily total swelled to 4.17 million shares. Psychologically, it was a switch from extreme caution to great optimism.

The steels began to rally in the sluggish Monday session, but this was because of a switch in sentiment over the weekend, casting a rosier light on prospects for the steel industry this year. The immediate occasion for this were the quarterly reports of U.S. Steel not only declared its usual dividend but covered it with profits for the quarter. Bethlehem settled some creeping doubts among investors by declaring the usual dividend although quarterly earnings did not quite cover it. As the week ended, forecasts for the steel business this year were bright.

The market began to rally late Tuesday, in anticipation of Kennedy's television speech that night.

"Dear Eunice,

"My children and I have been having lots of fun this summer making fiesta jackets out of sweat shirts. These are the jackets that are worn over bathing suits and serve as light weight jackets for any occasion.

"Our problem is this: After we have machine stitched the many, many rows of braid and rick rack on them, the front and lower edges become stretched and ruffled looking. Is there any way to prevent this?"

Mrs. J.L.E.

Dear Mrs. J.L.E.:

It is very easy to stretch a knit type fabric without knowing it until it is too late. I would suggest you baste a piece of firm cotton fabric on the wrong side of the front and the lower edges of your jacket. This will keep the jacket from stretching.

You may now machine stitch all the jacket from stretching.

You may now machine stitch all the rows of trimming on and if any of the cotton extends beyond the last row of stitching from the wrong side, cut it off.

SPAGHETTI STRAPS

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"Is a covered rope belt used on sun dresses and formals made the same as spaghetti straps?"

Mrs. M.M.

Dear Mrs. M.M.:

Yes, and these covered cord or rope belts are very popular today and can be made for almost anything. They are especially attractive when made out of solid colors to go with the colors in a print, also as contrasting colors for plain fabrics.

I just have prepared a new leaflet which gives detailed instructions for making them and some of the methods of using them. You may get it by sending 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 4, "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts," to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.

CREATIVE TOUCH

"Dear Eunice,

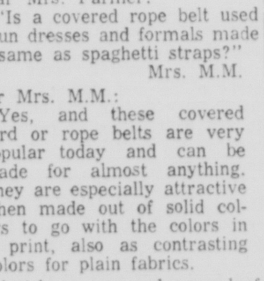

"Is there any way to fix a dress that is about an inch too small through the bust? It is a plain white sheath with a founded neckline, the zipper is in the side. I have a strip of material left."

Mrs. J.J.

Dear Mrs. J. J.:

There are many creative touches you could use to cover up your mistake. Actually, interesting designs can come out of such situations.

Cut your bodice down the center front, from the neck edge to the waistline. Add a bang of at least one inch at the center front. This could be done very attractively by applying a navy blue or red cording in the seam and it would look like it was intentional.

Don't forget that the neckline will now be too large. You could take two darts on each side of the center front, stitching them on the outside instead of the inside to make them look more decorative.

If you are an advanced seamstress, you might add an embroidered "arrow" at each point of the darts.

Please send all questions and suggestions to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Two Large Oil Pipe Line Firms Due To Merge

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A 12,500-mile oil pipe line system will be formed Monday with the merger of the Humble Pipe Line Co. of Houston and the Interstate Oil Pipe Line Co. of Shreveport, La.

Merger of the two largest crude oil pipe lines owned by Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) will give new firm daily crude and products deliveries in excess of one million barrels, the highest in the country.

The merged firm will retain the name Humble Pipe Line Co. Its corporate offices will be in Houston. Area headquarters will be in Shreveport, Houston, Midland, and Corpus Christi.

P. H. Hunter, president of Interstate, will be president of the new firm. W. S. Sprangler, president and general manager of Interstate, will be vice president for operations.

Saturday's announcement said the merger is the most recent step toward unification of Jersey Standard's domestic operations under the Humble name.

In late 1959, Jersey Standard placed all its domestic producing, refining, and marketing operations under a new Humble Oil & Refining Co. with headquarters in Houston.

Work Launched On Wildcat Test

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The CATC groups has begun a wildcat oil test in 180 feet of water 100 miles south of Morgan City, La.

The initial test is to be drilled to 14,000 feet.

The CATC group, organized in 1946, has 248 oil and gas wells in 22 fields in the Louisiana offshore area. The group was organized by Continental Oil Co., Atlantic Refining Co., Tidewater Oil Co., and Cities Service Production Co.

Stamp News

Four new U. S. Commemoratives recommended by the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee will be issued this year by the Post Office Department. The four stamps will honor the 50th anniversay of Naval aviation, the 50th anniversary of the Workmen's Compensation Law, the centenary of the birth of artist Frederic Remington, and the 100th anniversary of the Nursing profession.

The Naval Aviation stamp will be issued on Aug. 20 to coincide with the meeting of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences-Navy in San Diego, Calif. It will pay tribute to a half century of the development of the Navy's air arm and its contributions to the national defense.

A stamp to be issued on Labor Day will be dedicated in Milwaukee, and will mark the anniversay of the effective date of the first successful Workmen's Compensation legislation passed by the Wisconsin legislature of 1911. The Wisconsin law set the pattern for compensation laws passed subsequently throughout the country.

Frederic Remington, famed American artist known for his treatment of the American West, will be honored on Oct. 4 with a multi-colored stamp. It will feature one of Remington's outstanding paintings. The Post Office Department claims this stamp will be the first multi-colored reproduction of a piece of fine art on an American postage stamp.

The multi-colored stamp honoring the nursing profession stems from the time in 1861 when formalized training of nurses in professional schools began in this country. The time, place and design of this stamp will be announced later.

In addition to these four stamps, the Post Office Department promises there will be two more commemorative issues forth-coming this year. These six stamps would bring the 1961 total to 15 stamps.

To commemorate the centenary of the issue of the first postage stamps of Nevis in 1861, a special set of four values is being released by the government of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla. This group comprise one of ten British colonies which make up the Federation of the West Indies.

The 2 cents red with green border shows the original 1 pence. The 8 cents rose in blue border depicts the original 4 pence. The 12 cents grey lilac in red border illustrates the original 6 pence. The 24 cents green in orange border pictures the original 1 pound stamp.

St. Kitts and Nevis were discovered by Christopher Columbus on his second voyage to the West Indies in 1493.

Wildcat Opens New Oil Field In Mississippi

Triad Oil and Gas Co. completed the Gambrell Wildcat this week, assuring a new oil field for Jones County.

The well, Sec. 34-10n-14w, flowed 288 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,460-98 feet with reports that it will be set at this zone.

A sand at 11,512-24 feet flowed 144 barrels and a sand at 8,130 feet logged oil shows, but was not tested after production casing was set.

In the Pool Creek Field in Jones County, the third new oaler was assured. The McGill No. 1, sec. 23-9n-10w, drilled by Placid Oil Co., tested 562 barrels per day from 11,084-94 feet and 240 barrels daily from 10,723-42 feet.

In the same field, Placid was below 10,300 feet in the Mercer No. 1, sec. 23-9n-10w, and Texaco Inc., was below 10,300 feet in the Foote No. 1, sec. 15-9n-10w.

Oil Issue Revived In Congress

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An old and quarrelsome issue in oil marketing circles—fixing retail prices under a so-called fair trade label —was revived in Congress this week.

A special Senate Commerce subcommittee headed by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., held hearings on such a bill sponsored jointly by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Hugh Scott, R-Pa. and William Proxmire, D-Wis.

The measure would allow interstate manufacturers, including oil refiners, to set minimum retail prices within the states on products identified by trademark, brand, or trade name so long as they were sold in open competition with comparable rival products. Retailers would have to abide by the prices or face prosecution. The law would supersded state fair trade laws which have suffered many legal reverses.

The legislation is aimed primarily at chain drug, grocery and appliance stores but would include refiners unless they were specifically exempted. It is regarded as having a fair chance of Senate passage but House action may be delayed until next year. Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the House Commerce Committee, is sponsoring a bill but has scheduled no committee hearings.

The goal sought is to protect the small merchant, including independent filling station operators, from price-cutting practices among chains and discount companies which annually drive thousands of the small fry to the wall.

Last year the Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled that gasoline was "not suitable" for fair trade pricing, a stand taken by some other courts. It held there was no genuine competition in sales. It said, for instance, that a supplier had no right to legal brand protection when he sold gasoline obtained in an exchange with another supplier.

Under present federal law a refiner cannot set a minimum retail price if he himself competes with the station operator. Several courts have held that a refiner competes at the retail level when he makes direct sales to consumer accounts.

Both the federal and Pennsylvania laws permit a fair trade price only when the product is sold in "fair competition." But the Pennsylvania court argued that in any given geographic area nearly all major brands of gasoline are sold at the same price—that this is circumstantial evidence inferring a price-fixing agreement. It said further that gasoline companies buy and sell each other's gasoline, thereby depriving themselves of trademark or brand protection.

"When these basic reasons for fair trade are removed," it said, "the result is that the price and not the product is being protected."

In 1951 the U.S. Supreme Court dealt fair trade what looked like a knockout blow when it held that price-fixing contracts were binding only upon retailers who signed them. But Congress a year later passed the McGuire Act making them binding on all.

State courts got into the legal act by scuttling many state fair trade laws in whole or in part. And finally the situation was befuddled even more by a Supreme Court ruling that a retailer could not be forced to abide by a set price unless an interstate manufacturer was registered to do business in his state, in this case New Jersey.

This, if complied with would make the manufacturers subject to state taxes, license fees, etc.

Whitey Ford Notches His 19th Yank Triumph

Doug Sanders 2 Strokes Off Pace

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CHICAGO (AP)—Jerry Barber, a watch-fob golfer with a king sized swing, shamed the game's goliaths Saturday, by shooting his second straight sub-par round and taking the halfway lead in the PGA Championship with a score of 136.

The 5-foot-5, 137-pound mite from Los Angeles, beaten in a heart-break finish in the same tournament two years ago, added a 67 to a first round 69 for a two-stroke lead over Doug Sanders and Don January, tied at 138. Sanders shot a second round 68 and January, with a chance to tie the course record 65, took a bogey at the 17th for a 66.

January took the limelight from his playing partners—Arnold Palmer, the new British Open champion, who shot 72 for 145, and Masters winner Gary Player of South Africa, who had a 74 for 146.

The first round leader, Art Wall Jr., of Pocono Manor, Pa., could do no better than a 72 after opening with a 67 and held third place at 139—one shot ahead of a trio, tied at 140. They were defending champion Jay Hebert, who had 68-72; bespectacled Ernest Vossler, 68-72, and tough Ted Kroll, who came charging in with a 68 after a first round 72.

Only one other player among the late starters still on the course apparently had a chance of upsetting these standings. He was Don January, a slender Texan, playing in a threesome with the heavily favored Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, both well back of the lead.

The second round, postponed from Friday because of a heavy cloudburst, was played in oppressive heat and humidity of a rain-soaked course which played heavy and sluggish. Its 6,722 yards seemed like miles.

Less than half a dozen among the nation's leading tournament and teaching professionals were able to break the 35-35—70 par of the tradition-rich Olympia Fields Country Club course.

Besides Sanders and Kroll, these included former U. S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff, whose rallying 69 placed him at 143, and Bud Holscher of Hollywood, Calif., who bounced back with a 68 after an opening 77 for 145.

The spongy fairways were filled with pock marks from the heavy traffic and frequently well-hit shots fell into almost impossible lies.

The tournament still is a wide open affair as it swings into Sunday's 36-hole showdown.

Tied at 141 were the new U. S. Open champion Gene Littler, Don Fairfield and Bob Rosburg. Two former champions, Walter Burkemo and Doug Ford, were in the group tied at 142, along with Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn.; Gardner Dickinson, and Wes Ellis Jr.

Barber, a bespectacled little man of 45 who looks more like a bank clerk than a golfer, salvaged his remarkable round with a brilliant recovery after missing his tee shot on the 458-yard 16th.

On the 16th tee he became distracted by a cameraman and hooked his drive onto the top of an ugly fairway trap.

There, standing precariously with one leg in the bunker and the other on the bank, he laced a 4-wood shot just short of the green on the 458-yard hole, then chipped up to within 4 feet and sank his putt.

His age and small size may work to Barber's disadvantage in the strenuous double round climax, but Jerry said facetiously: "It will be tough on the young fellows—they're not as used to playing as we old guys."

Orioles Beaten On Berra Homer

NEW YORK (AP)—Whitey Ford won his 19th game of the year and 13th in succession Saturday when Yogi Berra hit an eighth inning home run for a 5-4 New York Yankee victory over Baltimore in a rain-delayed contest.

Berra, 36-year-old Yank veteran thrilled the Old Timers' Day crowd of 42,990 by hitting Jack Fisher's first pitch in the eighth into the lower right field stands.

Berra's 13th homer of the season boosted the Yanks' lead over second-place Detroit to two full games as the Tigers lost to Minnesota.

A morning-long rain had forced postponement of a scheduled two-inning game between Giant-Dodger Old Timers and former Yankees. The ceremonies were reduced to introductions in the rain and the regular league game didn't start until 3:10 p.m., EDT.

Hoyt Wilhelm, Baltimore's knuckle ball relief ace making his first start of the season, was roughed up in the third when the Yanks scored four runs.

Singles by Bob Cerv and Clete Boyer and a wild throw by Jim Gentile on Ford's slow grounder gave the Yanks their first run. Bobby Richardson's single drove in Boyer and Ford and Richardson rode home on singles by Tony Kubek and Berra.

Ford ran into a wild streak in the fourth when the Orioles scored two runs after two were out. A walk to Gus Triandos, a single by Dick Williams and a walk to Ron Hansen loaded the bases. Dave Philley's pinch single to short left brought in Triandos and Williams. Ford then walked pinch hitter Marv Breeding, filling the bases again, but he got Brooks Robinson on a foul to Elston Howard.

Baltimore tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh on singles by Breeding and Brooks Robinson, a wild pitch and a two-run single by Jackie Brandt.

Ford's victory equaled his career high of 19 in 1956 when he finished with a 19-6 won-lost record. He struck out seven, increasing his league-leading total to 148.

The 13-game victory streak left Ford only one short of the Yanks' record set when Jack Chesboro won 14 in a row in 1904. The modern major league record is 19 by Rube Marquard of the New York Giants in 1912. Four American League pitchers have won 16 in a row.

Ford's last defeat came at the hands of Boston May 29. He also lost his first start, April 11, a 6-0 shutout by Minnesota's Pedro Ramos.

OPELOUSAS, MINDEN, MONROE

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Monroe's victorious Legion warriors, home after successfully defending their Fifth District baseball crown, are getting ready for the double elimination series here next week to decide the North Louisiana champion.

The Brown-Rivers-Scogin nine blasted Ruston 11-6 in the showdown of a three-game series Thursday night. Ruston won the opener 4-2, but lost the second 23-13.

Vying with Monroe in the three-team tourney are Opelousas, winner of District Seven, and Minden, kings of the Fourth District.

There will be no representative from the Alexandria-Natchitoches area this year, according to J. T. Spencer, of Farmerville, Fifth District Legion baseball head.

Play is slated to run three days, starting tomorrow at 7:45 p.m. when Monroe takes on Opelousas.

The winner tackles Minden Tuesday at 3 p.m. and the two losers play at 7:45 p.m.

Wednesday winds up play with the unbeaten club pitted against the winner of the Tuesday night's losers' game, and should the once-beaten club win, a final game will get underway 30 minutes later.

All games will be at Legion Memorial Stadium and the visiting teams will be housed and fed at Northeast State College.

The winner of the North Louisiana tournament battles the South team for the State championship in a best-of-three series, which must be decided by August 12.

LOCALS HOPES

Monroe's hopes of making the state playoff a second straight year will ride heavily on the strong left arm of Lynn Causey, plus the availability of mound stalwart Neal Gunn.

The sterling mound ace left yesterday to attend practice sessions prior to the August 3 East-West high school grid game in Baton Rouge, according to Legion Coach A. R. Sims, and Gunn's presence for the series here is a definite question mark.

Should Sims have Gunn on hand, he will have a one-two mound punch that will be hard to beat. Causey returned to his old form in late season and Sims credits him with getting Monroe through the Ruston series. Together, Gunn and Causey should provide hard-to-beat depth on the hill.

At the same time, a continuance of the bat support Monroe started in their playoff games will give the hurlers ample support.

Only two hitters, Eddie Kincaid and Charlie Biggars were hitting above .300 before the playoffs. In the three games against Ruston, Monroe banged out 38 hits, inspite of Arnold Ramsey's six-hitter in the first game, with Carl Guinn, Kincaid, Joey McGinn and Ralph Roberts leading the way.

Kincaid has the top average, a sizzling .437. Biggars is second with .424, followed by Gunn, hitting .340 and McGinn .304.

Gunn's 5-1 mark is tops for the team on the mound, but Causey is catching up fast with 6-3.

Monroe finished the regular season with a 10-5 record, beat Rayville two straight games, before the Ruston series and wound-up 14-6.

SOUTHERN THREAT

Opelousas finished the year with a 17-5 record, including five playoff games. They slugged past Sulpher in two games, 5-2 and 11-3, then whipped Lake Charles 5-2 and 8-5, after dropping the opener 8-4.

Third baseman Bob Beasley paced the club through the playoff games, getting seven hits in 14 trips for a .500 average.

Short-stop Bobby Spillers was next with five for 12 to net .417, and Mike Guidrey, who plays first and pitches, went five in 13 for .385.

Harry Spellers pitched 14 playoff innings for a 0.50 ERA, while Reggie Cropper wasn't scored on at all in 10 and two-thirds frames.

The combined pitching staff had a 2.0 ERA total for the five post-season games. They fanned 38 in 35 innings, walked 19 and allowed 29 hits.

David Moore coaches the Opelousas nine.

MINDEN TOUGH

Minden in turn, will present no easy mark. The Webster Parish nine toppled B&N of Shreveport in the final of a three-game series for the Fourth District crown and sports a 16-5 record overall.

They are led by lefthander Mike Powell, who has nine wins without a loss, and a quintet of .300 plus hitters, in Bootsy Holley, Bo Jinks, Mike Brown, David Lee and Powell.

Both Minden wins in the District playoff came on the pitching of Powell, a 3-1 win in the opener and a 2-0 shutout in the finale. B&N won the other encounter 2-1.

Wrestling On Tuesday Bills 2 Newcomers

The wrestling card in Monroe for Tuesday, will have the addition of two new personalities for local fans.

Mike Clancy, the big black-headed and blue-eyed lad from Boston, was given the name "Mr. Irish" by fans from his home town. He is one of the most popular wrestlers ever developed in the Back Bay section.

The Great Bolo, who wears a mask while wrestling, may be one of the most vicious performers to ever appear in Monroe. He says the mask is not worn to conceal his identity, but only to protect his unmarked features.

Billed on the card with Bolo and Clancy are Jack Curtis Jr. and Corsica Joe. This will be Corsica Joe's second appearance in Monroe while it will be another of many appearances for Curtis.

The schedule for Tuesday:

BRAVES WIN IN 9TH

Buhl One-Hitter Beats Cards 2-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) Bob Buhl hurled a sizzling one-hitter as the Milwaukee Braves nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Saturday by scoring an unearned run in the ninth.

Ernie Broglio, who tossed a losing five-hitter, set the stage by walking Eddie Mathews and Frank Thomas in the ninth. Then with two out, Joe Cunningham dropped Joe Torre's fly, permitting Mathews to sprint all the way home from second with the winning tally.

Buhl now 8-8 for the season, had a no-hitter going until Ken Boyer singled to left with one out in the seventh. The Milwaukee fireballer retried the first 10 Cardinals to face him, then walked Bill White in the fourth, but White was out stealing.

Cunningham, leading off for St. Louis in the seventh, drew a wal and took second as White hit a bounder on which second baseman Frank Folling made a sensational play. Boyer's single sent Cunningham to third, from where he scored on Stan Musial's hopper to Buhl. That tied the game at 1-all.

Torre, whose single in the second was the first hit off Broglio, had given the Braves a 1-0 lead with a homer into the left field bleachers in the fourth—his ninth of the season.

Griffith Has Too Much For Yama Bahama

Griffith weighed 150¾ pounds, Bahama 156.

It appeared for a few moments in the seventh round that the champ was going to flatten the 28-year-old veteran of 81 pro fights. Griffith landed a right hand to Bahama's jaw, leaping with the punch. Bahama wobbled, backed down and managed to avoid the crusher.

Griffith, a 22-year-old native of the Virgin Islands, had too much speed and punching ability for the lad from Bimini in the British West Indies. Bahama was cut on the side of the left eye in the second round and wore a patch the rest of the way.

Judge Artie Aidala scored it 8-2 and Judge Tony Castellani saw it 7-2-1, both for Griffith. Referee Harry Kessler had it 5-5 with Griffith getting his vote on points, 6-5. He made Griffith a two-point winner in the seventh.

YANKEE GIRL TRAILING

American Spikemen Enjoy Fat Lead Over Polish Foes

WARSAW (UPI) — Jim Beatty, storming from behind in the home stretch, equalled the American record of 3:40.9 for 1,500 meters Saturday night to lead the U.S. men's track and field team to a commanding 68-49 lead over Poland at the end of the first day of their meet -at 20th Aniversary Stadium.

The U.S. women's team, however, trailed the Polish girls in points, 26-25, despite two brilliant races by Olympic champion Wilma Rudolph.

The big 19-point lead rolled up by the American men as they won eight of 11 events Saturday seemed to assure them of their fourth and final victory of an all-conquering European tour when the meet here ends Sunday. The U.S. women, who won two of five events Saturday night, are expected to fall further behind and suffer their fourth defeat.

Beatty, who will also try to win the 5,000 meter run Sunday, was one of three Yanks to nail down the first half of possible "double victories."

Frank Budd of Villanova University, the "world's fastest human," captured the 100-meter dash in 10.5 seconds in a photo finish with Polish star Marian Foik and will meet the same foe Sunday in the 200 meters. And Lt. Jay Silvester of the U.S. Army, who will compete in the discus Sunday, won the shot put with a husky heave of 18.73 meters (61 feet, 5 inches).

A crowd of about 70,000 watched the meet—some 40,000 less than attended the last U.S.-Polish meet in 1958. Threatening weather and the absence of some big-name American stars were believed reasons for the drop in attendance.

In addition to Beatty, Budd and Silvester, other U.S. men's victories were scored by Cliff Cushman of Grand Forks, N.D., in the 400-meter hurdles in 51.2 seconds, Ulis Williams of Compton, Calif., in the 400-meter run in 46.7 seconds, Ralph Boston of Tennessee State in the broad jump with 8.05 meters (26 feet, 4½ inches), John Thomas in the high jump with a leap of 2.13 meters (7 feet), and the 400-meter relay team of Hayes Jones, Budd, Paul Drayton of Villanova and Charles Frazier of Texas Southern in 40.0 seconds.

Cepeda Slams Giants Pass Phils, 4-3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Orlando Cepeda hit the first grand slam homer of his major league career and southpaw Mike McCormick made the runs stand up as the San Francisco Giants beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Saturday night.

Bobby Gene Smith accounted for all three Phillies runs. He smashed a homer into the upper deck in left with Don Demeter on base in the fourth and scored Demeter again with a sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Lowly Cubs Blast Redlegs From First In 7-6 Contest

CHICAGO (AP) —Homes runs by Ernie Banks, Billy Williams and Ron Santo powered the Chicago Cubs to a 7-6 victory Saturday which tumbled the Cincinnati Reds out of the National League lead.

The loss, coupled with Los Angeles' 5-4 victory over Pittsburgh, left the Reds in second place, two percentage points behind the Dodgers. It marked the first time since June 16 that Cincinnati has not been in first place.

The Cubs pounded out 11 hits and knocked right-hander Joey Jay from the mound in the fifth inning when Williams clobbered a three-run homer to give the Cubs and southpaw Jack Curtis a 6-1 lead.

Curtis scored his seventh victory and third over Cincinnati but needed help in the eighth inning when the Reds rallied for four runs—two of them coming on Jerry Lynch's pinch homer.

It was Lynch's eighth homer, his fourth as a pinch batter and third against the Cubs. Seventeen of his 27 runs batted in have been at the expense of the Cubs.

Chicago got to Jay, who was tagged with his sixth defeat against 14 victories, for two runs in the first inning and made it 3-0 in the third on Banks' 17th homer. Cincinnati picked up a run in the fourth on Gene Freese's 19th homer, but Williams made it 6-1 in the fifth with his 14th homer.

Elio Chacon, Leo Cardenas and Vada Pinson singled in succession to start hte eight inning for one Cincinnati run, and Barney Schultz relieved Curtis. Frank Robinson hit a sacrifice fly and Lynch followed with his homer.

The Reds got two more men on base in the eighth on an error and a walk but Schultz got pinch batter Gus Bell on a deep fly to end the inning.

Santo greeted reliever Bill Henry with his 10th homer to open the Cub eighth and it proved to be the winning marker as the Reds scored an unearned run in the ninth and barely missed pulling the game out when center fielder George Altman made a one-handed stab of Lynch's game-ending fly ball.

GRAB LEAGUE LEAD

Dodgers Squeeze By Pirates, 5-4

PITTSBURGH (AP) —Duke Snider's ninth inning home run followed by a pair of singles sandwiched around a sacrifice gave the Ios Angeles Dodgers a pair of runs and a 5-4 victory iver the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

The victory was the eighth straight for the Dodgers.

The Dodgers were trailing 4-3 when Snider led off the ninth with a solo, pinch-hit blast into the upper deck of the right field stands —the same place he parked a homer Friday night.

The loss was charged to Pirate reliever Al McBean, now 2-1 for the year.

Ron Perranoski, who turned in two fine relief innings for the Dodgers, received credit for the victory, and is now 6-2.

The Dodgers got only one run, an unearned marker, off Pirate starter Harvey Haddix over the first six innings. But they shelled him from the mound with three singles and a sacrifice fly in the seventh when they scored a run that evened the game at 2-2.

Dodger starter Sandy Koufax went six innings, giving up two runs and eight hits, before he was lifted for a pinch hitter. Larry Sherry came on in relief but gave up two runs without putting out a man in the seventh, one of the runs coming on Roberto Clemente's 16th homer.

Perranoski came on with the bases loaded and retired the side without allowing another run. He set down the Buccos in 1-2-3 order in the eighth.

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — William Heller's Mal-Don-D., an even-money favorite, ran his Rockingham Park unbeaten skein to four Saturday with a victory in the $10,000 Manchester Handicap.

The 4-year-old chesnut colt repulsed several bids during the running of the mile and 70 yards feature and finished 2½ lengths in front of Motor Line, who beat Net Ball by a nose. Longus was fourth in the field of eight.

It was his fifth victory in 13 starts this year and he paid $4, $3, and $2.40. Motor Line returned $5.80 and $3.40 and Net Ball $3.20. Mal-Don-D's time for the distance was 1:41 3-5.

Pirates Claim Tom Sturdivant

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Saturday the purchase of pitcher Tom Sturdivant from Columbus of the International League and the sale of pitcher George Witt to Ashville of the Sally League. Both are right-handers.

The sales prices were not made public.

Sturdivant was with the Washington Senators at the start of the 1961 season and went to Columbus in June in a trade. He had a 4.61 earned run average with the Senators but has compiled a 1.30 ERA and 5-1 mark in six starts with the Jets.

Witt appeared in nine games for the Pirates this year, pitched 15 2-3 innings and had an 0-1 record. He was on the disabled list from May 26 to July 13 with an ankle injury.

Fifth Straight Victory For 2-Year-Old

CHICAGO (AP)—Unbeaten Ridan, carrying the colors of Mrs. Moody Jolley to his fifth straight victory as a 2-year-old, easily won the $211,750 Arlington Park Futurity Saturday with Green Ticket second.

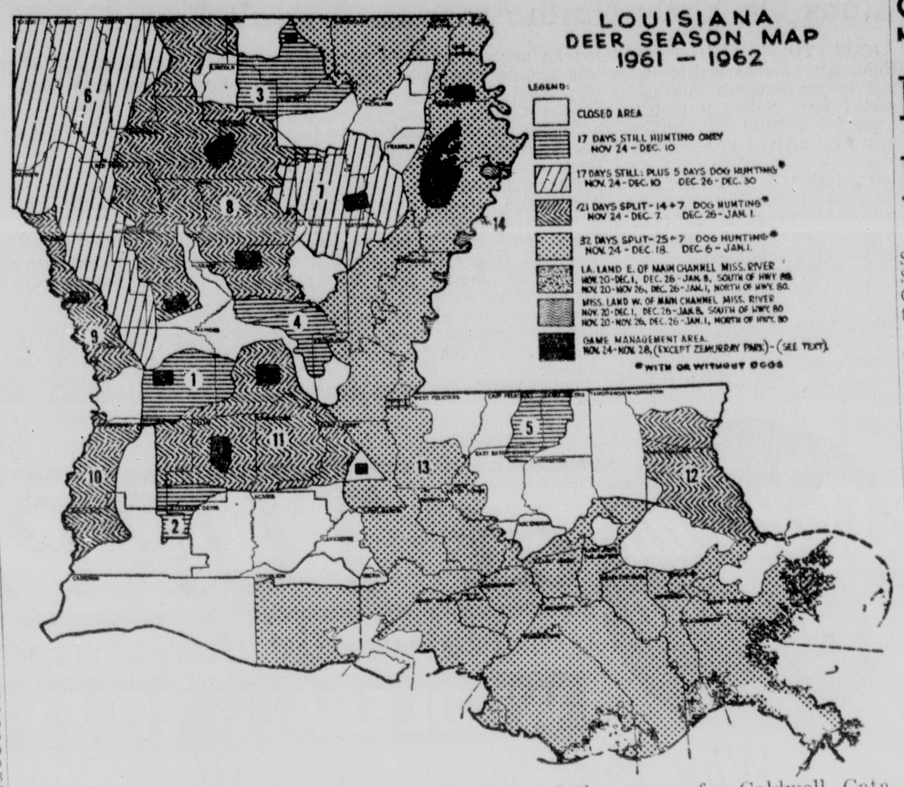

The towering son of Nantallah, ridden by Bill Hartack, zipped the 6 furlongs in 1:09 compared to a track record of 1:08 4-5.

Ridan went off as a 1-5 favorite on the board and paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.20 to backers in a crowd of 26,462.

Green Ticket, ridden by Eric Guerin, paid $2.80 and $2.40. Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's voyage was third and returned $4.60. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Herff's Obey was fourth in a field of eight juveniles — all weighted at 122 pounds

DEER SEASONS in Louisiana are shown in the above map produced by the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission. Since the release of the map, at the request of sportsmen, the commission changed the season for Caldwell, Catahoula and LaSalle, giving the three parishes an 8-day season with or without dogs. For information on all the seasons, see the story below.

WATERFOWL LATER

Louisiana's Resident Game Hunting Seasons Listed

Louisiana hunting seasons — with the exception of waterfowl — have been set by the Wildlife & Fisheries Commission following studies by biologists and public hearings for sportsmen.

The dove season will open the hunting for state sportsmen, beginning September 2 and running through September 17, for the first half of the 70-day split season.

Afternoon shooting only will be allowed during the dove season with legal shooting hours from noon until sunset. The bag limit on doves will be 12-per day with a possession limit of 24.

Squirrels and rabbits will become legal game on October 7. The squirrel season will continue through January 10 — daily bag limit 8, possession 16.

Meantime, the rabbit season, longest of all seasons, will end February 15 — daily bag limit 8, possession 16.

As is the case each year, the turkey season, with a framework of March 1 to April 30, will be set later in the year. The gobbler season normally runs about seven days.

SHORT BEAR HUNT

Two Louisiana parishes, both in the Delta, will have a bear season this year — December 26-30 in East Carroll and Madison, lying east of Bayou Macon from the Arkansas line to U. S. 80 and north of 80 from Bayou Macon to the Mississippi River.

Bear hunters will be permitted one animal per season while cub bears are prohibited.

With the deer seasons opening Thanksgiving Day, the commission will set the waterfowl season after it receives the framework from the federal government.

On other game birds, the seasons are as follows:

Rails and gallinules — October 7 through November 25. The bag limit will consist of 25 sora rails, or 15 other rails and gallinules. Shooting will be from sunrise to sunset. The bag and possession limit on rails will be the same.

Woodcock — December 7 through January 15. The bag limit is fixed at 4 and the possession limit at 8.

Wilson's snipe — December 2 through December 31. Both bag and possession limit is 8.

Deer hunters, permitted two legal bucks per season and only one on any day, have a more diversified season.

12 French Soldiers Slain By Algerians

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Twelve French soldiers were slain while sleeping when Algerian nationalist rebels infiltrated their post near Orleansville early Saturday.

The rebels first cut the throat of a Moslem sentry, then got into the post with the aid of three Algerian members of the little garrison.

TWICE IN 24 HOURS

Jetliners Plagued By Gear Troubles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two huge jetliners, plagued by landing gear and hydraulic system failures, made dangerous landings at International Airport late Friday night and early Saturday.

A total of 102 persons aboard the two jets emerged virtually unhurt, airlines officials said.

An American Airlines Boeing 707 jet, with 52 aboard, caught fire and suffered a tire blowout when its front landing gear collapsed as it touched down at International Airport.

Passengers and crewmen clambered out of the jet as smoke poured through the plane, which landed at 12:17 a.m.

The jet, en route from Boston via Chicago, Dallas and San Diego, was gashed under the cockpit, where the landing gear had collapsed. A minor leg cut to a crew member was the only injury, a spokesman said.

A few hours earlier, a Trans World Airlines jetliner, carrying 50 persons from Los Angeles to Boston, made an emergency landing at International Airport. No one was hurt.

TWA said one of the two hydraulic systems on the plane, a four-jet Convair 880, had lost pressure, preventing the nose gear from descending.

After three hours of circling, crewmen aboard the jet crawled into the belly and dumped about three gallons of water, coffee and milk into the plane's No. 1 hydraulic system. The fluid created enough pressure to get the landing gear down safely at about 7 p.m.

Clues On Early North America Arrivals Found

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University archaeologists working in northeastern Alaska reported back Saturday that they have found clues on how early man first arrived in North America.

Dr. Ralph S. Solecki said his research team has discovered several large stone tools of a type previously found across the Bering Straits in Asia.

The tools, called choppers, may be 10,000 or more years old, he said in a message sent from Peters Lake, Alaska.

Dr. Solecki, associate professor of anthropology at Columbia, reported the discovery was made on an unglaciated route between the Brooks Mountain range and the Arctic Ocean, north of the Arctic Circle.

There are few settlements in the area and transportation is almost entirely by air.

He noted that it has been a long-held theory that early man channelled from the Bering Straits area eastward over the Arctic coastal plain, to the MacKenzie drainage and thence southward into the heart of North America.

The Columbia team also reported it had discovered 10 other sites where ancient man lived.

The expedition is sponsored by Columbia and the Arctic Institute of Nort America.

Brides and bridal parties are spotlighted on the social calendar these summer days. A round of affairs of all types have honored our popular brides-elect in daily succession. Parties have just concluded for EVELYN AMMAN and WALT LIGON, whose marriage was solemnized yesterday at high noon in St. Matthews church.

The ROBERT WOOD home was a fairyland of white and silver Monday night when Robert, Camille, LILY WOOD, and ELIZABETH ATKINSON entertained at dinner honoring Evelyn and Walt. In the foyer, a low turquoise bowl held white phlox, Majestic daisies, and green and white calladium leaves before the console mirror.

In the family room, green and white calladium leaves, fern, and ivy were banked in the fireplace. A massive arrangement of Marconi daisies, tuberoses, stock, white ruffled petunias, and calladium leaves in a footed silver bowl decorated the grand piano.

Preceding dinner, hors d'oeuvres were served on the patio behind the family room. Potted white ruffled petunias and variegated calladium leaves caught the gleams of dozens of hurricane lights burning in the flower beds.

The bride's table was covered with a cutwork cloth and centered with a tall branched candelabra-epergne filled with Summer Snow roses, green and white hosta foliage, maidenhair fern, and tuberoses. Low silver compotes at each end of the table held matching arrangements incorporating small alabaster cupids. . . . Four individual tables, covered with mint green cloths, held six-branch white candle trees wreathed with white pompom chrysanthemums, maidenhair fern, and green hydrangeas. . . . Twenty-eight guests enjoyed the dinner consisting of Cornish hens basted in white wine, beans amandine, calico salad, and hot cheese biscuits. For dessert, Evelyn served lemon ice-box cake from an antique footed cake stand.

On Tuesday evening, Evelyn and Walt were guests of honor at a dinner at Bayou DeSiard country club. Hosts for this party were the JOE AMMANS, MAGDALEN AMMAN, and the CHARLES AMMANS. Miniature white chrysanthemums and English ivy, used with white candles, decorated the seven individual tables in the private dining room. The menu included individual boned, pressed chickens nesting on beds of rice, with strawberry pie for dessert.

A breathtaking moon contributed to the festive air at the boating party given Wednesday for Evelyn and Walt, with the EC WHEELERS, JOE, and CONNIE as hosts. Guests arrived at four and enjoyed several hours of swimming and water skiing before dark. Later a barbecued beef supper, prepared aboard, was served to about thirty-five guests.

The BREWER GODFREY home on Pargoud boulevard was scene of a reception Thursday evening honoring Evelyn and Walt. Co-hosts were the RAY RHYMES, the ARTHUR GRANTS, and the JOHN EBYS. Centering the table, was a bridal arrangement incorporating green grapes with tube roses, white chrysanthemums, and variegated foliage. The buffet included teriyaki steak with hot biscuits, smoked salmon, avacado dip, cucumber sandwiches, clam dip, and orange muffins. Approximately two hundred guests called between the hours of five and seven.

Following the wedding rehearsal Friday evening, Evelyn and Walt were entertained at dinner by her grandmother, MRS. ALLEN TURPIN, SR., of Bastrop. The party was held on the porch at Bayou DeSiard country club, where the table held pink and white flowers in a sterling silver epergne. A surprise for the bride was a birthday cake, complete with candles, Friday being her twentieth birthday.

Another popular bride-elect is HELEN THEUS, who is to be married next month to MICHAEL GREGORY of Dothan, Alabama. This pair were guests of honor at a cocktail buffet Friday evening in the home of the THOMAS LEIGHS. On the piano was a large silver bowl holding white asters, tuberoses, and stock. Magnolias used with their own foliage decorated the mantel. A Dixieland combo played for dancing on the spacious screened porch.

In the dining room, a bride figure surrounded by cupids playing musical instruments in a circle of fern and lilies of the valley made the centerpiece for the green-covered table. The buffet included hot hors d'oeuvres, stuffed ham, lobster rolls, shrimp, and petit fours.

Summer vacations provide time for travelling—our people leave for far-off playgrounds, and out of town guests arrive for visits here. Last week end the FREDERIC KINGS spend in Destin, Florida. On their return, they brought back Fred's cousin, FLORENCE WEISS, of New York City, who will be here for several weeks.

In New Orleans this week end are the JAMAR ADCOCKS and the BILL DENTS. They have been vacationing there since Thursday, are due home today.

EVERYONE WAS SURPRISED at the A. C. WARNERS the other night. The hosts invited a few friends for dinner, without telling that the reason for the party was their twentieth wedding anniversary. A. C. surprised Virginia with a centerpiece of bronze chrysanthemums for the dining table, and champagne for toasting the "bride." In the meantime, the guests had surmised the reason for celebration and surprised the hosts with a silver tray. A most happy occasion.

Vacationing in Gatlinburg, Tennessee, are BOBBY and JILL GOLDSMITH, and their son, JAY. They left on Thursday, will be gone another week.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK concerns a man who is presently taking his vacation at home. After a few days of his presence around the house, the maid was heard to ask his wife: "Couldn't we send him to day camp?"

Here for a long week end are DR. and MRS. M. L. JARRELL of Chattanooga, Tennessee. They arrived Thursday, and will be guests of the CECIL JARRELLS until tomorrow.

This is what happens when you tell
A child to sit and be still for a spell:
He's perfectly quiet . . . ten seconds at least.
Then he begins to work like yeast.
He wiggles his fingers, wriggles his feet,
Cranes his neck to stare at the street,
Reaches out to slap at a fly,
Draws his six-gun and shoots a guy.
He itches — he scratches; he stretches, he twists;
Screws up his face and balls his fists—
Leaves like a jet when you've had your fill.

Lavender Tones Appear On Table

"Lavender Blue," long popular in song, is about to invade the dining room. True blues and muted lilac tones were emphasized by 15 molders of a leading dinnerware who introduced their new fall lines in Chicago.

Pink and aqua, leading colors for the past few seasons, will continue to be popular, but blue, violet and heather tones will grow, it was reported after a study of exhibits at a recent housewares show.

MRS. GEORGE GILMER LaCOUR, prior to her marriage Saturday, July 29 in St. Mary's Catholic Church at New Roads, was Miss Nell Meek Bouanchaud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roland Bouanchaud of New Roads. Mrs. Bouanchaud is the former Gertrude Madison of Bastrop. Mr. LaCour of Morganza is the son of Mrs. Oswald Edgar LaCour and the late Mr. LaCour of Morganza. His mother is the former Annie Elizabeth Gilmer. The vows were solemnized at 9 a.m. in the presence of family members and close friends with Father Janssen officiating. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Morganza.

Patricia Dianne Pierpont Plans August 20 Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. John Howard Pierpont, 21 Kathy Lane, Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patricia Dianne, to Donald Marcus Blackwelder of Apopka, Florida. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Arlis Blackwelder, of Apopka.

The nuptials will be solemnized August 20 at 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Methodist Church with Dr. Ben Oliphint performing the ceremony.

Miss Pierpont has chosen Miss Sandra Gehlen to serve as maid of honor and bridesmaids will be Miss Charlotte Ford and Miss Dolly Bassett. Her sister, Miss Pamela Pierpont will be candlelighter.

Larry Blackwelder will attend his brother as best man and groomsmen-ushers will be Tony Smith, Carl Cousins, Robert Muldrow and Lawrence Pourciau.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas Whisner of Sun City, Arizona, formerly of Shreveport, and of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wellington Pierpont of Shreveport. She attended Byrd high school and was graduated from Neville with the class of 1961.

The future bridegroom is the grandson of Steve Williamson and the late Mrs. Williamson of High Springs, Florida and the late Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Blackwelder of Lake Butler, Florida. He was graduated from Apopka Memorial high school, Apopka, Florida, and Wingate Junior College, Wingate, North Carolina and is now a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College. The couple will reside in Monroe where Mr. Blackwelder will continue his studies.

Elmendorf, Miss Martha Garrison, Miss Lois Harris, Mrs. Marie Dell Horuff, Miss Clara Johnston, Miss Marguerite Kirkpatrick, Miss Bernice McCrary, Mrs. Marguerite Malone, Miss Jane Miller, Mrs. Lucille Seay, Miss Elizabeth Stringer, Miss Mary Moses, Miss Ann Farr, and Mrs. Horuff's granddaughter, Marie Evans from Philadelphia, Pa.

Nuptial Mass At High Noon Unites Miss Louise Evelyn Amman, Lt. Ligon

White stock and pink chrysanthemums banked the altars of St. Matthews Catholic Church to form a background for the Nuptial Mass solemnized at High Noon Saturday, July 29 which united in marriage Miss Louise Evelyn Amman and Lieutenant Walter Bachelor Ligon Jr., of Wayne Pennsylvania. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fredric Charles Amman, 2109 Island Drive, and Lieutenant Ligon is the son of Colonel Walter Ligon of Wayne, Pennsylvania and Mrs. Barbara Kerfoot Ligon of Paris, France.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized by Monsignor J. C. Marsh and the Rev. Joseph Rivoire. Appropriate music was presented by Allison Salley, organist, which included The Benedictus by Thiman; The Toccata from Symphony V, by Widor and Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach. He also accompanied Mrs. Robert Wood, as she sang Schubert's Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus by Cesar Franck.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Bianchi gown of silk mist, fashioned Empire style with a bodice of re-embroidered Alencon lace, embellished with seed pearls, featuring three-quarter sleeves and square neckline. Appliques of the lace formed panels on the side front and back of the floor length skirt which swept into back fullness to form a slight train. Her elbow length veil of imported illusion cascaded from a re-embroidered Alencon lace coif and she carried a bouquet of white Japhit orchids and stephanotis with a crystal rosary.

Miss Dottie Amman, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a short gown of white silk organza over pale pink, styled similar to the bride's, with square neckline and brief sleeves. Lace panel appliques adorned the belled skirt with the back waistline accented by a flat bow from which streamers fell to the hemline. She wore matching pink shoes and short white gloves and a coif of the dress material with a circular nose veil in pink.

Bridesmaids, who were dressed identically to the honor attendant, were Miss Connie Wheeler, Miss Suzonne Kellogg, Miss Lucylu Turpin, Miss Louise Amman, Mrs. Tommy Brakefield, all of Monroe and Mrs. Charles Corn of Washington, D. C. Over their arms the attendants carried white silk purses with chain type holders, to which were attached spray arrangements of Lady Bountiful roses and tuberoses. They also carried white missals, designed especially for the Nuptial Mass.

Nat Troy served as best man for the bridegroom. Groomsmen-ushers were Tommy Brakefield, Tommy Grant, Steve Nichols, Billy Turpin, Corbin Turpin Jr. and Joe Wheeler. Corbin Amman acted as ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Amman wore an aqua gown, styled with chiffon skirt and silk jacket type top. The elbow length sleeves were complemented by long white kid gloves and she wore an aqua swirl chiffon hat and aqua shoes and bag with a cymbidium orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue lace sheath in two piece style with hat and other accessories in navy and white. Her corsage was also of cymbidium orchids.

Punch was served from two glass topped tables on the covered patio, which reflected mass arrangements of white stock as the central decor. Hors d'oeuvres were served from glass top tables in the playroom. Carrying out the color scheme of the wedding, pink and white champagne was served in the garden, where pale pink and white caladium formed a background.

The cake was served by Mrs. R. L. Wood and Miss Magdalyn Amman, assisted by Miss Julie Amman and Miss Linda Atkinson. Pouring punch were Mrs. Carl Turpin, Mrs. Joe Amman, assisted by Miss Marilyn Wood, at one table and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mrs. Charles Amman, assisted by Miss Mary Ann Atkinson at the other. Mrs. Allen Turpin Jr. presided at the coffee service. Those receiving in the back parlor were Mrs. Allen Turpin Sr., Mrs. Rodney Kerfoot and Mrs. Fred Amman Sr., and receiving in the gift room was Mrs. Elizabeth Atkinson. Rice bags were distributed by Misses Cathy Amman, Sara Stewart McSherry and Nancy Wood and sandwiches were served by Misses Kathy McSherry, Susan Sperry, Minta Goyne, Jody Biedenharn, Doll Burgoyne, Sally Barham and Margaret Moore.

Members of the house party who assisted with hospitalities were Mrs. Dick Troy, Mrs. Paul Blackmon, Mrs. J. E. Wheeler, Mrs. Clifton Flinn, Mrs. George Snellings, Mrs. John Theus, Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. King Stubbs, Mrs. Felix Willey Jr., Mrs. Joe Dawkins, Mrs. Allen Barham, Mrs. John Sherrouse Jr., Mrs. William McKelvey Jr., Mrs. Clare Mayo Clark, Mrs. Lee Vanderpool, Mrs. Robert Wood, Mrs. J. L. Adams Jr., Mrs. Guy Campbell, Mrs. Bernard Levi, Mrs. H. G. McDonald, Mrs. G. L. Dixon and Mrs. John Eby.

Upon their return the couple will be at home at Fort Knox, Ky. Mrs. Ligon graduated from Neville high school and attended Hollins College in Virginia for two years. Lt. Shoes And You

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shoes and feet should be kept dry as a matter of foot hygiene. Shoes that are wet from weather or perspiration should be allowed to dry thoroughly away from artificial heat before they are worn again.

The National Shoe Institute said that if shoes are stuffed with tissue paper while drying, they will be less apt to develop irritating wrinkles and will keep their shape longer.

Vows were exchanged at 6 p.m. before an altar adorned with woodwardia and banked with fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli. Tiers of Chantilly lace encircled the bouffant skirt of nylon tulle, which was overdraped with the lace. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a half hat of Chantilly lace, accented with roses. The bride's table, covered in white heirloom lace and cutwork cloth, was centered with white butterfly roses and snapdragons designed around a white wrought iron 17 branched candelabra holding spiral pearlized tapers.

SILVER

Experts advise polishing silver in long horizontal strokes rather than in circles. And after polishing, always wash silver in extremely hot suds and rinses, and dry with a soft, clean towel.

TODAY'S HOME

New Nursery Furniture Has Gone Sophisticated

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nursery furniture has gone shophisticated.

It's a milk bar, says Arthur Umanoff who designed it, but it looks like a scaled-down version of the cocktail lounge variety. Replete with wrought iron foot rail, it's fashioned of orange and yellow stained wood slats; comes with rush - seated bar stools.

Cribs and case goods designed by Umanoff are just as adult in character. The case goods — chests and cabinets—are standard rather than baby-size, and many are sectionals, to which pieces can be added as the child grows and his needs change.

Designed to serve a child years beyond the nursery stage, the case goods are generally finished in natural wood tones and have colored panels rather than nursery decals for decoration. Even the colors of the panels—orange, yellow, moss green — are more sophisticated than the traditional nursery tones.

Umanoff's cribs, too, are chiefly wood tone finished, in French walnut, fruitwood, taffy maple and waxed birch. Most are Danish modern in design with gently-curved headboards and slender spindles at the sides. Graceful gallery rails across the back of several chests harmonize with the top rails of the contemporary cribs.

Period cribs in the collection include several canopied four-poster Early American designs and one French Provincial one, finished in antique white.

Fashionettes

Best Fed

NEW YORK (PI) — The food Americans eat today is safer than ever before Paul A. Buck professor of food sicence at Cornell University, told Institute of Food Technologists recently.

"Our grandfathers and perhaps our fathers had to exist during the winter on salted meats and root vegetables," he said. "This is a far cry from the modern supermarkets where we can select a diet of food products from any part of the continent or even the world at almost any season."

Aids Diminish High Forehead

Most women who have a high forehead feel they cannot change their coiffure from one of bangs, dips or sweeps to a fresh, new off-the-face style without becoming less attractive.

According to a leading beauty authority, however, a larger looking forhead can be glamorously dimished with the proper use of make-up.

First, apply foundation make-up in your regular shade. Then, use a shade one tone darker across your forehead at the hairline and blend carefully with the original shade. In addition, be sure to always keep a high forehead powdered, as a shiny surface will only make it more noticeable. Finally, pay particular attention to your eyes. Eeybrows should be arched a little higher than usual, and your eyes should be dramatized with eyeshadow, mascara and eye liner so that attention will be focused on the new beauty of the eyes rather than your forehead.

A reception followed in the church parlors which were decorated with white blossoms. Dieters Warned To Avoid Food If Over-Tired

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Don't eat when you're tired, advises an annual all-diet publication in its new issue. You may want to take a short nap before dinner. If you are relaxed, you will eat more slowly and digest your food more thoroughly.

1. Eat your food slowly. Make everything last longer, and not only will your digestion be better, but you will feel that you've eaten more than you really did.

2. Carry a calorie counter in your purse or your pocket and use it to determine how much you should eat before each meal, while you still have a chance to do something about it.

3. If you must have that between meals snack, keep fruit and rabbit food (celery, carrots, lettuce, radishes) close by and nibble on these. Their calorie content is very low.

4. If you feel the before dinner drink is necessary, switch from cocktails to highballs. Avoid mixed drinks at all costs, or your dieting success will be greatly endangered.

5. Don't force yourself to eat when you're not hungry. Take advantage of every opportunity to curtail those calories.

6. Don't keep too much food in the house. If extra fare is available, you may not be able to resist the temptation to dig into it. Plan your menus a few days at a time, and when you go to the market, buy only those things on your list, not a wide variety of delectable items that attract your eye.

7. Don't eat heartily before going to bed. If you must have a midnight snack, try a cup of hot skim milk. This will give you nourishment during the night and may even help you sleep better.

8. Prepare your main dishes at meals in a "gourmet" manner, using only low - calorie ingredients, learn to get the most out of the least in your cooking. If you enjoy what you eat, you'll forget that you've given up some of your old favorites.

9. Don't get more than eight hours sleep each night. You can't burn up the calories when you're inactive. People on a diet must be up and around and on the go.

MISS NANCY LEE WIXSON

All-Season Dress Makes Fall Debut

If you're interested in a costume that's a twelve-month proposition, there is the "all-season dress" that knows no special time of the year, looks equally charming under coats, furs or no coat at all. These little dresses are in russety prints in paisley, fruit or flower design. They may be in silks, gauzy wools, silk broadcloths or season-spanning cotton satins.

New-colors, that range from pale driftwood and pewter grays to spicy tweeds are signalling a strong trend for Fall. These newsy neutrals look dashing either in monotones or combined with flashes of brilliance. They even prevade the campus scene, where casual classics are very important. Here black against white clicks . . bayberry blue flannels and smoked-gray worsteds are on the rise.

For the college girl, the youngest of looks, prettiest shapes, most tempting colors make the news. There are guileless suits in bright green wide-wale corduroy . . . honey corduroy in a hooded car coat that reverses to bogus lamb fleece. Black "stretch" pants that contour the figure . . . and double-breasted reefer suits with straight jackets. A reversible overskirt with double knit knee-topper pants and blouse appears in sage green and beige. Classic tartan plaid makes a surprise entrance as an evening jumper with sash tied at lowered waistline . . . while the mainsail cape reappears over pipe-slim stretch pants, to major in glamour, minor in clothes cliches.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD W. WALKER

Vows Unite Mr. Walker, Minden Girl

Miss Sarah Ann Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Holland, of Minden, became the bride of Edward W. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne L. Walker, 210 Monroe Drive, Monroe, on July 14. The double ring ceremony was performed at 7:30 p.m. in Eastside Baptist Church at Minden by the Rev. A. T. Powers.

Two fan-shaped arrangements of white gladioli, with emerald and jade foliage and two candelabra holding white tapers, formed a setting for the exchange of vows. Pews were marked with satin bows.

Miss Opal Clark, pianist, accompanied Miss Mary Ann Watson and Gerald Walker, as they sang "Because," and "I Love You Truly," and played traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of slipper satin with fitted bodice of Chantilly lace, styled with scoop neckline and long sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. Her veil of tulle was attached to a close-fitting headpiece of white organza and her bouquet was a cascade of white feathered chrysanthemums interspersed with net and satin leaves.

Miss Jeannette Holland, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a street length dress of aqua cotton satin, styled similar to the bride's, with a headdress of matching bows and a short veil of net. Miss Ann Hall and Miss Sandra Walker, bridesmaids, were dressed in yellow cotton satin frocks, styled identical to the honor attendant with matching headdresses. All attendants wore white gloves and shoes and carried nosegays of yellow chrysanthemums.

Serving as best man was Henry Robin of El Dorado, Ark., and ushers were Danny Sanders and Alfred McFarland.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth over pink was centered with the bride's bouquet, encircled with the bridesmaids' nosegays. Miss Judy Walker, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest book. Miss Joe Ashley served the tiered wedding cake and Miss Sharon Vick presided at the punch bowl. Assisting with the hospitalities were Miss Nancy White and Mrs. O. D. Greer.

After a wedding trip to Kansas and Texas, the couple will reside temporarily in San Diego, Calif., where Mr. Walker is stationed as a corporal in the U. S. Marines at Camp Pendleton. For travel the bride wore a blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of white feathered chrysanthemums. Both are graduates of Minden high school.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sandra Lea Poole to Johnnie L. Patrick Jr. is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Harry L. Poole of West Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie L. Patrick Sr., also of West Monroe. The wedding will be solemnized September 2 in the home of the bride's parents with Rev. H. W. Freeman officiating. The couple will reside in West Monroe.

Bugs Vs Spray Becomes Annual Summer Battle

HOMEFRONT, U. S. A. (UPI) — I'm itching to run up the white flag in a buggy situation.

Today, the mail man told us we have ants in the mail box. And he told us how to get rid of them. But why try?

What's more, the things with powerful wings are battin' up against the insect-proof screens. Somehow, the bugs with miniaturized four-motor power systems get enough thrust to get through the screens.

As a result, these hot summer nights we have a choice — choke while trying to breathe insecticide filled air or slip a disc while tryin' to swat the pesky things with wings.

A few weeks back out place was pregnant with the possibility of developing into a mite-sized Sherwood Forest by mid-summer. Some 50 trees showed signs of putting on a summer-long show of greenery.

Before the little green apples just out of blossom got to medium sized green apple size, the worms pitched their tents — from tree's stem to stern. At that point, the bug experts told us it was too late.

Joining in the lament over the lost harvest was the pitiful percussion symphony — worm-riddled green apples by the dozen hitting the crabgrass.

Veronica Wilds, Fiance Select Wedding Party

Attendants have been chosen by Miss Veronica Wilds and her fiance, Guy Albert Luno Jr., for their wedding which will take place on August 10. Miss Wilds is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ernest Wilds Jr., of Monroe, and the future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Guy Albert Luno Sr., and the late Mr. Luno of Winnsboro.

The nuptials will be solemnized at 10 a.m. in Our Lady of Fatima Catholic church with the Rev. George Martinez officiating. A reception will follow at Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Miss Wilds has selected Miss Carol Cole as her maid of honor and bridesmaid will be Miss Charlotte Orenda Luno, of Winnsboro, sister of the prospective bridegroom.

Serving as best man will be William Oxley Humphreys of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bridegroom. Groomsmen-ushers will include Bunnie McKoin Cummins, Edward Simonton Harper III, Richard William Burgoyne, Henry Morgan Thomas, Harold K. Quinn of Shreveport and Charles Howard Hatfield of Winnsboro. Charles Ernest Wilds III and Frank McStravick, will serve as altar boys.

Lightning Bug Hunt Provides Active Sport

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI)—This town, typical homefront, U.S.A., gets all lit up these nights.

And it gives us parents a chance to shine as nature teachers—catching the winged things to brighten a dull evening for toddlers.

Now a lightning bug hunt easily turns into a mid-summer night's nightmare if the proper technique isn't followed.

There are two schools of thought on technique. One holds you snatch the bugs when they light. Once you feel you've palmed one, you make a fist around the blinkin' thing.

The other technique makes use of an empty jar and a lid. You tip-toe through the crabgrass and attempt to bring jar and lid together — cymbal-playing fashion—when you think a bug's near jar's mouth.

Now back in the days when an ice cream cone cost five pennies, I used to catch hundreds of the sparkling bugs the simple way — grabbing with the hands. It was SOP among the pig-tail set in Pittsburgh, Pa.

But the once smoky city isn't as sophisticated as Massachusetts — where my mate first caught lightning bugs. He swears he caught more—and faster—using jar and lid.

To each his own technique, and hunting being man's work, I did the womanly thing when it came time to enlighten our son.

I refused to take part in the foray. Besides I was busy cutting the lawn in the twilight.

But from what I observed, it's plain that the snatching technique is superior to the jar and lid approach.

Questions And Answers

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: I'm sure my present furniture, which I love, can be successfully combined in my dining room, but I need the proper touch. I have a Victorian table with marble top, Victorian captain's desk, straight - lined modern sideboard in mahogany with malachite pulls. What chairs would be fitting additions?

A: Keep backgrounds and chairs simple, allowing older pieces to occupy spotlight. Extremely simple modern chairs in mahogany with seats in formal traditional damask or velvet. Malachite green or Victorian claret would be best color. Off-white walls and draperies would silhouette shape and highlight tone of furniture. Malachite should be used as basic color for table accessories and desk items.

Q: Our wing back sofa is upholstered in brown linen with black and white flecks. Wood furniture is pine and we plan to have gold carpet. We plan to re-upholster two wing chairs. What color would you suggest for these, walls, draperies?

A: Ripe citrus colors in a floral print would be wonderful for the chairs. Paint the walls very soft gold, lighter in tone than carpet. Draperies might echo one of the colors in the print, or match carpet.

Q: We bought V-groove mahogany plywood paneling for our living room and dining room. Ceilings in both rooms are eight feet. We had thought to panel the room floor to ceiling. Now I am afraid this will make them seem too low. Do you think a four foot dado with upper walls painted or papered would look better?

A: Definitely not. Your ceilings are not high, I would avoid slicing the walls in half with a dado, thus making them seem even lower. Besides this much of the beauty of the wood will be lost, because so much of it will be hidden by being behind furniture. Paint ceilings white, use few colors and pale ones for furniture and rooms will not seem overpowered by the paneling.

Q: My young daughter's bedroom is papered in large scale pattern of connected dots and lines in pink and white on gunmetal ground. Wood trim and headboard are white, other furniture is maple. What colors would you suggest?

Q: I want to establish an Oriental mood in my den. Can you suggest a way? Thus far I have bone white walls and a black desk. I would like a mural paper on one wall. What color would you suggest for this, sofa, two chairs, and washable shag rug?

A: Typical Japanese color schemes are soft, subtle, employing pale celadon green, gold or slatey turquoise tones with large areas in wood tones and neutrals. These are livened by touches of lacquer and brass. Colors and motifs of authentic screens have been copied in America. Choose one of these papers on soft celadon or bamboo ground. Gunmetal sofa would be perfect foil for pale colors. Two chairs might be in tone-on-tone pattern in soft olive or gold. Repeat this color for rug and use red or black lacquer bowls, pillows in rich eastern silks, bowls or boxes of incised brass.

Q: My Regency sofa has been newly upholstered in eggshell color. I have one gold chair, mahogany tables and white Bristol lamps. What color walls, carpet, draperies, club chair and extra chair?

A: With whites and gold you can proceed in any direction. Have lightest shade on walls, perhaps eggshell. Carpet should be in deeper tone, gold maybe. Draperies might be pale shade of gold or accent color, might also introduce accent color in pale shade. Bristol blue, aqua or raspberry would be good accent colors. Have patterned fabric for club chair in one of these. Brighter shade of the same color, or one of the others, could be used for extra chair, accessories.

Q: One wall of my living room is paneled in maple - stained mahogany and is broken by center fireplace of red and white brick and two large windows. Rug is medium grey, two chairs smoke grey, and sectional sofa eggshell. I plan to buy Italian provincial furniture. What color walls, chair and ottoman, draperies? What color would suggest for lamps, end tables and a long, low cabinet to house stereo set?

A: Match walls and ceiling to your eggshell sofa. Draperies and chair might introduce a muted shade of a third color, perhaps gold, in antique taffeta. Tables should be fruitwood tone, common in Italian furniture. Stereo cabinet might have painted finish, mellowed antique tone of absinthe green found in old Venetian pieces. Column or urn shapes in alabaster or gilt gesso. If you want more color, bristol blue lamps and sofa pillows.

Q: What color should I paint my walls? Sofa and carpet are sandalwood, chair is dark, pine green, lamps are white and furniture is mahogany. I need new curtains, color for a channel back chair.

Q: Our bedroom is painted pale green and white. Spread is mint green with deep green skirt. Could I use royal blue? I have a boudoir chair I want to dye. What color pillows would you suggest?

A: I would like royal blue here but suggest you have it broken in pattern to avoid a shock effect. Dye the chair blue, make pillows of a blue and white printed toile or chintz. Use same print for welting on the chair. Curtains should be white or blue and white print.

Q We are remodeling our bathroom. We want yellow fixtures. We have oatmeal tile with cocoa trim in kitchen. Would you suggest it here too? What floor, upper wall, and curtain colors would you suggest?

A: With the yellow fixtures use pale yelolw tile for walls, cocoa trim would be excellent however, subtler than black. Use matching tile for the floor. Oatmeal would be second choice here. Upper walls would be best in pale willow green or sparkling white, curtains a stripe of bright yellow and white.

Accessories On Importance For Home Take

By VIVIAN BROWN

Wall accessories are an example. Cheap prints, gaudy brackets, and planters have been replaced by handsome wood, metal and tile wall accessories in 18th Century, modern or classical designs.

A collection of Danish Modern wall art features a stylized vertical tree with sculptured doves on berry - laden branches; a Viking barge; a set of four trees, representing the seasons. Key and fish still go to the walls. Wood figures are popular wall sculpture. Mirrors include copies of Chippendale and Louis XV designs.

A wall planter is in a Cornucopia design inspired by a Renaissance original. It is finished in gold leaf. A series of humorous floor planters include whimsical sculptural figures made of decorated aluminum.

Floor coverings feature more floral patterns to complement the trend to Early American and 18th Century furniture. Solid carpet colors include those that will harmonize with this new trend — a red-rust, gold, green and yellow.

New rug designs include tapestry weaves and monochromatic designs. Area rugs continue to be popular, and new techniques have made strong advances. Tuft-dyed multi - colored patterns in broadloom are made possible by forcing the tufts into shaped dye-wells of a pattern mold.

Hard floor coverings are growing in stature. The planks and squares of teak, oak, cherry and walnut vinyl are dressed lumber-deep, shaded into random striations to give the appearance of real wood. One flooring and counter topping is in Byzantine style tile art forms.

Lamp designs follow the Early American, Italian Classical and Modern theme. Classic forms of bottles, vases and urns are lamps.

BETROTHAL of Miss Sharon Dell Skinner to Jerome Thomas Vida of Nanticoke, Pa., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom M. Skinner of Alexandria, formerly of this area. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Vida, Nanticoke. The wedding will be celebrated September 2 at 2 p.m. in England Air Force Base chapel at Alexandria.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN L. Foster of North Hodge, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Annette to Ronald Wade Idom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Idom of Vivian. COLORFUL BATH

BACON CURLS

The flavor of bacon goes well with many foods. Bacon curls make an attractive garnish for sandwiches, chef's salads and omelets. To make the curls, bake slices of bacon on the broiler pan of your gas range. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Set the timer on the back panel for 12 minutes.

BERRY, APPLE DEEP DISH PIE

Combine 6 cups of sliced fresh apples with 1½ cups of fresh cranberries in a 10x6½x2 - inch casserole. Sprinkle with a mixture of 1 1-3 cups of sugar, ½ teaspoon of ground cinnamon, ¼ cup of flour and ¼ teaspoon of salt. Dot with 2 tablespoons of butter or margarine.

Cover with ⅛-inch-thick pastry, using 1 cup of flour. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Cut 2 or 3 gashes in top to allow steam to escape. Bake 15 minutes in a preheated 425 - degree oven, reduce the heat to 350 degrees and continue baking about 40 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Easy Main Dish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dilly sausage rolls are made with corn meal pastry. Sift together 1½ cups of sifted all - purpose flour, ½ cup of corn meal and 1 teaspoon of salt. Cut in ½ cup of shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add 4 to 5 tablespoons of water, 1 tablespoon at a time. Form into a ball. Roll on lightly floured board to an 8 by 15-inch rectangle. Cut into 6 pieces, 4 by 5 inches each. Pace 2 precooked sausage links and 1 dill pickle slice on each. Moisten edges with water, fold dough over filling and seal edges with fork tines. Bake 15 to 18 minutes in a preheated 425-degree oven. Serve with hot tomato sauce. Serves 6.

Tatoo Sailor Is Plagued With Anxiety

FOR SUNDAY AMs July 30
By JOSEPH L. MYLER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The tattooed sailor may be just as intelligent as his undecorated mates.

But, Navy studies show, he is likely to be less well adjusted to suffer more from anxiety.

A report on "The Psychological Significance of Tattoos" has been published by the Office of Naval Research. It was made by Richard P. Youniss of the psychology department of Catholic University of America.

Youniss, a reserve lieutenant in the Navy, noted that tattoos are "more commonly found among naval personnel than any other major segment of the U.S. male population."

He began his studies by taking an informal opinion poll among Navy and civilian personnel at a naval station. The answers added up to belief that the tattooed sailor is:

"Emotionally immature; providing that he is a tough guy; attempting to gain some indelible evidence of his identification with a rough - and - tumble masculine group; mixed up emotionally; the impulsive, over - aggressive type in the lower intelligence range."

A few brief studies made previously had indicated that tattoed men "seemed to be more personally and socially maladjusted than those without tattooes."

Not content with these studies, Youniss conducted new ones at the New London, Conn., submarine base. He made psychological tests of 648 men.

He found that men with only one tattoo were not much different emotionally from those with none. He also concluded that, "contrary to popular speculation," there is no difference in average intelligence "between the tattooed and non-tattoed men."

But men with two or more tatoos suffered "greater personal maladjustment" than the others. Moreover, men who wanted more tattoos "showed a significant increase in personal maladjustment and conflict as compared with those men... that showed no desire for additional tattoos."

"It is possible," Youniss said, "that obtaining tattoos is an attempt to resolve, deny or symbolically ward off anxiety.

"The high frequency of sexual and aggressive symbols depicted in the tatoos of the individuals in this investigation suggests that the obtaining of or desire for future tattoos frequently reflects the presence of unresolved sexual and aggressive conflicts which are causing current anxieties."

Parties Booked For Play Still To Be Written

Producer Joe Manchester authorized party agents to start signing up organizations to buy blocs of seats for performances of the production scheduled for autumn of 1962.

Kidd To Direct Subways Snooze Broadway Play

Kidd is currently represented on Broadway as co-producer and director of "Wildcat." Other staging assignments included "Destry Rides Again," "Li'l Abner," 'Guys and Dolls" and "Can - Can."

Patrick Hines Senior Member Festival Group

Returning for his sixth season with the troupe, Hines has appeared in 13 productions, more than anyone else. This year he has roles in all three presentations "Troilus and Cressida," "Macbeth" and "As You Like It."

Schary Taps

The writer - director - producer is penning "For Special Occasions," a chronicle of his early years. Following publication in book form, Schary hopes to complete theater version in time for mid - winter premiere.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Profit In Detour By Bobby Darin

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It looks like Bobby Darin is in Hollywood for good.

"Most actors are frustrated singers," says Bobby, "me, I'm a singer who is a frustrated actor. All my whole career so far is just a detour. I want to be an actor."

It's been one of the most profitable detours in history. Darin's income from records and night clubs equals or betters the take-home pay of many a top movie star.

FOUR FILMS

"I'm doing four pictures in a row," he says, "if I make it, then nightclubs will become a sideline with me."

Preview audiences have seen "Come September," the first of the four. Darin's got it. The same confidence, the same timing, the same poise that made him a nightclub favorite comes through in the movie.

Director Bob Mulligan, who directed, is not the least surprised. "I've never known any actor who approached his first role with as much assurance as Bobby. He handled himself as if he had been in as many pictures as Cary Grant. He moves."

Darin also composed the theme for the movie and a song he sings.

MILESTONE

"Come September" was a milestone in more ways than one for Bobby. He married his co-star, Sandra Dee, although he had never seen her in a movie before—not that that has any significance in marriage.

The other day at Hillcrest Country Club, the roundtable of the great comics, the subject of young entertainers came up.

Groucho Marx said: "There isn't a one of these new kids who could have played the Palace in the old days."

George Burns interrupted: "Bobby Darin could have." Milton Berle seconded that. And Marx amended himself to concede that Darin could have held his own at the famous mecca of entertainers.

THE HOME SHIFT

Select Types Of Daylilies

By MILDRED SWIFT

Daylilies are at the height of their bloom now, so this is a very good time to select the ones you want for your garden. With the large number of daylily growers in Ouachita Parish, one should have no trouble finding the varieties desired.

USE

If you're interested in the landscape value, you'll certainly want a number of plants of the same variety that bloom at the same time. For instance, if you're covering a slope or other spot in your garden, you don't want a spotted appearance or if you're defining a property boundary or driveway or walk, you want a continuous line of bloom. You'd not be as interested in quality as in quantity.

The hybridist, however, would seek the newest, most unusual to combine with his collection. The flower arranger wants varieties that stay open late, the collector, the "most talked about" varieties that no one else has.

If your garden is small, you'd want a few well grown clumps and not a scattered ill - sorted group. If your house is red brick, you'll want more reds or certainly you'd want to keep the yellows in the background.

BLOOMING TIME

Daylilies are grouped into three categories, early, mid-season, or late. So, you'd probably like to have plants from each grouping. Some daylilies have the happy faculty of blooming more than one time in a season. Some seem to have almost a continuous bloom, though there is no continuous bloomer listed in any catalogue.

WHEN BUYING

Since daylilies can be transplanted any time of the year (unless the ground is frozen or flooded) it's best to buy when the plants are in bloom. Then you know you're getting what you want. The seller can describe a variety to you, but often words don't portray the picture. You can order from pictures, but again it's next to impossible to mix a paint the same colors as mother nature produces.

I'm quoting from one of our large daylily catalogues, some points to keep in mind when making your selections.

1. Profuse bloom, over a long time. (The clump with repeating scapes assures that).
2. Good foliage, an asset in itself when the plants are not in bloom.
3. Vigorous growth. Weak growers are soon crowded out.
4. Erect scapes, blossoms lying on the ground have no garden value.
5. Quick shedding blooms that hang on are unsightly.
6. Roots easily contained.
7. Good substance, a bloom should hold color and form throughout the day.
9. Clear, carrying colors, not muddy or dull blooms.

ROOTING

This is the time to root camellias, azaleas and other evergreens. The current season's growth has hardened sufficiently, now. Cuttings may be rooted in the yard. Select a well drained, shaded spot, preferably on the north side of the garden.

Make cuttings from three to six inches in length, use only healthy ones, with no disease. Remove all leaves except the upper two. Using commercial growth-promoting preparations give good results as root inducers. These materials hasten root formation. Roots are formed in a shorter length of time. Use according to the instructions.

Good rooting media include coarse builder's sand, mixture of sand and peat moss, or a mixture of sand and vermiculite. For full instructions on rooting cuttings call our office for a camellia bulletin written by Kimbrough, Hanchey and Roussel.

OTHER JOBS

Don't forget to top your eucalyptus if it's shooting up very tall. This will give you a nicer shaped plant in the future. Staking for the first year helps this shaping process, too.

If you must work around your plants, work the soil only an inch or so deep. If you disturb feeder roots, now, plants can't take up the food and moisture they need. Mulching is far better than cultivation. Then you'll need only to pull weeds. Keep mulch renewed.

The county agents tell us about the only way to get the webs out of our pecan trees is to burn them out with a lighted kerosene soaked cloth torch, tied to the end of a fishing pole.

Hanging baskets are decorative from all sides. They can be used in an indoor area, den, porch or outdoors on a terrace or patio. Graceful ferns are suitable for basket planting for shady areas. There are cacti and succulents with airy, drooping branches for sunny locations. There are vines that take well to airborne containers. All should be taken down for thorough soaking instead of trying to water them as they swing in the breeze.

SQUARE OR POINT

There is a distinct possibility that 80 million women are confused. This represents a heap of confusion and calls for some clarification. The reappearance of the square toe shoe on mid-heels and lower is the cause for all the consternation. Spring showings of the Paris Couture featured the square toe on shoes with lowered heels. Some American shoe designers nipped off the pointed toe to form a square as early as a year ago.

Many more fashion leaders included a square toe in their spring daytime lines. The point is that the square toe is "in" for certain types of shoes. It looks best on walking and afternoon shoes, since the flattened square look demands a lowered heel.

The National Shoe Institute reports that this is not the only toe characteristic for fall. A gently rounded tip will appear in the lower heel daytime category.

Designers are working on many shapes. But to clear up any misconceptions, the elongated, pointed toe on a high, slender heel, so flattering to the feminine foot, will continue to be fashion's favorite for dressy wear.

EXTRA

One good way to launder a crinolin petticoat is to dip it up and down in warm soap or detergent suds in the bathtub, and then rinse it under the shower. Without wringing, hang it by the waistband to dry using a skirt hanger or springtype clothespins; or drape it over an open umbrella in the tub.

If you like a stiff, bouffant effect, apply full strength starch to the petticoat when dry.

ORPHAN IN KITCHEN

One criterion for judging a kitchen is the location of the refrigerator. It is often the orphan in the kitchen. Refrigerator doors that swing the wrong way create bottlenecks. The door should open adjacent to a work space, not opposite it. The 1961 refrigerators come with right and left-hand opening doors. They fit snugly to other appliances and cabinets so there's no need to isolate them.

To wash jet beads, put them into a strainer and dip up and down in a solution of lukewarm soap or detergent suds. Rinse well and dry on a turkish towel.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

How To Preserve Cut Flowers Told

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR
Guest Writer

So often when we cut our garden flowers we are dismayed because they do not hold up long enough to be arranged. It is important to know how to preserve cut flowers.

Some good tips on this are as follows:

Cut flowers early in the morning or early evening and place in deep water overnight or for a few hours before arranging.

Carry a watering - can of water or a wide mouthed jar to the garden when cutting flowers and place the flowers into the water immediately. Flowers with gummy or milky juices are especially in need of this treatment. Sear the stem ends of dahlias, hollyhocks, and hydrangeas about 30 seconds over a small flame, then put into cold water.

VINEGAR

A little vinegar added to the water in which flowers are to be placed will keep it fresher. Water on cut flowers should be changed daily. When cutting glads be sure to cut the partially opened buds because they open quickly when they start. The lower bloom can be pinched off, however, as the buds open.

Chrysanthemums and peonies will last longer if the stems are split for a length of two or three inches before putting in water. All woody stemmed plants should be beaten on the ends to allow water to absorb in the stem. Wilted flowers can often be revived by cutting off an inch of the stem and putting them into boiling water.

Let the flowers stand until this water is cool, then fill the container with cool water. It is a good thing to always cut stem ends of florist flowers before plunging into water. When a corsage arrives from the florist keep tightly covered in a cool place until ready to wear.

PRESENTS SHOW

Mrs. J. D. Murry of Ruston, an accredited flower judge and state parliamentarian for the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, gave the T.V. and Garden Center Show last week. Mrs. Murry brought several already made - up arrangements to analyze, but, she reconstructed one arrangement that had won a Blue Ribbon for her at the Peaches and Posies Show in Ruston last month. The title of this design was "Black Beauty" — inspired by the use of a black horse figurine, very modern in design. This figurine was placed on a rectangular stained wooden base. Using a small cup holder for a container the first placement was two stems of curved red Canna buds which followed the graceful lines of the horse's head and mane.

To the back of the horse she placed the foliage of the angel wing begonia, underneath side showing for the red color affect. One curved leaf was placed to follow the curved line of the horse's tail.

The cup holder was completely hidden from view by the placement of one large leaf folded over the lip of the container toward the front of the design. For the main interest she added two brilliant red cactus dahlias low in the front of the holder. This would be a very striking arrangement for the man's room or the den.

ANALYSIS

Mrs. Murry next analyzed a lovely, cool green and white arrangement. A low green bowl was selected for this design. The main or primary line was made by the placement of three - tiered iris leaves in the left side of the bowl. This line was accented on the left by several hosta leaves and white zennias, starting with the tight bud at the highest point coming down to the full open flower for the focal point. To the right and low she placed two green and white caladium leaves.

To create depth in this design several white zennias with their leaves were placed low in the back of the container. This arrangement would add coolness to any room in the house as well as beauty.

The third arrangement was one of oriental beauty. The Nageire design was achieved by simply using a tall gray pillar vase for a container, placing horizontally one graceful spring of Japanese yew to the right in the vase and another much shorter cluster of leaves in a vertical position. This design should show simplicity and naturalness and can be used upright slanting, or in a horizontal line. For interest one yellow glad blossom was placed in the focal area.

For horticulture Mrs. Murry showed an array of lovely zennias and gave pointers on how to buy seed in order to get the special varieties. She said it was best to buy the special types of seed rather than the mixed packages. Some of the beauties she showed were the fantasy, bright red curled petals; the Persian Strain, mixture of red and white; the dahlia types; and the lilliput or pom pom smaller type; also, Mrs. Frank Kaylor's seedling dahlia - red and white striped was very striking.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Learn About Lawn Grass

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

You can learn a great deal about the different kinds of lawn grass and what conditions they like by taking a stroll through the lawns and gardens of some of the elegant old places still left in most towns in the South.

Happily, there are still some people who love great stretches of lawn and are willing to maintain them.

Your columnist visited one of these lovely places last week. The lawn stretched away in all directions. It started in sunshine in the spacious front yard, passed underneath the light shade and then the deep shade of trees and kept going in all directions.

NO BREAK

There was no break in the lawn where it was in shade, full sun, on dry areas or on moist. What is the secret of this unbroken greenward? Its owner is a lover of grass. He is a prominent lawyer who goes like a house a-fire all during the week, but on week-ends, he mows and tends his lawn, himself.

Obviously, this was an old lawn where every known kind of grass and mixture had been sown, over and over agann. Wherever there was enough moisture and some shade from the burning sun during the longest days of summer, there was blue - grass.

On dry banks, those camels of the grass world, the fescues, had taken over. In full sun, several kinds of bermuda - grass grew in patches. Not much crab - grass was in evidence. It looked as if it had been crowded out by its betters.

Persistence and frequent re - seeding are necessary in the establishment of a turf on areas that have sun and shade, dry areas and moist. One simply can not get a good lawn in one season and keep it there.

RESEEDING

Reseeding, with shady place grasses underneath trees and sunny place grasses in full sunshine for several successive seasons will eventually produce a thick enough turf to crowd out most of the weeds.

On this lawn that I visited, one could see plainly that blue - grass grew only in the high shade of the trees. It ended exactly where the shadow of the trees at noonday ended in a circle.

Blue - grass cannot stand much drouth, either, and in the very dry areas in the shade the faithful old fescues were thick. In some places the two were intermingled, and one could safely bet that these spots were never very wet or very dry.

Mums Need Plant Food

By AUDREY DAWSON

Mrs. Gardener, it is time to fertilize chrysanthemums. Use 1½ pounds of complete fertilizer as 3-3-3 per 100 feet of row. Watch for leaf spot as it is a common disease of chrysanthemums. This disease can be controlled with captan. Aphids and red spider are the insects which attack these plants and they can be controlled with malathion.

Home gardeners should dig and replant Easter lily bulbs. Another job for you at this time is to remove and burn dead iris foliage and fertilize iris by working in bone meal around plants. Iris should be transplanted during the summer months.

If you want a good crop of dahlia blooms this fall, cut back the plant to about one-half their growth after the first crop blooms.

LSU HOME WEEK

Many homemakers have called about the programs for Home and Garden week, August 14-17 on LSU campus. In addition to the garden program as listed in my column last Sunday, there will be a demonstration on proper methods of cooking certain cuts of meats using modern equipment. Two experts on the selection, care and preparation of meats will conduct sessions on meat and your money.

Another subject will be: "Floor Care the Easy Way." Miss Delany, a home economics graduate of Florida State University, will show homemakers how to use the many supplies and equipment available for making floor care easy. Also, care needed for various hard surface floor coverings and for wood floors will be discussed.

Dr. Spindler, Federal Extension nutritionist, Washington, D.C., will discuss the subject food misinformation.

Creative hobbies will be another subject discussed during the week.

Home and Garden Week replaces Farm and Home Week, traditionally held on LSU campus during August. Those attending will be housed free of charge in the LSU dormitories. Meals may be provided at reasonable cost in the university cafeterias. The last session will be held Thursday morning. If you want more information on Home and Garden Week, call our office FA 3-2251.

PAINTING

Mrs. Homemaker it is a good idea to experiment first with a small piece of wood before painting the entire surface. Paint is a finish on which you can dictate the exact color. Paint is darker after it dries, so here again, testing will help get the color you want.

Very light, warm colors give a neutral background for furniture and help keep the home bright and cheery, even on the darkest day. Woodwork and walls painted the same color add space to the appearance of a smll room. Using related colors in adjoining rooms, not necessarily in the same way or the same values, helps create a feeling of unity while still allowing each room its individuality.

INTERESTING

It takes much less time to earn enough money to buy food in the U.S. than it does in many other countries. In August of 1959 it took seven minutes of work to buy a pound of potatoes in Moscow and only two minutes here, 82 minutes to buy a pound of beef rib roast while taking only 21 minutes here; and 31 minutes to buy a quart of milk and 7½ minutes here. It took nine times as much work to buy a pound of butter and 21 times as much work to buy a pound of sugar in Moscow as it did in New York City.

A THOUGHT

Three great essentials for happiness are: Something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.

Challenge

ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Flavian O'Donnell told parishioners at St. Anthony's church to bring along their children to a Novena being held. "I can yell louder than they can," he said.

CORVAIR WINS AGAIN

CORVAIR BY CHEVROLET

The smiling lady you see above is Denise McCluggage. With navigator Starr Hammen, she's just driven over 4,200 miles in seven days. One reason Denise is wearing the smile is that she and Starr won the coveted Coupe des Dames in this rugged Trans-Canada Rally, topping every other women's team entered. Another reason is that they beat some 90% of all the men's teams entered. In a rally, of course, you're given specific speeds (within legal limits) at which to complete each portion of the route. A minute early, a minute late—and you're penalized. Total penalties for Denise and Starr (remember, this event was 4,200 miles long): four minutes. Four.

Their car was a Corvair Monza Four-Door. Among the very few cars that topped them were two more Corvairs—Monza Club Coupes, one driven by Trant Jarman and Jim Bickham, the other by Dick Doyen and Clay Gibbs, who won the Canadian Winter Rally and the Frostbite 500 (all three Corvairs, like virtually every entry, were specially equipped for rally participation). This Trans-Canada Rally, competitors told us, was one of the most searing tests of car and crew in the world. They fought snow and dust, mountains and lonely plains, all the way from Montreal to Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Corvairs won the respect of everybody. And "everybody" includes some of Europe's finest rallyists, not to mention a goodly portion of Canada's population. But then, winning respect is an old habit of Corvair. If you don't believe it, try a drive in one at your Chevrolet dealer's. You'll soon be a true believer.

Put Mirrors To 'Work' In Decorating Schemes

Like exciting stage settings and set designs, beauty as well as special effects in decor can be "staged" in the home! The magic props are mirrors! Artfully used, these functional accessories inspire new decorative treatments.

Mirrors perform space, light, focal and decorative magic. They can give a small room the feeling of an expanse of space; make dark corners lighter and more important; coordinate furniture groupings, or simply inject warmth and brightness into drab settings.

Stagelight "dark" area with a practical nd pretty mirror treatment. One of the newest combines an unframed wall mirror hung vertically above a low table or bench.

A mirror properly placed will help to make small rooms seem larger and more livable. The magic trick — create new windows of light and pattern with mirrors, or — use a single mirror panel on the wall immediately adjacent to a window wall. Carry the panel from floor to ceiling to achieve a two window effect and give the illusion of double depth and space.

Place your mirrors so that they catch outdoor reflections. Make it reall authentic by adding shutters to either side of the mirror.

By placing a mirror on the wall space between two windows that are either too long and narrow, or too small you can obtain the effect of one integrated unit. The mirror is your "third window," reflecting beauty and pattern from inside the room.

Gain visual relief from a patterned wallpaper by using a framed mirror on the wall to break up the monotony of pattern, and to create a "picture point" of interest.

Slim mirror panels or mirror groupings can help brighten a stairway, "break up" a too large wall area and create a focal point of interest for a prized possession when used in combinaton with pictures or other decorative wall accessories.

Try some mirror magic of your own. For best reflections, always use a good plate glass mirror; viewed from any angle they project true beauty in the home!

MOVES STATION

MIAMI (UPI)—The U.S. Immigration Service announced Friday it has moved its processing station for Cuban refugees from Miami International Airport to Opa-Locka Airfield, a former U.S. Navy base.

An immigration spokesman said the facilities were too crowded at the international airport and processing for the daily influx of Cubans slowed up the handling of arrivals from other Latin American countries.

Scenery Improves At Breakfast

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

Ralph Montenero has not yet chosen the woman who will share his breakfast table, but he has abiding pity for those husbands who must each morning face pin-curled, cold - creamed creatures in ragged robes.

His sympahy extends to career women — ones who can hardly wait to get home to shed their fashionable constrictions for more expansive (but sloppy) comfort.

Thus, to improve romance, comfort, beauty and modesty in the American home, Montenero has turned his talents to creating lingerie that leads a double life.

To be worn over soft, filmy night gowns he has made opaque peignoirs and doublets which do not so much as hint at being "boudoir."

Unhampered by underpinnings, a woman can don one of these costumes early in the evening, lounge comfortably without pulling the shades down, and in no more time than it takes to stifle a yawn remove the outer garment and be ready for bed.

"The importance is in the cut," says the handsome, slight, sometimes blushing 27-year-old who has been designing women's clothes since he was 19. "The costume is made to flatter the bust and hide the stomach. Not jazzy and not with a lot of doodads."

After eight years of designing daytime wear, Montenero turned to the sleepwear field because "I have a feel for soft fabrics, and because "there is more opportunity for originality."

To avoid the boudoir look, he has combined some unique materials. One of his peignoirs, he says, looks like a shaggy rug, but those stringy, man - made fibers are washably practical.

Has he done what he set out to accomplish? As a result of his costumes, do men have a better view at breakfast? Career girls more comfortable neatly? Homemakers less embarrassed over their procrastination at getting dressed?

His "guinea pig" Mrs. Sylvia Doole, (28, mother of two, and an enviable size 10) believe Montenero's designs do all of that.

And she would be just as enthusiastic, even if he were not her brother.

Diabetic Can Now Participate In Active Sport

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — If a child of yours has diabetes, don't keep him in a rocker on the patio most of the summer.

At a pioneer camp for diabetic children it's been proved that the diabetic youngster can safely enjoy the same active sports as any other child — rowing, tennis, baseball, basketball, swimming.

The children can participate in these vigorous, healthful activities if they have been taught to pace themselves.

Dr. Abraham H. Kantrow, vice president of the New York Diabetes Association, cited the camp —NYDA — in an interview concerning the status of the battle against childhood diabetes.

"Facilities like these are becoming available to more and more of the 150,000 diabetic children," Dr. Kantrow said.

At the camp, the children are taught to accept diabetes and to live with it. There's emphasis on self-sufficiency.

The children learn to administer their own insulin and the care for insulin and the injection equipment. They also learn to control their diets and to face themselves.

"Before insulin," Dr. Kantrow said, "the life expectancy for a diabetic child was about two years. Now, a diabetic child can lead practically the same life as that of any of his normal friends—if given the chance.

WARNS AGAINST CODDLING

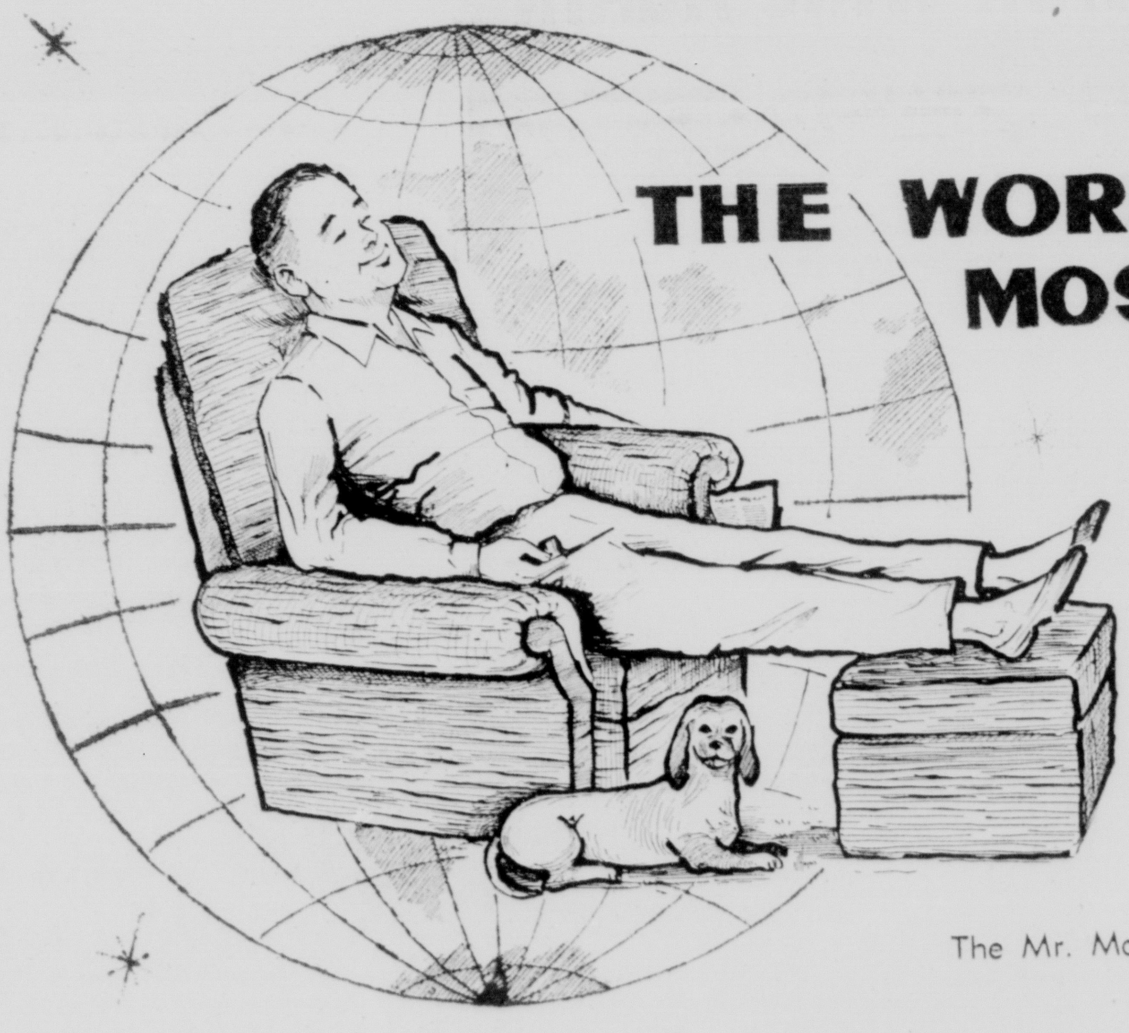

Dr. Kantrow said the most important thing for the parents of a diabetic child to remember is that this condition is no reason to excessively coddle their child or to shield him unnecessarily from the outside world.

"We have an almost endless list of diabetics living active, productive lives," the expert said. "Among these are the world-famous tennis players, Bill Talbert and Ham Richardson, both of whom have been diabetics since early childhood."

Parents of diabetic children are advised to concentrate on three things: See that their child gets regular, controlled exercise and active play, see that good control of the diabetes is maintained as outlined by his doctor, an see that the child maintains good general health.

CHANGES U.S. POLICY

JFK Curtailing Nuclear Weapons Military Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is curtailing the central role which nuclear weapons have played in U.S. military strategy for almost a decade.

His main purpose, according to informed officials, is to give the United States and its allies a more flexible policy and wider range of choices in meeting aggressive Soviet actions.

Since military power often is the basis of foreign policy, the result may also be to give the Western powers a more flexible diplomatic policy, resulting in a somewhat bolder offensive strategy in the cold war.

The over-all effect of the developing Kennedy doctrine is to mark an end to the policy of massive retaliation as it was understood during most of the years of the Eisenhower administration.

The implication of that policy—and what made it so controversial in domestic politics — was that it threatened direct retaliation against Moscow for an aggressive blow at the Allied world anywhere along the huge European-Asian frontier of the cold war.

Kennedy, as senator and as presidential candidate last year, was one of the critics of the policy of primary reliance on nuclear power. His plans for building up U.S. military power to cope with the Berlin challenge and with other peril points of the future has now disclosed the board outlines of his approach to this problem more sharply than any actions he had previously taken.

He himself summarized his purposes in curtailing nuclear strategy as related to Berlin. He said: "We intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear action."

One authority summed it up this way following the Kennedy speech and his formal proposals to Congress on Wednesday: "What the administration is trying to do is confront Khrushchev with a believable counterthreat so he can understand that we are in deadly earnest and will fight for Berlin."

In Kennedy's view the United States, its allies and, indeed, the Soviets, should have a first choice of making a test of wills in conflict without using any nuclear weapons at all. If the Soviets start a fight without employing nuclear weapons at once, the United States would react with an appropriate counterforce. The need Kennedy said in his speech Tuesday night, is to "meet all levels of aggressor pressure with whatever levels of force are required."

Tactical nuclear weapons would be employed as battlefield weapons of second choice—the weapons of first choice being non nuclear or conventional weapons.

Several officials with whom this point was discussed said Kennedy had made clear in the highest councils of the government and in talks with Allied leaders on his recent trip to Europe that he will not hesitate to use nuclear weapons if the vital interest of the West requires. It is understood that he sought to make this clear to Soviet Premier Khrushchev in their meeting at Vienna.

With respect to a third set of possibilities, the concept of massive retaliation obviously remains valid. If the Soviets attack the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies with massive forces Kennedy's rule of meeting aggression "with whatever levels of force are required" would undoubtedly mean nuclear retaliation in the same sense that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meant it.

The policy of massive retaliation was proclaimed by Dulles in January 1955. Its companion policy covering military cost was that described by the secretary of defense at that time, Charles E. Wilson, as "more bang for a buck."

After the Korean War ended in 1953 and the whole military establishment subjected to a searching review in 1954 Eisenhower progressively cut back on the size of the military forces measured in men and built up their nuclear capability.

The Kennedy administration, political heir to the Truman administration which made the decision to go into Korea after the 1950 attack by the Communists in the north, holds a somewhat different view about the war. Truman administration officials argued it was vital to demonstrate that the United States would fight to block aggression by force. But it felt also it was vital to accept a peace short of total victory—otherwise even a small war would inevitably build up into a destructive nuclear war.

Another element in the difference between doctrines of the two administrations is that Eisenhower came into office at a time when the United States had a clear, though declining, advantage in nuclear striking power. But in the latter half of the 1950s the Soviet Union had achieved a condition of parity with the West which simply meant that the Soviets had the power to do crippling damage to the United States and its allies.

It was thus in the last half of the 1950s that the Eisenhower administration began to back away from the early concept of massive retaliation. It developed a family of varied tactical nuclear weapons of limited range for battlefield use and sought to establish a distinction between such weapons and the great, city-destroying nuclear bombs.

The last years of the Eisenhower administration appear in the present perspective as a time of transition away from the idea of massive retaliation. Now Kennedy, while retaining the full range of nuclear capability, is trying to create a new capacity for conventional warfare with the result that the United States may be able to follow a more flexible strategy in dealing not only with Berlin but also with other points of Communits conflict.

TWO OF FIDEL Castro's 10 prisoner-envoys have decided not to return to jail in Cuba on Monday, a spokesman for the group said Saturday in Miami. Reynaldo Pico , 26, left, and Milton Collazo, 27, right, are married and their wives are in Cuba. The spokesman said he would not give specific reasons for their refusal to return. SOLONS HURL CHARGES

Records Secrecy Dispute Flares

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House committee contended Saturday that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration kept certain records secret "for political purposes rather than in defense of the Constitution" during last year's presidential election.

A Republican member promptly charged that the subcommittee which originated the report had shown itself to be "a tax-supported political propaganda machine," costing $200 a day in staff expenses.

The dispute is over a report by the House Government Operations Committee on activities during the last half of 1960 by the subcommittee on Government Information.

Rep. Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan, only Republican member of the subcommittee, took exception in a statement and in formal minority views to the conclusions in the majority report.

"Neither the majority subcommittee or the full committee, which had approximately $1 million to spend on investigations, can, under the guidance of that skillful master politician, its chairman, the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. (William L.) Dawson, succeed in concealing its tendencies to politically aid the Democratic national party," Hoffman said.

The majority report itself said that "Secrecy is not the exclusive property of any one political party. Secrecy is the handmaiden of bureaucracy, especially military bureaucracy."

And Hoffman said, "There is no question but that members of the Eisenhower administration, just as have federal employes in all other administrations, just as the Kennedy administration has done to date, were reluctant to reveal their own shortcomings."

He said Eisenhower "never was a practicing political president."

The issue of congressional vs. executive rights to information, Hoffman said, will never be settled without a judicial determination.

The report discussed several instances of what the majority called withholding of information from Congress or the public.

It gave special attention to the controversy over the public opinion poll made abroad for the U.S. information Agency which became an issue in the campaign between John F. Kennedy and the Republican candidate, vice President Richard M. Nixon. Nixon contended U.S. prestige was high. Kennedy said it had fallen.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked for the USIA polls which according to unofficial published summaries, cast doubt on Nixon's contention. USIA refused on the ground the polls were staff reports and working papers and therefore confidential within the executive branch.

The House committee said this was a claim of executive privilege to hide "facts which would refute certain campaign statements."

The report also said "The Pentagon attempted to suppress some embarrassing research studies at election time. One such study was withheld for an entire week—and was actually hand delivered the day after the election."

This referred to a research report on the air raid warning system and one comparing economic growth rates of the United States and the U.S.S.R.
